Fire District Merger Talks Open On A 'General Note'

Finances and general information about the operation of the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District monopolized much of the first meeting between trustees from the fire district and the Hoffman Estates Village Board Tuesday.

The four-man committee, composed of village trustees Edward Hennessey and Dyrle Rathman, and Mark Dick and Jack Callison of the fire district, met to study the feasibility of making the fire district a municipal department.

The group voted to make Rathman chairman of the committee. Dick will serve as secretary. The committee will meet twice a month, on the second and fourth Wednesday, at Fire Station No. 1, at 160 Flagstaff Ln.

Many of the questions during the almost three-hour meeting came from Hennessey and dealt with general background information about the operation of the fire district.

He asked about costs for new fire stations, equipment, operating budgets and several other financial matters.

HENNESSEY was told that for the village to take over the district a fourth fire station would be needed in the Winston Knolls area north of the Northwest Tollway. The cost for this station fully equipped would be about $500,000. He also was told manpower for the station would cost about $250,000 per year. Insurance ratings would require a station there to maintain present insurance rates, because other stations are too far away.

Kelly also questioned whether a village takeover of the fire district would put the village near their limit on bonded indebtedness when the village assumed the fire district's debts. The committee agreed to explore this facet of the topic.

Hennessey told the 25-30 persons who attended the meeting that the committee was studying the feasibility of a municipal fire department.

"We will try to determine if it would be more advantageous to the residents of the village to operate a municipal department rather than the present system," he said.

Besides the fate of the village property north of the tollway, which is currently outside the fire district, legal matters will probably represent a major topic before the committee.

FIRE DISTRICT Attorney Francis Kelly suggested that the legal complexities might require special legislation before the village could take over the fire district. He added the western part of the village, which is served by the Hanover-Wayne Fire Protection District, would cause problems because that district is currently retiring a bond issue.

The meeting ended with the committee deciding that a number of topics needed further consideration among them the situation of the Winston Knolls area.

Currently the subdivision of about 300 homes is served by the Palatine Rural Fire District. A village takeover would require service to that area.

Fire district officials do not believe the $16,000 currently received in tax revenue from the area can go too far in financing a separate fire station there.

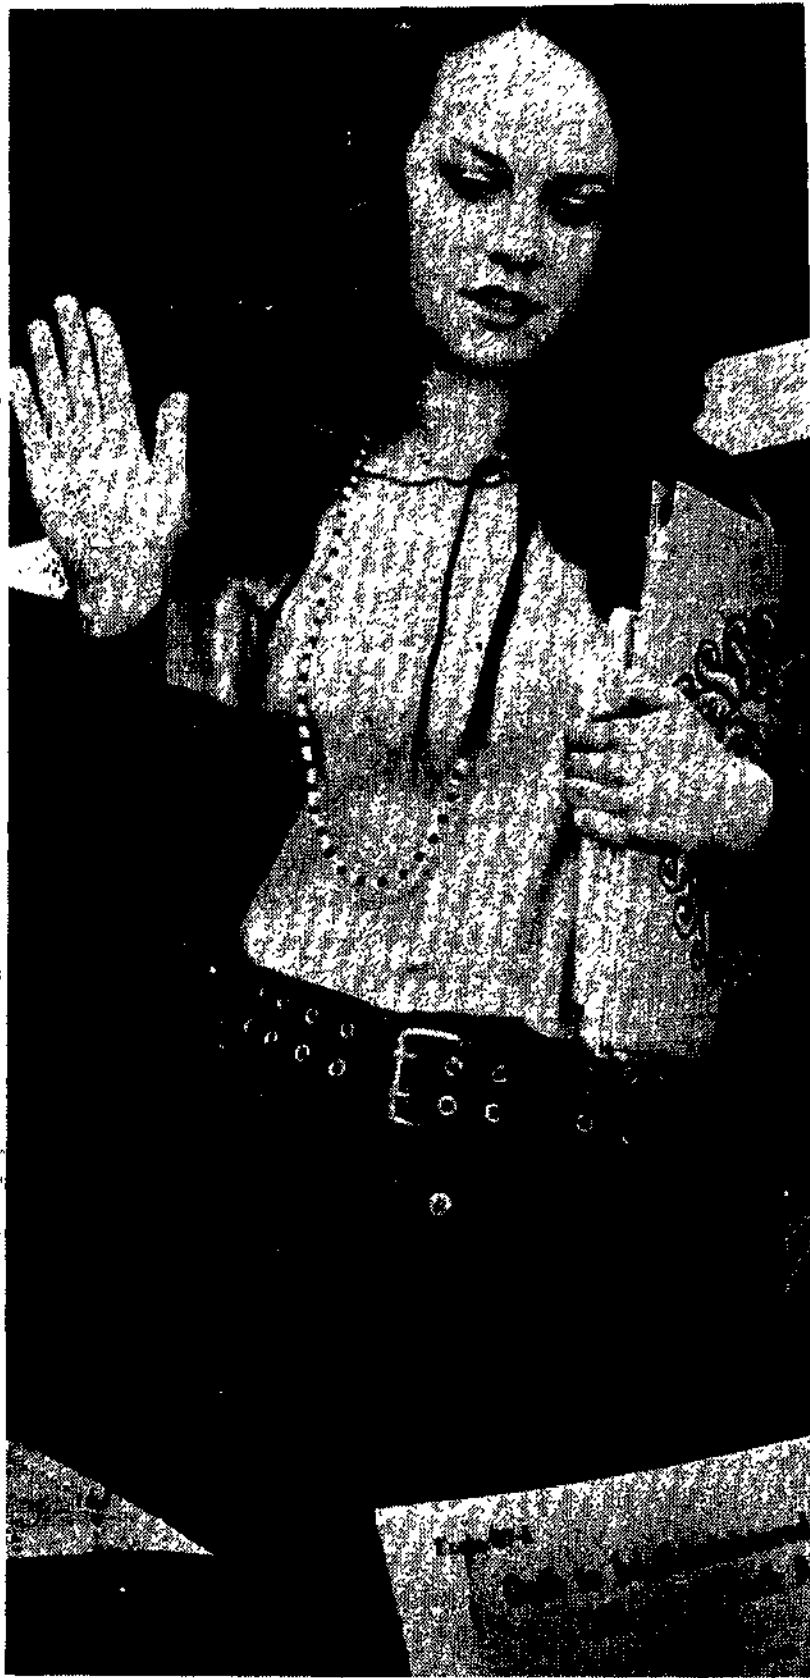

Several other pieces of property in that area are also within the village, but are tied up in litigation. Village officials said they had no idea when development might take place in that area to increase the revenue received by the fire district.

KELLY suggested the problem over Winston Knolls might be solved if the village would agree to underwrite the cost of the fire district equipment and service in the area.

Rathman remarked, "I think I can give you an answer to that question now."

Earlier, the committee had come to the agreement that any immediate large-scale increase of fire service, by either the village or the district, would probably mean an increase in real estate taxes.

The committee will meet again March 8.

I DO, said Lillian Ahern, a senior at Schaumburg High School, to the oath each person must take before registering to vote. She was one of almost 400 persons who registered Tuesday in a special one-day program aimed at 18-21-year-olds in Schaumburg Township. The program was held at 95 locations throughout the county.

395 Register To Vote At Schaumburg High

Almost 400 persons took advantage of a special voter registration program sponsored by the Cook County Election Board at Schaumburg High School Tuesday.

About half of the 395 persons who registered were between the ages of 18 through 21, according to Schaumburg Township officials. The countywide program was held at about 95 locations and was aimed at attracting the young people who have just become eligible to vote.

Many of the locations were in area high schools and community colleges.

Mrs. Sharon Kimble of the township office said the voter registration program in Schaumburg ran out of registration cards and had to borrow them from a similar registration center at Harper College in Palatine.

"I thought the turnout was very good," Mrs. Kimble said of the one day effort. Both township and Cook County election officials combined to man the registration center for 11 hours Tuesday.

Cook County officials did not have final tabulations for all registration centers yesterday.

Schaumburg Township offices will accept voter registration for the March 21 primary until Feb. 21. The offices are open from 9 a.m. until noon and 1 until 4 p.m. daily except Wednesday and Saturday from 9 a.m. until noon.

To be eligible to vote in the March primary, a person must be at least 18 years old by the date of the election and have lived in the state for six months and the precinct for 30 days. He also must be a U.S. citizen.

The township offices are located at 165 S. Roselle Rd., Schaumburg.

'Woman's Activity Room' A Bedroom?

Persons buying Levitt & Sons quadrangle on Bode Road near Barrington Road might think a second-level "woman's activity room" is an extra bedroom, according to Schaumburg officials.

So, the village board Tuesday referred Levitt representatives back to the Schaumburg Development Committee for a floor plan change.

The meeting to be held Feb. 24, will be aimed at eliminating any chance of converting the two bedroom quadrangle units into three bedroom dwellings.

Levitt and Sons representatives, Cliff Johnson and Jim Leakow insisted salesmen who show the new quadrangle units in Sheffield Manor state they are two bedroom.

Leakow told the trustees the top story of the two-level units had so much room left over after bathroom closets and two bedrooms were sectioned that a "woman's activity room" seemed sensible.

HE DID NOT share the trustees' concern that the activity room, an 85-sq.-ft. alcove could be screened and used as a bedroom area.

Noting that a washer and dryer were located in the hall adjacent to the open area Leakow said it was no different than any other service room.

Trustee Herb Aigner was firm in his opinion the woman's activity room was a perfect nursery or room for a small child.

The exchange between board and builder got sharp with Levitt stating homeowners could put beds in a living or dining room as easily as in the activity room.

Schaumburg Atty. Jack Siegel wouldn't accept any theorizing and noted the brochures that list the rooms dimensions are misleading since they include the full hallway area in front of the alcove.

"When you make an area that inviting I call it a third bedroom," he charged.

In spite of the builder's insistence the matter could be settled with further discussion that night, the board ended it and told Levitt to go to the development committee.

Major Crime Decreases 15% In Hoffman Estates

Major crime in Hoffman Estates decreased about 15 per cent during 1971 according to a report recently released by the Hoffman Estates police department.

The document, which includes all incidents reported to police, shows sharp decrease in the number of aggravated assaults reported, 38 in 1971 versus 73 reported in 1970, and robberies, 16 in 1971 versus 25 reported in 1970.

The majority of the major crime reported fell into the category of theft and burglary. Decreases reported in both grand theft and theft less than $50 in value.

The number of burglaries reported to police increased from 410 to 438.

A similar report from the Schaumburg police released last month showed an increase in major crime, primarily in the area of burglary and auto thefts. Many of the burglaries were attributed to break-ins which occurred in model display homes, according to Schaumburg Police Chief Martin Conroy.

No cases of murder or forcible rape were reported to Hoffman Estates police during the year. A single manslaughter by negligence was reported by the police.

Hoffman Estates Police Chief John

O'Connell, attributed the decrease in major crimes to an increase in patrols and additional manpower approved by the village last year.

O'CONNELL ADDED the crime decrease occurred while the population of the village increased (by approximately 5,000 persons).

During 1971 the department added five new patrolmen. The chief's report also states that 24 men in the department received some type of advance training. Included in this group are the first patrolmen in Hoffman Estates to complete the University of Illinois basic police training course.

O'Connell also stated in his report that he is looking forward to occupying new facilities in the village hall under construction.

Increases in the number of traffic accidents is also brought out in the report. There were almost 500 accidents in the village last year, but the increase represents 81 more incidents than in 1970.

Police issued more than 2,400 traffic citations in 1971 for moving violations, an increase of 706 over the previous year. They also issued more than 1,000 traffic tickets during the year.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Some 15,000 West Coast longshoremen began balloting in 24 ports in a vote that could end the longest dock strike in U.S. history by Sunday.

President Nixon leaves Washington for a 12-day trip to China to open "a new chapter" in relations with the world's most populous country.

Sen. George McGovern suggested the sensible way to handle the marijuana problem might be to legalize its use and impose regulations similar to those used to control the sale of alcoholic beverages.

$250,000 bond.

A U.S. District Court judge signed a temporary order putting into effect the agreement reached by Democrats and Republicans to protect government employees from doing forced political work. It stipulates that state, county and local government employees in 18 northern Illinois counties cannot be fired or harassed for failure to do political work or to make political contributions.

The State

Elementary and secondary education will get the largest fund increase in Gov. Richard Ogilvie's fiscal 1973 budget. Ogilvie said he will recommend an allocation of $1.063 billion for elementary and secondary education, 15 per cent more than he recommended last year.

The three Chicago businessmen who were found shot to death last Friday in Indiana received a letter promising a profitable financial deal if they attended a meeting in Gary, police said. One of the victims received the letter asking all three men be present at a restaurant in Gary on the night of the slayings.

The World

China now ranks as "perhaps the third most important nuclear power in the world" and the United States must be prepared to fight simultaneous atomic wars with both China and the Soviet Union, said Adm. Thomas Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

A three-man junta put Ecuador under virtual military control after a bloodless coup in which the armed forces overthrew President Jose Velasco Ibarra for the fourth time since 1933 and sent him into exile in Panama.

The War

Hanoi radio charged several flights of American warplanes bombed and strafed a number of populated areas in Quang Binh province and that two jets were shot down. The U.S. command disclaimed any knowledge of the raids. In Paris, the Viet Cong charged the American refusal to attend the next session of the peace talks was "sabotage" and that the only way to solve the war was at the conference table.

School Children Will Vote To Determine 'Native Oak'

Illinois school children will be voting during the next few weeks to decide which of 19 oak tree species will be the "native oak."

Currently all 19 species share the honor. To settle the question, the state legislature last year decided to put the matter to a vote in our public and private schools.

The legislature has narrowed the selection down to eight species most commonly found in the state. The state education office has distributed ballots and materials illustrating the eight contenders to some 6,000 schools statewide.

The tree selected by the students will be announced at special ceremonies April 28, the date of the centennial observance of Arbor Day. The ceremonies will include a planting of the winning tree at a location to be determined.

SPECIES OF oak running for the state tree designation include: white oak, growing as high as 150 feet and valuable commercially for lumber; bur oak, having the largest leaves and acorns of all oak trees; chinquapin oak, an attractive shade tree of heavy wood; and the northern red oak, a symmetrical tree with brilliant red leaves in autumn.

Other contenders are: pin oak, a landscape favorite with long branches; scarlet oak, a valuable timber tree with beautiful fall colors; black oak, the most consistent acorn producer; and shingle oak, good for firewood, shingles, and common lumber.

School Lunch Menus

Creek Cleaners To Be Honored

Special recognition will be bestowed on volunteers in Schaumburg's Clean the Creeks project, held last September, in an 8 p.m. ceremony Monday in the Great Hall, 217 S. Civic Dr., Schaumburg.

Presiding will be Valentine Janicki, trustee with the Metropolitan Sanitary District and chairman of MSD's flood control drainage and storm flow committee.

The project was organized by Ken Dopp, member of the Schaumburg Board of Health, in cooperation with The Herald. Assisting was Jack Larsen, village trustee and chairman of the Clean Environment Committee.

Dopp also planned the ceremony, during which Janicki will present certificates of recognition to the more than 150 persons who spent Sept. 11, 12 and 18 clearing debris from creeks in the community. Support for the project was widespread, and volunteers from villages surrounding Schaumburg also played a large part in the volunteer efforts. When completed, in one day less than the originally allotted time, the project was termed a major success both in creek cleaning and in promoting cooperation among residents of both communities.

The certificates are signed by both Janicki, who will personally present them, and by MSD President John E. Egan. Janicki also will speak briefly, and show slides.

Shortly after the project was announced by Dopp, The Herald began an editorial campaign to inform the public of what was planned, and to help enlist volunteers. The goal of 200 persons pledging their services was achieved. The Herald ran a daily list of volunteers along with articles promoting the worth of the project.

After the project, Dopp termed the results "fantastic." The volunteers cleaned 30 miles of creeks, removing such varied items from the waterways as a baby buggy, stroller, golf balls, toys, barbed wire and concrete. The debris was trucked from the sites by volunteers from the Schaumburg Public Works Department. Men from Schaumburg Civil Defense supervised the volunteers.

Scout Pack Plans Blue-Gold Banquet

The Scouts in Cub Pack 193 at Lakeview School in Hoffman Estates are making plans for the annual Blue and Gold Banquet to be held Friday at Helen Keller Junior High School.

At the Pack's meeting on Jan. 28 an inspection of uniforms was made by members of Boy Scout Troop 208.

The Wolf award was presented to David Aldrich. The Webelos engineer and geologist awards were presented to David Clemens.

Awards were also presented to a number of the Cubs for their work in a recent fund raising program.

Children's Book Drive Starts Friday

A drive to collect books for the children's wards at Cook County Hospital and local hospitals begins Friday.

The drive is sponsored by the Hoffman Estates Woman's Club, assisted by Camp Fire Girls and Bluebird troops.

Drop off boxes will be placed in Guido's Food Store, Higgins and Roselle roads, and the Jewel Food Store in Hoffman Plaza. Also, the Camp Fire and Bluebird troops will conduct a door-to-door canvass in the village.

More information can be obtained by calling Claudette Gaston, club education committee chairman, at 882-5273.

Hanover Nurses Offer Scholarship

Residents of Hanover Township who are planning to enter an accredited school or college of nursing may be able to receive a scholarship to finance a segment of their education.

Applications are now available from the Hanover Township Nurses Association. The scholarship is awarded to a freshman nursing student.

Last year the nurses association awarded two $250 scholarships.

Scholarship application forms may be obtained from Mrs. Raymond Voelker, 324 W. Greenmeadows Blvd., Streamwood. The applications must be completed and returned to her by April 1.

CONANT HIGH SCHOOL students listen as Victor Vela, foreground, and Nolan Brown Jr. explain how they assist blacks and Latinos obtain membership in Chicago area building trade unions. The two, both employed by the Chicago Urban League, appeared at Conant as part of its observance of Negro History Week.

Urban League Speakers Tell Conant Students:

Law Helps Minorities Into Unions

by BOB ANDERSEN

A recent Department of Labor decision is helping increase minority group membership in trade unions.

That is the opinion of Nolan Brown Jr. and Victor R. Vela, both counselors with the Chicago Urban League. Both men are working on a federally-subsidized project designed to get blacks, Latinos, Chinese and other minority people working as apprentices in the building trades.

The two spoke to Conant High School students Wednesday as part of the school's observance of Negro History Week. They were invited to speak by Miss Karen Blatt, teacher of Conant's African Studies class.

THE DEPARTMENT of Labor last year decreed the work of all federally subsidized construction projects must be "approximately 23 per cent" minority, the two explain.

Brown explained all local federally subsidized projects can be scrutinized to make sure they comply. If the contractor isn't complying, he can be forced to hire more minority workers, he added.

One of the students asked Brown if the Federal requirement isn't, in fact, discriminatory against white workers.

"There are prejudices holding back blacks in the building trade unions," Brown replied. The only way to counteract this prejudice, he continued, is with requirements such as the Department of Labor dictum. "We have to use percentages," he said.

BROWN AND VELA feel if the Federal dictum is enforced, the building trade unions are going to have to open their doors to minority people if they are to supply the necessary workers.

Are the unions allowing only token minority membership was another student question.

Brown explained the unions are opening up a little, but things are still bleak for the black craftsman. Percentages are the only solution, he reiterated.

Vela was asked what he thought of Latinos, principally Mexican-Americans, who come to the U.S. to work and make money, and then take the money home to Mexico.

"We are here to stay," he responded, adding the transient Latin worker, though a decided minority, are an occasional problem. But, he pointed out, these workers are exploited by employers. They work 16 and 18 hour days at $1.50 and $2 per hour, he explained.

THE WORKERS CAN'T speak out because they fear being sent back, he added.

Latins often present special problems, as they seek apprenticeships, Vela said. There are the language and communication problems, he explained. Anybody desiring to become an apprentice must pass a written test. Also, Vela said, many Latinos aren't U.S. citizens. The building trade unions require its members to be citizens.

Brown and Vela "tutor and shape up" potential minority apprentices before sending them to the unions for admittance. Brown, who started working for the urban league last May has had 10 blacks "indentured" or working as apprentices thus far. He reports helping another 40 prospective black apprentices, most of which will be indentured.

"IT'S GETTING better," he said. "But it's still bad."

Vela reported he handled upwards of 2,000 applications for apprenticeships last year. Most of the applications were made from among members of Chicago's 500,000 Latin community.

Of that amount, only 200 made it as apprentices, he said.

Seeks Liquor License, Gets Lecture

A lecture came with the Schaumburg Village Board's favorable recommendation on Frank Radosta's request for a liquor license Tuesday, and Radosta, owner of the Paddock Restaurant, took both with a "thank you."

The decision to license is up to Schaumburg Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher. However, the village board by a 4-2 vote recommended Paddock Restaurant's liquor license be renewed.

Radosta is remodeling the eating and drinking establishment, located in Town Square at Schaumburg and Roselle roads. Tuesday he accepted a chiding lecture from Trustee Jack Larsen.

Radosta, according to Larsen, made drastic structural and business changes in his restaurant without coming to the village for a permit.

"You've wasted valuable board time on an issue that would not have happened if you had operated according to ordinance," said Larsen.

LAST WEEK trustees, at the mayor's request, inspected Radosta's business and received his assurance that all building health and village ordinances will be complied with.

He was appealing for renewal of his liquor license, which was granted when his bar operation was substantially smaller than his restaurant business.

At present the liquor and food sales floor areas are approximately equal. However the restaurant portion would seat about 60 and the bar is planned for 20 stools.

The trustees main concern was overloading of the 1,800-square-foot establishment. Trustee Herb Aigner, who voted against approval with Trustee Ray Kessell, said Radosta's seating layout was "crowded, and a fire and safety hazard."

However, Radosta insisted it was a makeshift arrangement that could be changed, noting he must make his customers comfortable to stay in business.

Trustee Peter Justen told Radosta that the restaurant and bar capacity maximum is 120 people, adding that this includes the staff.

The trustees recommendation will be passed on to Atcher, who was absent due to an injury.

Another Douglas McArthur Returns

Once again, Douglas McArthur has returned.

But this Douglas McArthur is a Specialist Four in the U.S. Army, not a general, and he returned home to Hoffman Estates, not to war.

McArthur came home from Vietnam yesterday to rejoin his wife for a leave at their home at 121 Bradley, Hoffman Estates, and to see his 5-month-old son Jamie for the first time. He had been in Vietnam a year, serving as a military policeman near the Cambodian border.

McArthur, and his wife, the former Sue Guilfoil, both formerly lived in Arlington Heights.

Nuisance Law Violators Are Notified

think we have the best garbage pickup in the area," said Mrs. Martin McAndrew, manager of Prairie Ridge. Both complexes use the Wayne Disposal Co. of Elgin for collections, and Mrs. McAndrew said, "we think they're fantastic."

Joseph Dusablon, managing agent of Barrington Square, agreed there had been problems during the past two weeks. But he said they resulted from difficulty in emptying the "dumpster" receptacles because of snow, and were just temporary.

"There wasn't as much garbage spread around as they're trying to make an issue out of. Everything right now is in top-top shape. There's no problem whatsoever. I think the village is making a mountain out of a molehill," said Dusablon.

Dumpsters are emptied three times per week at each of the complexes, said the spokesmen. While the receptacles at Prairie Ridge are plainly visible in parking areas those at Barrington Square are enclosed in fences of rough sawn cedar, with metal gates.

With snow, said Dusablon, there was difficulty lifting the dumpsters, which sometimes were frozen to the ground, said Dusablon. But representatives from Wayne spent eight hours cleaning the area Feb. 9, and "there is absolutely no problem right now," he said. He contended the difficulties were not out of the ordinary, and have been "straightened out."

MRS. McANDREW said twice in recent weeks the truckers were unable to empty the dumpsters on the regular days, because cars were parked blocking access to them. But the trucks returned the following day, and maintained the three-times-a-week pickup schedule, she said.

Also, Mrs. McAndrew said Vavrus Associates, developers of Prairie Ridge, hire a man full time to clean around the receptacles. Twice daily he makes a circuit of the complex, making sure the receptacle doors are opened to allow deposit of garbage. If one compartment is full, he closes that door and opens another, she said.

Commenting that other areas, including single-family residential districts, sometimes look like "a disaster area," Mrs. McAndrew invited Cowin to discuss the matter with her.

"I really don't see where anyone could find a problem at Prairie Ridge with garbage. The whole thing is just ridiculous," she said.

MacArthur PTA Meets Tuesday

The Douglas MacArthur PTA will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the multi-purpose room of the school at 525 Chippendale St., Hoffman Estates.

Program for the evening "Founders Day" will be a discussion between parents and teachers.

Your Phone Bill May Go Up 20% Soon

Illinois Bell Telephone Co. is seeking stopgap financial aid through a new request to the Illinois Commerce Commission for a rate increase. The effect of the rate hike if approved would mean an approximate 20 per cent boost in suburban users' telephone bills.

The motion filed this week with the commission in Springfield would hike phone service cost to Chicago users by 14 per cent. This week's request represents about two-thirds of the rate hike requested Sept. 23, 1971. ICC hearings on this petition have taken several months. Illinois Bell contends the interim funding is needed to head off several earnings problems.

ICC hearings continued in Chicago on the petition for higher telephone rates. An ICC spokesman said he anticipated that all intervening parties would be given a chance to file replies to the latest Illinois Bell request.

Intervenor in the previous hearings included the Independent Voters of Illinois, the City of Chicago, suburban municipalities, General Service Administration for the State of Illinois, the Federal General Services Administration and several other organizations.

The ICC earlier had requested cost-of-service studies to be undertaken by the telephone company to substantiate the need for higher rates.

IN ITS MOTION filed Tuesday, Illinois Bell said the proposed interim rate hike would not add an additional $122 million in revenues. The firm offered to refund any interim rate increase "which may eventually be held to exceed a just and reasonable rate."

The full rate increase requested five months ago would bring rate increases amounting to 30 per cent in the suburbs and 20 per cent in the City of Chicago. This full amount would generate an additional $182 million for Illinois Bell. The firm was last granted rate increases (averaging 12 per cent) in November, 1970.

Jack Knauber, supervisor of public relations for the telephone company, said the details of the proposed rate increases have not been worked out. Commenting on the differences in Illinois Bell's estimate of rate hikes in the suburbs compared to the City of Chicago, he said, "On the rates for basic service generally in the suburbs there are extensive free calling areas. Also there is extensive growth in the suburbs and the need for additional facilities."

"We don't expect any action until the end of the current price freeze," Knauber added. A 30-day moratorium on pricing for the nation's utilities went into effect one week ago.

ILLINOIS BELL is seeking a speedy approval of its interim request, said Knauber. He noted that the ICC has 11 months from the date of the company's original request to rule on a proposed rate increase.

A sagging earnings picture, rising wages and heavy construction costs were cited by the utility in its petition. The rate of return has dropped below that authorized by the ICC.

Illinois Bell earnings per share have dropped below the annual dividend of $2.20 a share in effect since 1965 the firm said. January earnings were at the rate of $2.06 a share.

Declining earnings have made it difficult for the telephone company to raise the funds needed for new construction programs, said Knauber. New construction in the state totaled $371.4 million in 1971, the company said. A $400 million construction program is slated for 1972.

Wage increases totaling $300 million also were cited by the company in its bid for a rate increase. Higher Social Security payments and property taxes add to operating costs, the firm said.

The proposed $122 million interim increase would cover only the increased costs that have occurred between Sept. 1969 and Dec. 31, 1971, plus wages that already have been negotiated. It does not cover the increased cost of capital.

Gas Prices Resemble 'Yo-Yo'

by LEA TONKIN

Gasoline pump prices are a mixed bag in the Northwest suburbs and the rest of the Chicago metropolitan area. The patchwork effect is the result of local competition and the price support activities of major oil companies, according to local dealers.

"Our prices keep going up and down like a yo-yo," said Herb Brown, manager of the D&H Mobile Service station in Des Plaines. He currently is charging 32.9 cents a gallon for regular. The normal price level is 40.4 or 40.9 cents a gallon.

Noting that major oil companies offer price support to their dealers to compete for customers, Brown said the ups and downs in pump prices are often on a daily basis. As price support programs are initiated, the major oil companies subsidize a portion of the difference between normal price levels and the actual price charged.

"When prices are down, the only way we can make a profit is on our service," Brown said. "We're giving gasoline as a public service for no profit at all. Most dealers are disgusted with the majors for changing the price supports so often," he added.

A spokesman for the Illinois Gasoline Dealers Association said prices vary throughout Illinois. "After a few days at normal price levels, the prices moved downward again about two weeks ago," he said. Some stations are charging as low as 28.9 cents a gallon, he said, adding that frequent changes in major oil company subsidies don't allow long-term price restorations to take hold.

"Texaco cut out its subsidies early this week," the spokesman continued. He said the action by other majors will determine whether or not this move toward the normal price levels will be successful.

William Piffner of the Cities Service

Oil Co. price department said as of Wednesday his firm offered subsidies to Chicago metropolitan area dealers ranging up to 4.9 cents a gallon. Noting that Texaco and one other major dropped price supports this week, he said he could not predict whether his company would do the same.

Gas prices vary from city to city and area to area according to Piffner. One Arlington Heights Texaco dealer reported 41.5 cents a gallon for regular gas on Wednesday.

Prices in the Northwest suburbs have slipped little by little in the last two weeks, according to Dan Carter of the Euclid & Wolf Shell station in Prospect Heights.

It's All In The Cut.....

The Gazebo doesn't crimp. Nor do they bleach, dye, tease, spray or get a mad gleam in their eye and pick up the scissors when a girl with long hair walks in.

The Gazebo is a new suburban anti-hair salon, opened in Barrington by Richard Edmunds, former crimp of The Crimpers in Chicago. This place, specializing in "revolutionary" ideas in hair is at 117 W. Main St., Barrington.

Richard Edmunds shows Peggy how easy her new style is to take care.

"I think hair should look like hair," says Richard Edmunds, creative director and owner of The Gazebo. "Twelve thousand women came to The Gazebo this past year and left in high spirits." And then there's the friendly, casual atmosphere.

"It's designed to free the client from the hairdresser. Most young women can't afford to have their hair done every week and most don't have the time to sit under a dryer for hours. We want to help a girl take care of her own hair."

Nancy Kasian, young housewife, didn't believe her hair could do much of anything.

Nancy did believe something could be done after the proper cut. She didn't lose any length.

Nancy Kasian, a young housewife from Waukegan, wore her hair in a very uneven cut that had no style and required lots of work. "You shouldn't have to work that hard — there are too many fun things to do," said Richard. "With the right cut I'll show you how you'll never have to set it."

"We don't do fancy hairdos, we just emphasize a good cut and lots of brushing to keep hair naturally healthy," says Richard who started and trained his cutters.

Young Maria Maas didn't want any length taken off but wanted a change.

After hair cutter Irv Krauledis cut Marlas hair, we showed her how her new style was fun and exciting with electric rollers.

Hairdressing utensils are kept in gaily painted chests. All of the cutters cut according to how it looks proportionately on the whole girl and not just on her head. "A girl's size & height make a difference in the overall rightness on her hairstyle," says Richard.

"We give her a menu of services and what they cost. This way, she doesn't have to worry about what the whole thing will cost. It takes the up-tightness out of having your hair done," Richard explains.

DuBrow On TV

by Rick DuBrow

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The more one sees NBC-TV's brief, imported British series, "The Search for the Nile," which offered the fourth of its six segments Tuesday night, the more one realizes what a superb television achievement it is.

One can make occasional criticisms about such matters as the over-romanticized dialogue of parts here and there, but somehow even these bits of odd talk add to the flavor of the video dramatizations of those adventurers who sought the source of the Nile during the last century.

Next Tuesday: The search of American journalist Henry Stanley for the missionary-explorer Dr. David Livingstone.

According to a dispatch from London, British Broadcasting Corp. report puts the finger on American video violence — but adds that the proportion of violent incidents resulting in fatalities is far less on American television than in British programs.

Tuesday night's hour focused on the journey of British sportsman Samuel Baker and his wife, and a colorful program it was. However, the broadcast also dealt with the tragic end of a previous searcher for the Nile's source, John Speke — and it is this kind of interweaving of stories about the various adventures that lends a rare, intelligent continuity to this series. It manages to be both drama and serial.

We had been introduced to Baker and his beautiful wife in an earlier episode when they went to seek information from perhaps the most exotic and romantic Nile-searcher of them all, Sir Richard Burton.

BURTON, TOO, has been a running character through these episodes. In fact, it was his story and search that led them off — tales in which he took young Speke along as his aide and in which the two men grew apart so that they finally hated each other.

The Doctor Says

Dear Dr. Lamb — For several years now, I have suffered from great stomach acidity. Everything I eat hurts me and gives me severe indigestion. I tried acidity pills and stomach coaters and consulted doctors. I have even had an X ray of my stomach and gallbladder. They found nothing and the tests proved nothing. Can you help me, Dr. Lamb? I have just about given up hope of being able to eat like other people. Very depressed.

Dear Reader — I can suggest a few things may help:

1. Stop drinking coffee, tea, colas or anything else containing caffeine.
2. If you are smoking, stop.
3. Avoid acid foods, such as fruits and fruit juices. If you do this for long you will need to take vitamin C tablets to be sure you don't get a vitamin deficiency.
4. Avoid all spicy foods.
5. No alcoholic beverages.

6. Do eat good cereals like homecooked oatmeal, well-cooked vegetables of all varieties, which includes green beans, corn and most people can tolerate fried tomatoes. Do not season your vegetables with strong spices, however. Also include in your diet lean meat, fish and chicken.

7. Stop using all milk products. Many people have an intolerance for milk products. The way to find out is to stop it and if your symptoms disappear you have your own answer. If it is not a factor, use fortified skim milk, uncreamed cottage cheese and other healthy dairy products.

FOR ANTIACIDS, go to the drugstore and get yourself some Gelusil or Malox, either one of these can be obtained in liquid or tablet form without a prescription. I suggest using a few more tablets than the label recommends at two- or three-hour intervals and at bedtime take an extra dose.

If you stick to this regime for a number of weeks, you can pretty well tell whether it is going to relieve your problem or not. If it doesn't, go back to your doctor and ask him to measure your stomach acidity and give you a prescription for medicine that blocks the action of the nerve which stimulates the stomach to produce acid pepsin juice.

Social Security and You

Q—I HAVE been paying social security contributions for over 20 years and so has my wife. Since she can get a monthly benefit as a wife on my record when I retire, why does she also have to pay social security contributions?

A—Everyone who works at a job covered by social security must pay contributions. More important, however, your wife, as a worker, has social security protection in her own right. If she becomes severely disabled before reaching retirement age, she might qualify on her own earnings record for monthly disability checks. And, when she retires, she can get retirement benefits on her own earnings record even if you decide to keep on working. In most cases, her retirement benefit check would generally be more than the check she would receive as a dependent wife. If she should die while your children are young, they could get monthly survivors benefits on her earnings record.

Q—I'VE BEEN offered a job as custodian of an apartment building. The pay includes both cash wages and a free apartment for myself. Will my employer and I have to pay social security contributions only on the cash wages?

A—No. Your employer must include the value of the apartment as part of your salary. The apartment is considered "wages in kind." Social Security contributions must be paid on this as well as your cash wages.

Q—I HAVE a small business of my own, and I have no plans to retire yet. My net earnings have been averaging around $2,500 a year. Now that I am 62, can I get any benefits from social security?

A—You might be eligible for some retirement checks from social security. For a self-employed person, like yourself, it depends on your net earnings and the number of hours you put into your business in a month. Contact any social security office for complete information.

Lots Of Tax Loopholes--For Others

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Another election year, another April 15 looming on the horizon, and once again the cry for tax reform is heard in the land.

For those of you who have never heard a cry for tax reform, it sounds like this: 'Hollilippe'

When President Nixon recently asked Congress to raise the national debt limit, there was talk among some lawmakers of trying to tie it in with tax reform.

It now appears, however, that the big push won't come until sometime this summer. If at all.

The reason I say "if at all" is because new tax loopholes have a way of sprouting up faster than even the most ardent reformers can plug the old ones.

For those of you who may be wondering where these loopholes come from, many are grown around suburban shopping centers in the nearby Maryland countryside.

ALTHOUGH THIS area is not exactly teeming with bony-handed tillers of the soil, half of one county abutting the District of Columbia is, for tax purposes, classified as farmland, which has a low assessment rate.

One tract said to be worth about $13 million for its commercial development potential is listed as a $40,000 farm, tax-wise.

We urban taxpayers can seldom find good fresh country loopholes any more. We usually get our loopholes from one of those neighborhood tax consultant chains that mass-produce returns.

They're inexpensive, but even if you shop around, the loopholes will likely be undersized, picked over and not nearly plump and juicy as the ones right off the farm. Last weekend, after a trip to the tax consultant, I came home in a dudgeon.

"Look at this!" I cried, waving my return. "Loopholes are supposed to be in season, but these are stale and dried out and all shriveled up, like raisins. They must have been on the shelf since last April 15."

MY WIFE SAID, "It's a nice day. Why don't we drive out in the country and see if we can find some tender vine-ripened loopholes?"

It was beautiful. Fields of loopholes as far as the eye could see, their tiny apertures just beginning to open. "Should be a bumper harvest," one grower told me.

But when I tried to order a dozen, I discovered that the entire crop had been pre-empted by a group of Texas oilmen.

Do-It-Yourself

Making electrical repairs around the house is more a matter of caution than skill. Minor repairs are not difficult. What makes them different from other repair jobs is the care with which you must work. Touching a live wire is shocking, even deadly.

Precaution No. 1 — make certain there is no live wire to touch.

You can do one of two things — pull the main switch or pull the fuse for the circuit you are working on. Removing the fuse makes working on the circuit safe. Just make certain you remove the right one.

A neon tester is good to have. Check the outlet with it to make certain the circuit is dead. If the neon glows the current is on.

IF YOU HAVE never used a neon tester before, try it out on a working circuit first so you know what it should look like when it lights up. Lacking a tester, use a pigtail socket with a bulb in it or even a lamp you know is in working order.

It's a good idea to learn which fuse goes with which circuit. Make a list and paste it on the fuse box door. Turning on all the lights and then removing one fuse at a time will tell you which is which.

If you are working on an appliance, make certain it is disconnected. Having the switch in the off position may not be enough. The switch may be defective.

While it is possible to place nonconducting grips on pliers and use screwdrivers with insulated handles, it still

You are asking for trouble if you work on anything electric while standing on a damp floor. Don't do electrical work where you may come in contact with plumbing. The electricity would find its way to this grounded connection through your body.

USE THE same amperage fuse when making a replacement. A heavier fuse may not blow out as fast but blowing out is what it is supposed to do when a circuit is overloaded. The alternative could be a fire in the wiring. Use fuses only, no substitutes.

With any repairs you make be certain that no wires are left bare. Electrical tape is cheap. Use it. Don't discard that little piece of cardboard that goes over the prongs of a plug on a cord. It keeps the terminals covered. Don't leave bits of wire sticking out from under the terminal screws when you replace a plug. With electrical work, neatness not only counts, it is also safer.

The Search For Mental Health

Environment Conditions A Person Into Violence

(This is a weekly column presented by Forest Hospital in Des Plaines, a fully-accredited 135-bed psychiatric hospital, known for its intensive programs in psychiatric treatment, research, education and community service.)

What makes a 23-year-old man become an "executioner" who kills people without remorse?

"He was conditioned into violence," explained Dr. Jan Fawcett, staff psychiatrist at Forest Hospital and psychiatric consultant for the Cook County Jail, "almost anyone has the capacity for violence but what we do with that capacity has a lot to do with how we're socialized. The evidence is that violence can be conditioned in terms of environment."

Dr. Fawcett talked about the young man's conditioning. "He described to me how as he grew up he became more and more capable of using a gun. His first gun, a toy, he described in great detail: the way it loaded and the kind of ammunition it took. Then he talked about the pellet gun he learned to draw from his hip and hit small targets with and then the talk of his great fascination with a .45 caliber automatic which a friend brought back from the service."

"The lad then recounted how he found a gun in a stolen car and how much easier it became for him to shoot people as time went by. It was this progressive learning and progressive dissociation with feeling that made him so comfortable in shooting people."

Further conditioning toward violence for this young man came through his parents' disciplinary action. "This boy was disciplined by being beaten back and forth from school. His parents were concerned about his behavior and he was disciplined."

"In his ghetto neighborhood he had to fight his way up and down the street — he had to carry a chain to fight the bigger boys. His social experience became a lesson in how to survive and he found that he could gain status in his group by being violent. One of the reasons he became a killer was to gain a reputation — violence rewarded him."

DR. FAWCETT said he's talked to several leaders of street gangs in reference to so-called gang murders. "They say it does not represent violence but some people who do things wrong must be punished. In other words a leader may see a shooting or murder as a consequence of misbehavior as we see jail or prison as such a consequence. In a way we can say capital punishment seems as logical to some people as a gang killing does to group members who see a fellow member disobeying the rules."

According to Dr. Fawcett a group can validate violence. "In a group people feel much more free to commit violent acts. Brutal acts — the mass murder of Jews in World War II, dropping of the Atom Bomb, the slaughter of the American Indians — were done in the name of a group. A group gives permission and even the most reticent person can become violent in a group. The group has a fantastic power to sanction any act — no matter how brutal."

Dr. Fawcett thinks that our country can be characterized as violent. "Our history is one of violence — our heritage of winning the West and our high ownership rate of handguns are part of our violent nature. So is the high incidence of violence used in the mass media. The solutions to our problems are more often than not presented as violent solutions. And this violence is learned."

Veterans' News

Q — IS IT too late for a veteran over 65 years of age to apply for a waiver of government insurance premiums?

A — No. If a veteran becomes totally disabled before his 65th birthday and meets other requirements, he is entitled to the waiver even though he does not apply for it until he is over 65.

Q — IF A veteran's widow who draws death pension benefits is a patient in a nursing home and is in need of regular aid and attendance, is she eligible for additional pension?

A — Yes, she is entitled to an additional special monthly pension of $55 under the current law. Widows requiring regular aid and attendance are entitled to an additional $50 monthly pension under the "old" law.

Q — AS THE widow of a veteran who died 14 months ago, can I collect a Veterans Administration burial allowance?

A — Yes, provided your husband was a wartime, Korean Conflict or Vietnam veteran with an other than dishonorable discharge; or if he was drawing service-connected compensation at time of death or discharge, or retired for disability incurred in line of duty. Application for a maximum $250 burial allowance may be filed within two years of burial or cremation.

Engineers Will Meet Saturday

An all day seminar will be sponsored jointly by the Chicago and North Suburban Chapters of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers. The program will be held at the Regency Hyatt House in Rosemont.

The theme of the seminar will be attacking inflation through productivity improvement. Concurrent sessions of various subjects, all related to the seminar theme, will be held during the morning.

The noon luncheon speaker will be Yale Brozen, professor of business economy at the University of Chicago. His talk, Who Shot Down the Game Plan, will deal with the Administration's plan to fight inflation when it took office and why the plan failed. Brozen will describe the new game plan, and what portends for the national economy.

The afternoon session will be a panel discussion with leaders from business, labor and government discussing inflation and its effects on the economy.

Parochial Debate Ends In Standoff

Opposition to the voucher system was where agreement ended Tuesday night in a debate on financial aid to parochial schools.

State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and Dr. Virgil Kraft, regional director for Americans United for Separation of Church and State, in their first public appearance together, debated the pros and cons of parochial aid at a Willow Bend School PTA meeting in Rolling Meadows.

Schlickman told the approximately 35 people present that the state is getting a "real bargain" from nonpublic schools.

Drawing on historical and philosophical viewpoints, Schlickman emphasized the need for allowing parents to make a choice between sending their children to private or public schools.

The voucher system is a proposal whereby all parents of school-age children would receive a voucher that would guarantee admission when presented at any public or private school.

Schlickman, who headed the Elementary and Secondary Nonpublic Schools Study Commission, said the commission had found the quality of education in nonpublic schools "equal to, if not better than" that in the public schools. He said, the commission found a "tremendous variety" of nonpublic schools, although most are religious-oriented.

Furthermore, it was found the cost of providing a nonpublic education is substantially less than that of providing a public education, leaving salaries aside, Schlickman said.

During the last four years, enrollment in nonpublic schools has dropped 20 percent, resulting in a cost increase to Illinois taxpayers of $105 million, according to Schlickman's figures. He said that if this decline in enrollment continues, the cost would increase further and education would lose its diversity.

He said he hopes that the United States and Illinois Supreme Courts would find parochial aid, which he called state aid to parents with children in nonpublic schools, legal.

IN REBUTTAL, Kraft said he felt there was a "revolution afoot." He cited the general attitude toward law as a major problem. "That no citizen should be forced to support any religion is a basic belief in this country," he said.

Kraft called the parochial bills "gimmicks," and said that while they contained money will be used to support only "reading, writing and arithmetic," the main purpose of a parochial school is to give a religious education.

Another "gimmick" Kraft cited is a proposal to give money to parents and not the schools. He said that no matter who the money went to, it would end up supporting the schools.

Both agreed the voucher system was not the answer to the problem. Schlickman said he felt vouchers would undermine the public schools system, which would not be able to meet the competition.

Kraft cited the loss of community control over the school system as a reason he opposed the voucher system. He said it would be equivalent to taxation without representation.

Local Pupils Have Part In Teacher Training Plan

Hoffman Estates youngsters who attend Hunting Ridge School in Palatine, will meet some new teachers this month. Their school is being used in a new student teacher training program.

Twenty students from Northern Illinois University are enrolled in the new student teaching program introduced in Palatine Township Dist. 15.

The traditional nine-week teaching experience has been expanded to 18 weeks. During the first nine, students will be assigned to a building instead of a teacher.

Hunting Ridge School, Stuart Paddock and Lincoln schools in Palatine, and Central Road School in Rolling Meadows will each host five students.

The student teachers will spend half the day in classroom settings and the other in seminars conducted by instructors from NIU and district personnel.

THE NEW PROGRAM is designed to offer a variety of experiences they would not receive in the traditional teaching experience, according to Marion Omiatek, assistant superintendent of instruction.

The student teachers will teach all subjects at all grade levels, and after the first nine week training period will select the grade level they wish to teach, and the teacher to whom they would like to be assigned.

The student teachers will receive 17 credit hours for the work they do in the district. Nine for student teaching, and eight for the first nine weeks of study in the buildings.

The first nine weeks of study replaces three educational theory courses on problems, philosophy and measurements traditionally taught on campus.

Health Service Applications Clear Two Hurdles In State

The competing applications for funds to provide mental health services to Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships have made it through two levels of the state's review process, but state officials will not reveal what preliminary recommendations have been made.

The two grant applications to the Illinois Department of Mental Health, one from Elk Grove Village Community Service and the other from Northwest Mental Health Association in Arlington Heights, seek funds to provide psychiatric and social services for the two townships.

Northwest has been supplying services to the two townships and also to Wheeling and Palatine townships. Last year the four-township area was divided into two separate planning areas by the state and as a result Community Service decided to apply to serve the new two-township planning area. The state will fund only one agency for each planning area. The areas are determined by population.

Community Service, now totally funded by Elk Grove Village, is applying for $53,000 in state funds. Northwest is applying for $190,000 to continue to serve the four townships.

DR. PATRICK STAUNTON, regional director for the State Department of Mental Health, said yesterday the two grants have been received by his office and have been passed along with recommendations to the state office in Springfield.

"I'm not at liberty to reveal what recommendations have been made," Staunton said. "These are only preliminary recommendations, and the final decision is in the hands of the director of the department."

The next step in the review process

Two Big Social Events Slated

A pair of big social events are being planned by the Hoffman-Schaumburg Newcomers during this month and March.

A special buffet supper and games night is being planned for Feb. 28 at the Golden Acres Country Club in Schaumburg. The evening will cost $7 per couple. A late evening buffet supper will be served.

A special St. Patrick's dance and dinner will be held March 18 at the new Holiday Inn at Rtes. 19 and 53 in Itasca. The theme of the dance will be "A Night to Be Irish."

The dinner dance will cost $15 per couple.

Reservations for the Feb. 28 dinner may be made by calling Mrs. Jim D'Ambrosio, 894-8990 or Mrs. Jim Bryant, 837-5921.

Reservations for the St. Patrick's dance may be made by calling Mrs. Robert Horwath, 894-0136 or Mrs. Brian Burke, 529-0026.

Both events are open to all members of the community. A person does not have to be a member of the group to attend.

Camp Fire Girls Plan 'Wing-Ding'

Hoffman Estates girls who are in the first through eighth grades will be invited to attend a "Wing-Ding" on Feb. 23 to learn about Camp Fire Girls.

The program will be held at 7:30 p.m. at Hillcrest School, 201 Hillcrest, and Blackhawk School, 370 Illinois Blvd., in Hoffman Estates.

The wing-ding is an annual program held to acquaint girls in the area about the activities of the Camp Fire Girls, according to Eve Saul, publicity chairman for the group.

The girls are asked to bring a parent with them for the program.

Library To Get Federal Monies

The Schaumburg Township Public Library has received a $2,527 grant and will benefit from a grant of $121,306 as a member of the North Suburban Library System.

Both grants are from the federal government under the Library Services and Construction Act. The smaller amount was determined on a five cents per capita basis, and the township library qualified for it as a member of the library system. The $121,306 grant is to the system, and was computed on a 10 cents per capita basis for all residents of service areas of libraries in the system.

The monies are restricted to the purchase of adult non-fiction print materials, and non-print materials. Items purchased may not duplicate titles or holdings already in the library's collections. However, the funds are additional to monies already budgeted by the local library and the library system for purchase of materials, said Robert R. McClarren, system director.

Holding Hands Part Of Fun

Holding hands will be part of the fun planned for students and adults who come to the "Chicago to Minneapolis Hoedown" Feb. 25 at James B. Conant High School in Hoffman Estates.

The Conant Band Booster Club is sponsoring an 8 to 11 p.m. square dance in the school located off Plum Grove Road on Cougar Trail.

Profits from the foot stomping, big swinging occasion will be used to finance a band tour to Minneapolis of both the Concert and Symphonic Bands.

Caller Sam McClure said "you don't need to know how to square dance to join in the fun."

Tickets for the dance may be purchased at the door. They cost $4 a couple for adults and $3.50 for a student couple.

Northbrook: We Salute You

Dianne Holum and Anne Henning. Their names are as familiar now as the Olympic games themselves and as much a part of our daily lives as the once little known town of Sapporo, Japan.

In an age of incredible electronic virtuosity, the excitement and the drama of Northbrook's two speed skating champions have come into our lives and allowed us to share for a moment a part of the exuberance of winning an Olympic medal.

Part of the excitement is no doubt caused by the nearness of Northbrook, a town which thousands drive through each day but which has displayed a community spirit and charm that sets it apart from many other suburban communities.

By helping to produce Olympic champions of the caliber and grace of Dianne Holum and Anne Henning, Northbrook has marked itself as a community known throughout the world.

To herald the return of Northbrook's two medalists, the town and its people organized themselves last Monday for the largest celebration ever in the village's history.

And well they might. Despite the ever-present political implications of the Olympics and the growing argument over the status of subsidized athletes, the bronze, silver and gold medals are still celebrations to the achievements of individual effort.

Medal winners Dianne Holum and Anne Henning, as well as another Northbrook Olympic competitor, Leah Poulos, are the end result of incredible determination.

But of course their journey to Sapporo would not have been possible without the community support of the people of Northbrook and the skating organization which fostered their talent.

To the coaches of the Olympic participants and to the parents of these girls, we offer our congratulations.

To the people of Northbrook, we join with the rest of the nation in admiring their community spirit.

Probing Chuckles

Joke patterns run in cycles, says Dr. Jan H. Brunvand, professor of English at the University of Utah. Polack jokes, for example, have outlasted the "sick" jokes, little moron and elephant jokes. But the folklorist says there is no way to predict why some kinds of jokes die and others thrive.

The professor says that most jokes have a fall guy. He may be among the high or the mighty, but the easiest victims are minority groups.

Most minority slur names, he says, are too emotionally loaded to be widely used, but few jokesters actually know a Polack, so that ethnic name draws safe laughs.

"It's been a lodestone for at least a decade, although in some parts of the country, the jokes were making the rounds as early as the '30s."

Brunvand says that by collecting and examining jokes the modern folklorist can detect underlying patterns of behavior and thought.

"By making society aware of the attitudes underlying jokes," he says, "the folklorist can become to society what the psychiatrist is to the individual. The more aware a society is of its folk traditions, the better it will be able to change itself."

Brunvand is kind of a humor accountant. Consider the interesting possibility that somebody may be keeping tabs on the jokes you tell.

A Test For NATO

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington has likened the Soviet Union to a "common hotel burglar," who goes up and down the corridors trying doors to see if any have been left unlocked.

The senator was probably referring to the Kremlin's well-known proclivity for sniffing out political instability or social unrest wherever it may be found. But the simile is accurate in a military sense, also.

Soviet aircraft recently stepped up their probing of North Atlantic Ocean airspace, reports Aviation Week & Space Technology magazine. The brunt of intercepts by North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) pilots fell by sheer geographical location, to the Royal Air Force.

At one point, says the RAF, Soviet penetration amounted to hundreds of probes in a short period of time, many at wave-top level, and was apparently aimed at gaining maximum knowledge of NATO's ability to react while forcing the RAF and its allies to a maximum use of electronic countermeasures.

The RAF will not say how many Soviet aircraft have probed into the west nor at what distances they have been intercepted, though presumably the Soviets know. So far, NATO has managed to keep one step ahead of changing Soviet tactics.

The Kremlin is not contemplating war with NATO. The RAF emphasizes that at no time have the Russians actually penetrated British airspace nor have they ever made any hostile moves.

They're just trying doors.

Bob Lahey's Column

A GOP Mail 'Escalation'

Bob Lahey

My mail from the White House has picked up sharply in recent weeks.

I don't mean to imply that the President and I are in the habit of exchanging chatty letters on a regular basis. To be honest, I haven't even had a Christmas card from Pat and Dick for three years.

But apparently somebody has caught up with the oversight and there has been a concerted effort recently to keep me informed. Just the other day, I got my personal copy of the President's message on foreign policy, with a nice note from Herb Klein.

It looks interesting, but it's 236 pages long and I still haven't gotten through the one on the Family Assistance Plan, let alone the one on wage and price controls.

A friend of mine, who doesn't get much mail, attributes this upsurge in correspondence to the fact that there is an election coming up. I don't think so, though. Neither the President, nor even Herb, has mentioned a word about politics.

In fact, if there is anything they want me to know about the election, they ask Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas to drop me a note.

He's chairman of the Republican National Committee and he takes care of all that stuff.

I got a letter from him this week. "All of us in politics," he began, "and in fact in the media understand full well what happens every four years in American politics." Sure, Bob, we've often all sat around and chuckled over it.

"We expect the charges and countercharges, the partisan rancor, it is all part of the American system." You're darn right.

He went on: "At the outset of this election year, I want to emphasize that the Republican Party does not challenge the right and obligation of the loyal opposition to dissent. It is entirely proper for the 'outs' to criticize the 'ins'; for the Democrats to challenge the record and every claim of the Republican Administration."

Bob then went on to point out, however, that there are some areas where maybe that rule doesn't apply.

He said he was afraid that Sen. Edmund Muskie might have done some real damage by declaring publicly that he would give the other side a "better deal" for ending the war in Vietnam than they can get from President Nixon.

He pointed out he was sure Muskie didn't intend to do anything wrong. "Rather I believe he was ill advised and ill informed, failing to appreciate how the North Vietnamese might interpret a statement of this kind from a leading Presidential contender."

Well, I don't know if Muskie will agree with that, but I bet he'll appreciate being called a leading contender.

Anyhow, Bob went on to say how he didn't think Muskie or any other contender should inject himself "at this critical moment into the most delicate negotiations of our government..."

Well, he's got a point, I guess. What bothers me is that if the presidential contenders don't say anything about Vietnam because they don't want the other side to know what they think then the people who vote for them won't know either.

It seems to me that is what happened in 1968. Nixon kept saying he had this plan to end the war, but he couldn't tell us what it was, because he couldn't interfere with negotiations.

It turns out that he couldn't tell us after he was elected, either, because part of the plan was that it had to be kept secret.

He did tell us about withdrawing the troops and "Vietnamization," and he has taken about 400,000 troops out of the war zone.

It was the secret part that apparently hasn't worked, and I just wonder if it might have been better all along to let both them and us know what that part was about.

Maybe I ought to drop Herb a note.

Park District Official Praised

The FENCE POST Letters to the Editor

od of six years to a position of public service in the exemplary manner in which Mrs. Anne Schuerings did, that an adequate explanation is due to the residents of the park district as to why she is no longer employed by that district.

In order to refresh a few memories and to inform those who might not know, Anne Schuerings took on the job as office manager, bookkeeper, public relations, purchasing agent, arbitrator, personnel director, and a myriad of other chores for a salary that approached $2.00 per hour when no one else would tackle the job for that salary. Through her perseverance and dedication to her community she made many personal sacrifices to see that the facilities of a fledgling park district were manned and available for the use of the residents of that community.

As the district grew, so did Mrs. Schuerings' responsibilities without the remuneration that she was entitled to or that would have been demanded by a professionally trained director, but as the young district could not afford too many frills she was willing to accept less, and played a very major role in providing programs, to the public, which did not have to take a back seat to any Park District in the State of Illinois.

It was primarily through her efforts that the Hoffman Estates Park District was able to acquire the property now known as the "Ida B. Voegelé Park and Recreation Center," which is being extensively used by the citizens of the community. It was also through her efforts and constant vigilance that many hundreds of dollars were saved on the purchase of equipment and services for the park district thereby allowing more of the tax dollar to be used for recreational purposes.

While the Board of Commissioners have apparently felt that a professionally trained director is essential to the park district operation, I believe that they are seriously remiss in dispensing with the services of Mrs. Schuerings at this time. No one is indispensable, and we can always get by through the trial and error system, but no administrator will completely throw out a working system before the new one being implemented has been tried and proven equally effective or better.

Firemen Want 21 Additional Men

The men of the Arlington Heights Fire Department need your help. We are presently engaged in budget negotiations, and our main concern is manpower. There are 53 full time paid firemen now. We are requesting 21 additional men.

This number was not just pulled out of the air. The National Fire Protection Association suggests a force of about 110 men for a town the size of Arlington Heights, but considering our off duty men and mutual aid system this number can be cut down. As a general rule in assessing manpower one on duty fireman is equal to four off duty men. Approximately the same ratio would hold true for mutual aid men.

Counting our 34 off duty men as eight, we can drop our original number to 102. Our most serious mutual aid box alarm would bring about 90 men. At a ratio of three to one we can drop another 30 men from our total, giving us 72 men. Using this formula, you can see that our request for a total of 75 firemen is not out of line.

The number of men actually available for the first alarm response is what is really important. We would like to be able to respond at all times with at least three men on a fire engine and still maintain our ambulance service. We need these additional firemen in order to do this.

A good fire department is like having good insurance. The premiums seem high, and it is sometimes hard to acknowledge the day to day benefit of having such insurance, but it is necessary.

We need this additional manpower to do our job efficiently, and our job is protecting your lives and property. Help us to help you.

We urge you to call your village board members or your village manager and express your views. If possible, join us at the next village budget meeting. We need your support.

Dennis Horcher, President
Arlington Heights Firefighters Assoc.
Arlington Heights.

Lauding Firemen

I was a member of the Concerned Citizens Committee for a Municipal Fire Department in Hoffman Estates. There is one thing that I feel should be cleared up and that is that the men who don't belong to the union, those who do and the volunteers give their very best, and I was not questioning that.

All firemen are of a special making, to give up jobs, that most were making more, plus their years of service to their jobs, must be very special, and this means the volunteers, too. I know that the wives of these men are very proud. I believe that these men should have the right to belong to any group that they may wish. I know that the men of the union are not forcing the men who don't wish to belong.

The people of our community should not worry for they are getting the best from all firemen, be they union, non-union or volunteers.

I am very happy to know these men and their families and I am very proud of my husband to belong to the Hoffman Estates Fire Department.

Business Today

by LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — In looking for a good job, the "don'ts" are more important than the "do's," says the author of a new book on the subject.

Richard A. Payne of Princeton, N.J., is the author of "How to Get a Better Job Quicker" (Taplinger, New York, $5.95) and also conducts classes in various cities on sophisticated jobhunting. He enrolls about 20 persons in a class and charges them $60 to $75 for services for which he says some career counselors ask as much as $3,000.

SINCE RESUMES are the obligatory way of finding a job opening in most businesses, Payne says a good resume is equally obligatory, and right there is where the don'ts become vitally important. Here are the don'ts he lists:

—Don't attach a photo to your resume.

A photo just gives the employer another reason to toss your resume aside. He's no longer curious about what you look like.

—Don't state your salary objective, let the employer try to guess. Of course if you're applying to a job-finding agency, you may have to state your salary aim.

—Don't reveal your current salary. Keep 'em guessing about that as long as you can.

—Don't list your references. It may subject them to annoyance. Also it's better to pinpoint references for a specific job after you get a nibble.

—Don't list all your previous jobs and everything you can do.

—Don't give your age.

—If you're black or belong to some other minority, don't mention the fact in the resume.

—Don't include much personal data in a resume for general mailing.

THE DO'S, Payne said, are simple: Concentrate on a single stated job objective and devote 40 per cent of the rest of the resume to your present job and your achievements in it.

In other words, lead from your strengths. Don't mention any possible weaknesses and regard everything else as only marginally relevant. Your object is to stir any employer's curiosity. Once that's accomplished, the tactics to nail down the job can be executed.

Payne's book is a detailed exposition of steps to take after the resume has brought in replies. The first commandment in this part of the game is always try for a salary boost over that of your present or last job of at least 20 to 25 per cent.

PAYNE HAS had an interesting career. A native of Manhasset, N.Y., he is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Princeton, where he earned most of his expenses drawing and selling cartoons.

He went through Harvard Business School on two scholarships provided by the Baker Foundation and the Harvard Business Club of New York.

He has set up two careers simultaneously. In addition to career counseling, he is a packaging expert and brand manager and has worked for or numbered as clients in this field such firms as International Paper, Chesebrough-Pond, and Johnson & Johnson and such advertising agencies as J. Walter Thompson and Ogilvy & Mather.

Suburbans' Market Penetration To Be Studied

Top Ad Men To Aid Papers' Research

A group of the nation's leading advertising, agency and marketing executives will advise and assist the Suburban Newspaper Research Center in "unique and innovative" suburban newspaper research projects.

SNRC is the newly formed research and development arm of Suburban Newspapers of America, the national trade association of suburban newspaper publishers. Paddock Publications holds membership in both groups.

Serving on the SNRC advisory committee are David Arnold, associate media director, Leo Burnett, Chicago; Jules Graf, director, sales promotion, Interstate Department Stores, Inc., New York; Fred W. Heckel, vice president, communications, United Air Lines, Chicago.

Constantine Kazanas, supervisor of print media, Young & Rubicam, New York; A. O. Knowlton, media director, General Foods, White Plains; Dr. Seymour Marshak, marketing research manager, Ford Motor Co., Detroit.

James Marston, president, U. S. Suburban Press, Inc., Chicago; J. B. Searles, manager, merchandising services, General Electric Co., Louisville; Harry Segal, vice president, advertising, Jewel Foods, Chicago; and Clinton Thompson, vice president, media and research, J. C. Penney Co., New York.

THE MARKETING leaders agreed to serve on the committee after a series of personal interviews during which their recommendations were enlisted toward improved understanding and cooperation between the nation's suburban newspapers and national advertisers.

Initial recommendations from the group are now being studied by SNRC publishers and a meeting of the advisers and suburban publishers is planned in the near future.

Participating officers and directors of the Research Center are: Chairman, William H. Over, Paddock Crescent Newspapers, Downers Grove; Vice Chairman, Arthur P. Cook, Sun Newspapers, Birmingham, Ala., and Bruce Helberg, Bellevue (Wash.) American.

Secretary-Treasurer, Harold Townsend, Townsend Newspapers, North Kansas City, Mo.; Oran W. Asa, Northeast Los Angeles Publishing Co., Los Angeles; Russ Eastcott, Metro Mirror Publications, Ltd., Don Mills, Ont.; and Louis A. Lerner, Lerner Home Newspapers, Chicago.

The meeting is designed to produce definite guidelines for the suburban newspaper's major research programs, which are being financed by special assessments on publisher members of Suburban Newspapers of America and research grants from other organizations such as the National Newspaper Association and U. S. Suburban Press Inc.

"THIS IS THE first time a national cross-section of media and marketing executives and suburban newspaper publishers have joined to discuss mutual needs, goals and problems. We consider this initial step as a major 'communications breakthrough," said SNRC chairman Over.

In addition to designing research programs along lines suggested by the advisory committee, SNRC will conduct surveys among member publishers on their specific newspaper operations and the audiences they serve.

"An accurate, comprehensive profile of the suburban newspapers' penetration of the nation's leading markets is one of our primary goals. This data will provide 'convincing proof that our combined newspapers represent an untapped marketing bonanza for the national advertiser,'" Over said.

SNRC was incorporated not-for-profit in August, 1971. Offices are located at 173 W. Madison St., Chicago, and 481 National Press Building, Washington, D. C.

Staff representatives are Chester K. Hayes, administrative coordinator, 2630 Belaire Dr., Arlington Heights, and Kenneth R. Ketchum, executive director of Suburban Newspapers of America, Washington, D. C.

Dividend News

Top Year For Dodge

Dodge reported its best sales year in history for trucks in 1971 and the division's second best calendar year for cars.

Truck sales of 168,734 were a company record for the second year in a row and were 16 per cent ahead of the previous record of 145,519 units set in 1970. Car sales of 585,106 were 12 per cent over the 523,382 units sold in 1970.

Dodge general sales manager Richard D. McLaughlin said record fourth quarter sales also were established for cars and trucks, reflecting good buyer response to 1972 models.

Top Walgreen Quarter

Walgreen Co. net profit and sales for its first fiscal quarter were the highest in company history, the firm reported.

First quarter sales (for the period ended Dec. 31, 1971) rose 6.6 per cent to $246,516,736, compared to $231,259,250 in the same quarter a year ago.

Earnings for the period were up 4.3 per cent to $5,314,014 from $5,085,556 for the first quarter a year ago. Earnings per share were 83 cents versus 80 cents a share for the first 1971 quarter.

Richardson Sales Up

The Richardson Co. of Des Plaines reported sales for the fourth quarter ending Dec. 31, 1971, of $30,024,000, as compared to $28,565,000 for the same period in 1970. The sales figure also reflects an increase of 17 per cent over the average rate for the first three quarters.

Earnings for the fourth quarter were $1,105,000, or 54 cents a common share. In 1970, comparable earnings were $897,000, or 40 cents a common share. The fourth quarter earnings were more than 100 per cent greater than the average of the three preceding quarters in 1971.

Richardson posted sales of $107,265,000 from continuing operations (excluding those of the Joseph Davis Plastics subsidiary that was sold in August, 1971), as compared to $112,393,000 in 1970.

Earnings from continuing operations in 1971, before extraordinary items, were $2,679,000, or $1.94 a common share after allowing for preferred dividend requirements. In 1970, Richardson had comparable earnings of $3,696,000, or $1.71 a common share.

"Even if you couldn't learn French in school, I can teach you."

Think back. How did they teach you in school? In a class of 20? Or was it 30?

At Berlitz, when you take private lessons with me, you are my only pupil. So you learn at your own pace. And what you learn are not the usual boring academic things, like lists of verbs. Instead we start with simple words. Du vin. (Wine).

Then I show you how to put these simple words into simple sentences. "Apportez-moi un verre de vin, s'il vous plait." (Please bring me a glass of wine).

Soon you will be chattering away in French as though you had been speaking it for years. Instead of just a few weeks. And, because only those who have spoken the language from birth teach French at Berlitz, your accent will be like mine. Perfect.

If you still don't believe that you can speak French, I or one of my colleagues will gladly teach you a few phrases, without obligation.

One-Fourth Of Mankind

Confucius Helped Mold Our World

(The Herald continues today with a series of background articles on mainland China, timed to coincide with President Nixon's historic visit to that vast and mysterious land.)

Do not to others what you would not have them do to you.

—Confucius

China in the middle of the long, 800-year Chou dynasty was a nation in political and intellectual ferment.

As the old feudalism broke down around them and independent, constantly warring states arose, philosophers sought answers to the ills of men and society. As armies clashed, so did minds, setting off brilliant sparks.

The greatest of these philosophers was born in 551 B.C. in the small state of Lu (modern Shantung). His name was K'ung Fu-tzu, known to the West as Confucius.

New Social Worker Named At Alexian

Elizabeth A. Kane, 220 S. Pine, Arlington Heights, has been appointed rehabilitation social worker for the new rehabilitation unit at Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village.

Before joining the hospital staff, Miss Kane was director of social service at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines. She had previously worked at the adult and child guidance center of St. Francis Hospital in Evanston and at the Illinois State Psychiatric Institute.

Miss Kane received her bachelor's degree in dietetics from Mount Mary College and served as an Army dietitian in Sioux City, Iowa, achieving the rank of first lieutenant. She also managed a test kitchen for Armour & Co. She has earned a master's degree from Loyola University.

Completes Basic

Airman Walter F. Klier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Klier of 370 Checker Dr., Buffalo Grove, has completed his U.S. Air Force basic training at the Air Training Command's Lackland Air Force Base, Tex. He has been assigned to Sheppard AFB, Tex., for training in aircraft maintenance. Airman Klier is a 1970 graduate of Adlai Stevenson High School, Prairie View.

To Confucius, the ideal society was ruled by men of superior morality: "The virtue of the superior man is like wind and the virtue of the people is like grass. The grass bends in the direction the wind blows."

Confucius was not a democrat. In his society, each man knew his place: "Courtesy is not extended to the common people, and punishment is not served up to the lords."

But since morality, and hence the right to govern, were the products of learning, there were no rigid class bars to individual advancement.

Neither was he an innovator. "I have transmitted and do not create anew." He believed Chinese society had reached perfection in the days of the sage-kings and preached a return to an antiquity that had never existed.

"The ancients . . . desiring to order well their states, first regulated their families. Wishing to regulate their families, they first . . . rectified their hearts." THUS A SOCIETY in which the proper relationships were observed — between king and subjects, between friend and friend, between father and son, etc. — would be one of harmony. "Love people," said Confucius.

Though he set great store by ritual and observance of religious rites and believed that the universe was on the side of righteousness, Confucius had little use for heaven or an afterlife or disputations about a supreme being.

"You do not yet know about the living," he said. "How can you know about the dead?"

Like an Oriental Diogenes, Confucius wandered from court to court looking for an honest prince who would put his teachings into practice. None would, and Confucius died in 479 B.C. thinking himself a failure, unaware that his ideas, transmitted and elaborated and sometimes distorted by generations of disciples, were to influence more human lives than those of perhaps any teacher who ever lived.

After the centuries of increasingly bloody wars among the Chinese states, one power arose to fight the world's first "war to end war."

By 221 B.C., the state of Ch'in had conquered all the others. For the first time, all Chinese were united in one nation. It was from the Ch'in dynasty that the West derived the name China.

Proclaiming himself Shih Huang-ti — "First Universal Emperor" — the king of Ch'in set about to establish an empire to last "10,000 generations." Weights and measures and writing were standardized. Feudalism was crushed and all opposition, both political and philosophical, was ruthlessly suppressed. Scholars were slaughtered and, in an attempt to wipe out all past history, libraries and books were destroyed.

From time immemorial, China had been subjected to repeated invasions by the "Hsiung-nu" — barbarians from the steppes of Asia. To end this menace once and for all, Shih Huang-ti ordained the building of the Great Wall.

Incorporating parts of existing walls, this colossal barrier, stretching for more than 2,000 miles across mountain and desert, was completed in the amazingly short time of 12 years. According to historian Leonard Cottrell, probably over a million men and women slaved and died on the wall, and were sometimes buried inside it.

"IF BUILT IN Europe . . . the wall would enclose large parts of France, Italy, Austria, Switzerland, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and a segment of Russia. In the United States, it would completely surround the combined area of Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico . . . and according to astronomers it would be visible from the moon, with the naked eye."

Shih Huang-ti's second lasting accomplishment was to divide China into provinces to be governed by a centralized bureaucracy. He also extended Chinese dominion to the south as far as the Red River in modern North Vietnam.

Out of Blood and Brick, Suffering and Stone — the Colossal Great Wall

The "10,000 generations" of Ch'in, however, were to endure but 15 years. Shih Huang-ti died in 210 B.C. Intrigue at court and smoldering resentment among the people soon erupted into rebellion. In 207, the second Ch'in emperor was murdered and the capital city burned.

But China had been united for all time, and out of this brief period of turmoil, a peasant guerrilla leader was to raise himself to the rank of emperor and establish one of the most glorious dynasties in China's history.

Suburban Living

Especially for the Family

THE ANTIQUE CORNER of Mrs. Bragg's living room sports many of her fun treasures. A slipper rocker that belonged to the great-grandmother, a drop-leaf walnut table and an authentic grandfather clock are reminders of yesteryears. Mrs. Bragg collects brass candlesticks which she displays attractively.

THE DARK WOOD paneled family room is a popular retreat for Betsy Bragg, rear, and her sister Jane. Mrs. Bragg has tastefully decorated the room with her casual antiques and comfortable furniture.

AN OLD FASHIONED secretary serves as a desk and display unit in Stacy Bragg's bedroom. The unit has been antiqued yellow to match the room's decor.

How Suburbia Lives

Antiquer Has Fun

Mixing Old And New

by FRAN HECKART

Some cherish the old and others relish the new. But Mrs. James Bragg fancies furniture from all ages.

Evann Bragg is one of those talented homemakers who can tastefully mingle her rustic relics of the past with new furnishings for a modern life style.

She has two stereo speakers cleverly concealed behind the top curtains of an antique secretary.

Wainscoting and floral wallpaper give the dining room and master bedroom a Colonial atmosphere even though the furniture is classic Early American.

A brass bed and an old wash stand complete with water pitcher and basin can be found in one daughter's bedroom. The next one sports red wicker furniture, hard rock music and an antique sock stretcher as a wall decoration.

"My antiques are fun pieces," said Evann as she picked up a little tin box from a walnut drop-leaf table. "During World War I the soldiers were issued their razors in these little boxes." Not exactly Chippendale secretary, but one of Evann's "fun pieces."

ANOTHER ONE of her finds is an old fashioned scale. With a few artificial posies on one side and brass weights on the other, it's almost a conversation piece.

Evann's eyes sparkle when she mentions her prized antique, an authentic grandfather clock.

Evann had been looking for a grandfather clock on all of her antique hunts, and when she found this one there was no time to waste dropping hints for her Christmas present.

The clock dates back to around the late 1700s or early 1800s. The dial has a moon face in the upper part and arrangements worked by the lunar mechanism, for telling the days of the week and month.

Regardless of how valuable the clock is, Evann feels that family antiques are more sentimental. Near the clock is a slipper rocker estimated to be about 150 years old and once owned by her great-grandmother. Completely refurbished, the chair blends comfortably with the other living room furnishings.

THE BRAGG HOME is a baby compared to some of the relics it houses. The home was built about two years ago as Evann supervised from her kitchen window since she was living next door at the time.

The home is located in one of the older sections of Arlington Heights, and once again, it's the new with the old.

All the trees were left on the lot and the "New England salt box" (as Evann terms it) nestles comfortably among the older homes on the tree-lined street.

"In a new development our home would just be another new house," Evann remarked, "but I really like the way it looks here."

With three daughters, Jane, 15, Betsy, 13, and Stacy, 10, Evann felt that four bedrooms were a must in selecting their new home. And since there will soon be three teenage girls in the home, she chose a plan that included a separate bathroom off the master bedroom.

EVANN'S HUSBAND, Jim, is in business for himself so space for his office was also a consideration as the family prepared to build.

"I also wanted a home that was as easy as possible to maintain," said Evann. "Therefore, we used carpeting everywhere we possibly could and I chose the darker wood trimmings."

Evann's request is not at all unreasonable considering she's active in Quilters, Arlington Heights Nurses Club, Friends of Clearbrook and a volunteer at Northwest Community hospital.

Family activities include winter sports and summer outings. Evann loves being outdoors so an easy maintenance home becomes a necessity.

Continuity abounds throughout the Bragg home and color schemes blend from room to room.

Evann spent hours choosing wallpapers and drapery fabrics to achieve a special inviting atmosphere. Warm colors are dominant with shades of golds, rust, oranges and patches of blue and green for accents. The warm, sometimes neutral, colors successfully create a total affect throughout the home.

THE KITCHEN and the family room are the center of the family activities according to Evann.

The dining area of the thoroughly modern kitchen resembles a friendly country one. The chairs surrounding the table are replicas of the ladder-back type found in early American homes. Warm-toned wallpaper and rich wood hues add a cozy inviting feeling to the large kitchen.

The wood-paneled family room off the kitchen emits a "please sit and relax" feeling. An authentic Tiffany lamp hangs above a refinished tavern table. The table has wooden pockets at each of the four corners which held many glasses of beer through the years.

Evann found the table on an antiquing expedition in Long Grove but has found many other pieces on expeditions to Wisconsin.

EVANN ALSO found an antique brass bed for her daughter. The bed went through a vigorous polishing session in the garage and now awaits a quilt which Evann is knotting for it.

In another daughter's bedroom is an old-fashioned chest of drawers painted yellow. Fanatic antiques would probably cringe, but Evann adds the necessary personal touch for contemporary living.

It is Evann's feeling that decorating is more of a challenge when different styles of furniture must be tastefully combined. From touring her home, there's no doubt that she has skillfully accepted and met the challenge.

Dear Dorothy: Is there anything we can do about a slick surface on a blackboard so that we can write on it legibly with chalk? Our board is so slick the chalk just squeaks across it and does not write clearly.

—Sue B.

It depends on the type of board. If it's slate, it comes clean when rubbed with the very finest sandpaper or steel wool. Sometimes the marks can be taken off with a regular pencil eraser, then completely washed. One reader tried everything she had heard of with no luck and then resorted to that old faithful, baking soda. She reported the blackboard came out as good as new. If it's a composition board with a finish over it, it can be painted with regular blackboard paint.

Dear Dorothy: How does one broil steak so that it isn't dry after it is cooked? My family likes steak well done and the steak comes out very dry.—Mrs. J. F. H.

You can't have it both ways. Well done steak is always going to be dryer than steak cooked rare or medium rare. Very choice or prime steaks may come out a bit juicier than other kinds when cooked well done. Try the trick a friend uses on her family to make them think it is more well done than she likes it. She barely smears a little butter or margarine over the surface of the meat so it browns a little faster than otherwise. You might try it once.

Good tip for all hospitals: A hospital in Wisconsin beams closed circuit television to patients' rooms, covering 10 subjects important for patients to understand, such as surgery procedures, physical therapy, nutrition and so forth. It sounds like a real help at a difficult time.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Jill Perz Is Bride Of Ballplayer

Jill D. Perz became a baseball wife on Jan. 15 and will be traveling with her ballplayer bridegroom to Arizona the end of this month for spring training with the Cubs. After assignment it'll be either Kansas or Texas for the minor league player.

Jill, daughter of Mrs. Jack R. Perz, 318 N. Elmhurst Ave., Mount Prospect, graduated from Prospect High School. Last August she graduated from Western Illinois University, Macomb. Her bridegroom, Rick E. Reuschel, son of the George Reuschels of Camp Point, Ill., is a senior at Western, and he will return to school in the fall to complete his studies.

The pair's marriage Jan. 15 took place in St. Paul Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect, followed by a reception for 120 at the Casa Royale. Jill and Rick honeymooned at the Abbey.

Attending Jill was Linda Marwedel of Mount Prospect as maid of honor. Theresa Marchand, Prophetstown, and the groom's sister, Susan Reuschel, were her bridesmaids. Paul Reuschel was his brother's best man, and ushers were Dennis Reuschel and Jim Perz, brothers of the bride.

Next On The Agenda

ELKS LADIES AUXILIARY

Arlington Heights Elks Ladies Auxiliary will hold its February dinner meeting tonight. Election of officers will follow the dinner as will a demonstration on glass blowing by Jack Frankenthal.

CAMBRIDGE WOMAN'S CLUB

Reservations are due Friday for next Wednesday's luncheon meeting of Cambridge Countryside Woman's Club. The luncheon will be held at Chin's Restaurant, 10 E. Minor, Arlington Heights, and will include a choice of American and Chinese foods. Cocktails are at 12:30 with luncheon at 1.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Donald Moffett and Mrs. John Bell.

MT. PROSPECT WOMEN

The art department of the Mount Prospect Woman's Club meets Monday at 9:30 a.m. in the Fountain Room of the local community center. Mrs. Louis Vlasak is the leader.

The club's bridge group meets Tuesday, Feb. 29 at 1 p.m. at the center.

ELK GROVE NURSES

Dr. Crystal, an allergist from Elk Grove, was guest speaker for last night's meeting of Elk Grove Nurses Club. Hostesses for the meeting in Alexian Brothers Medical Center, were Mrs. E. Nolan, Mrs. J. Burke and Mrs. T. Weisgram.

Homemakers Hear Astronaut

Lt. Col. Gerald B. Carr, who will command one of the three three-man teams on the upcoming Skylab and space shuttle program, was guest speaker at the recent meeting of Illinois Homemakers Extension Federation.

"The space program can stand on its own feet through the knowledge it provides about the satellite earth," said Carr in answering criticism of the space program. Current popular feelings against science and technology is a mistake that will not be forgiven by future generations, he told his audience. He called the space program "an investment in the future" that has already brought practical returns.

If all goes as scheduled in spring, 1973, Carr will remain on Skylab 56 days to study medical effects of prolonged space flights on man, to study the sun and the possibility of use of solar energy and for a more exact study of the earth's atmosphere.

ALSO SPEAKING at the meeting were Dr. Martha Dunlap, assistant director of the Cooperative Extension, and Mrs. Helen Turner, acting department head, Home Economics, University of Illinois. Their topic was the Extension and the role of the homemaker in today's world.

Workshops were also included in the two-day meeting, and Homemakers were briefed on bills before Congress dealing with consumerism. During the business meeting, Mrs. Peter Sneezy, Lake County, was elected as a director from District II which includes Cook County.

Local Homemakers at the meeting, held on the campus of the University of Illinois, included Council Member Mrs. William Ryan of Mount Prospect. Mrs. Dorothy Landgraf, Cook County Extension Advisor from the Des Plaines office, was also present as were council members, Mrs. Marvin Duntzman, Barrington, and Mrs. Frank Kronn and Mrs. Marie Davids, Northbrook.

Arlington Women Greet New American Citizens

In cooperation with the Citizenship Council of Metropolitan Chicago, Arlington Heights' Woman's Club honored the newly-naturalized citizens of the United States of America, the February class, at a recent welcoming reception at the Chicago Temple First Methodist Church.

Mrs. Peter Tortorice, American Citizenship Chairman for the Arlington club, introduced the Rev. Herman W. Seinwerth, associate pastor, Chicago Temple First Methodist Church, who led the invocation. The pledge of allegiance was led by Mrs. William Stark, IFWC and member of the Arlington club.

Mrs. Laddie F. Poduska, Arlington club president, welcomed the new citizens; Harold W. Calhoun, assistant director for citizenship from the Immigration Service, greeted the new citizens. Also on hand to welcome the February class was Burton Duffie, former director, Education Extension, Chicago Board of Education.

THIRTY COUNTRIES were represented and each citizen received a desk size American flag from the Arlington Heights Woman's Club.

Hon. Eugenia S. Chapman and Hon. Eugene F. Schlickman, Illinois State Representatives and residents of Arlington Heights, also paid tribute to the new citizens.

Mrs. William A. Fricke, club member and IFWC Seventh District Music Chairman, entertained the group with the Star-Spangled Banner and several other musical selections. She was accompanied by Mrs. Oliver Auer, an Arlington club member.

Refreshments were served by club members Mrs. John Frieberg, Mrs. John Peters, Mrs. Richard Blair and Mrs. Stanley Parker.

The Potting Shed

by Mary E. Good

This week's mail brings interesting news for gardeners.

The University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service, for example, is planning an unusual course next month for those who want to do something about their landscaping and yards.

It's a three-session course to be taught via TeleNet, which is a conference phone system that allows class members to gather at various sites around the state. Anyone interested in enrolling needn't worry about having to travel very far; he or she can attend the TeleNet site nearest home.

In this area the sessions will be held at 201 N. Duntun, Arlington Heights, on March 6, 13 and 20. Classes start at 7 p.m.

Floyd Giles and William R. Nelson, University of Illinois Extension horticulturists, will be teaching the course from the Urbana TeleNet site. Instruction will center around sets of colored slides showing landscaping examples, according to Giles. Each location will have duplicate sets and will view them simultaneously.

There's a registration fee of $6. That includes copies of Extension Service circulars on "Landscaping Your Home" and "Pruning and Care of Evergreen and Deciduous Trees and Shrubs" to be used for assignments.

You can obtain more information about this unusual course by calling the Extension Service Office, CL 3-6460.

Another workshop program is scheduled at the Botanic Garden of the Chicago Horticultural Society at Edens Expressway between Dundee and Lake Cook roads this next Tuesday.

This one is on the use of dried plant materials. The two programs, one from 10 a.m. till noon and the other from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., will be presented by staff botanist Betty Storch.

Mrs. Storch will explain where and when to collect materials for drying, how to prepare and store them and also demonstrate unusual ways to make these plant materials look as if they are still alive. Included will be the collection and preservation of ferns and pressed materials and techniques for making wall hangings and plaques.

Mrs. Storch will explain the drying and use of fruits and vegetables as well as flowers.

You must register in advance. There is a $4 fee for non-members and cost to Horticultural Society members is $3. Register by calling Fran Whittin 332-2868.

March also brings the spring show of the Mid-American Orchid Congress at Lincoln Park Conservatory. The show will be on Saturday and Sunday, March 11 and 12. It's sponsored by the Illinois Orchid Society and is free.

While it's expected there will be exhibitors from all over the world, most of those displaying the exotic flowers are members of the 28 orchid societies that make up the Mid-America Congress.

Judges for the event will be coming from as far as California and Florida. Hours for the show are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on the 11th and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on the 12th.

The General Service Administration has outlined plans to sell 2.9 million Carson City silver dollars dating back to 1878. All are collectors' items.

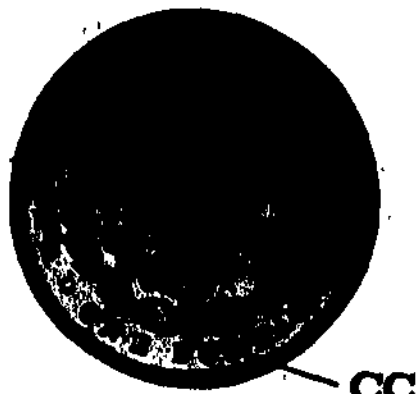

As a first step, the coins were transferred recently by armored car from the U.S. Treasury in Washington, D.C. to the Silver Bullion Depository in West Point, N.Y., where the process of sorting and packaging will take place prior to public sale. GSA officials estimate the first of these coins will be sold in the first quarter of 1973.

Commissioner Douglas K. Kinsey of the Property Management and Disposal Service said a program is being worked out that will give every American citizen a fair chance to obtain at least one of these rare silver dollars.

The dollars will be sold at their numismatic value, as ordered by the Congress, and persons desiring a coin will be required to bid it in at the estimated collectors' value or higher. If orders exceed the inventory in a particular category, coins will be delivered to the highest bidder.

The coins, mostly uncirculated, were minted at the now closed Carson City, Nev., mint between 1878 to 1885, 1890 and 1891. Each coin is to be placed in a handsome plastic case suitable for display and containing a brief synopsis of the history of the Carson City silver dollars. About 91,000 coins, some slightly circulated and some from other mints and of other dates, will also be sold.

IT TOOK almost all of November to transfer the 2.9 million coins in seven semi-trailer trucks under heavy armed guard from Washington to the Silver Bullion Depository at West Point. Each truck was insured for $15 million, and together they contained 3,000 bags of the Carson City dollars.

"The numismatic value of these coins is staggering," remarked Kinsey, "with an estimated average value of thirty times their face value." To a collector, they are valued even more for the link they provide with history. They were struck at the short-lived, troubled Carson City, Nev., Mint in the turbulent last three decades of the 1800s.

In his remarks to those in attendance during the silver dollar "lock-up," Commissioner Kinsey noted that since the first announcement of the proposed release of these coins last year, countless inquiries have been received by the GSA, indicating that the average citizen has joined with the coin collectors in eagerly awaiting the day when they are made available to the public.

Anyone who has followed this story from the day the Carson City dollars were discovered to their commitment to the depository, recognizes how aware the General Services Administration is of the problems involved in releasing so large a quantity of coins under such unusual circumstances.

Note: Part II of Carson City Silver Dollars will list the dates and quantity of each being held in the depository and describe the manner in which they will be sold on a first-come, first-served basis.

An expert doesn't need to bother with the code word ARCH. It is automatic for him to Analyze the lead. Review the bidding. Count his winners and losers and finally ask himself, "How can I make or defeat this contract?"

Of course, the last depends on whether or not he is declarer.

South wins the diamond lead and plays out his ace and king of trumps. The queen doesn't drop so he can't claim seven. As it is he has to scramble for six.

How can he make the contract? Easy! All he has to do is to play hearts and clubs and if West has to follow long enough South is rid of his diamond losers.

If South stops his thinking there, he goes after clubs. West trumps the third club and South explains how unlucky he is.

If South takes the trouble to think the whole play out he notes that he has no play for his contract unless West has at least three hearts. Then South starts on hearts, not clubs.

East shows out on the third heart so South can cash dummy's fourth heart. Then he works on clubs and gets rid of his last diamond loser on the third club.

Suppose hearts were 3-3. Then South would go after clubs and hope for the best while reserving the fourth heart play for the end.

In a few minutes the world wakes up

Your world begins each day at a certain time. If you're like most Northwest Suburban people, your day begins in a comfortable bedroom, in a warm home. Most of what you cherish is in that home. People you love, the intangibles that bind you to them, the security you've provided for them.

These are the things that make home ownership so important to most people. They're the same things that make our job so rewarding. For at First Federal Savings of Des Plaines, we've always considered home loans as more than mere financing of four walls and a roof. We've always tried to make home loans with the knowledge of the very personal and private satisfaction they can bring to people. And that is why our Home Loan with a Heart is more than a slogan. It's an important part of the lives of thousands of people in this area. And, we aim to keep it important for thousands more.

NICE, BOY. Nice, fuzzy. A tiny shopper took time out recently to visit one of the sheep who lived in the mall at Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect for four days. The animal was part of the Spruce Hill Petting Zoo that brought a collection of friendly sheep, capybaras, a giant anteater and a Cameroon pigmy goat to the shopping center. The zoo also included a boa constrictor and alligator.

Alexian Brothers Names Medical Staff Officers

Elected staff officers at the annual meeting of the Alexian Brothers Medical-Dental Staff recently were Alberto S. Armas, MD, president; V. J. Jacey, MD, vice president; and Frank C. Carter, MD, secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Armas, a pediatrician, received his MD degree from the University of Havana School of Medicine. His internship was served at Columbus Hospital, Chicago, and his residency at Cook County Hospital. Dr. Armas is board certified and is a fellow of the American Academy of Pediatrics. On the staff of Alexian Brothers since the hospital opened in 1966, Dr. Armas lives and practices in Schaumburg.

General practitioner Dr. Jacey attended the University of Illinois, Loyola University and received his MD from Chicago Medical School. He interned at West Side Hospital. Dr. Jacey joined the Alexian Brothers staff in 1966. He lives in Palatine and practices in Mount Prospect.

Dr. Carter, a specialist in internal medicine, received his BS and MD degrees from the University of Illinois. An intern at Cook County Hospital, Dr. Carter served his residency at West Side Veterans Administration Hospital. There's a good chance you are paying more than our low interest rates. Borrowing money calls for clear thinking and hard facts. The kind you get from First National Bank loan officers. Our Bud Bruhn, Lyla Guthardt, Larry McDonnell, Lisa Mogensen, and Tom Utzig know how to treat a loan confidentially and to your satisfaction.

They've done it for thousands of Des Plaines area residents on loans ranging from new cars, vacation trips and home improvements to loans paying for medical bills, college tuition and furniture.

There are no hidden charges at First National. You'll know the exact cost of your loan before you sign. Repayments are kept in line with your budget. Credit life insurance is available, too.

Nowhere will you find better treatment or better low loan rates than at First. Come in and find out from Bud, Lyla, Larry, Lisa or Tom.

Harper Seminar Feb. 24

Earl Brooks of Cornell University will discuss "Motivation" as it applies to managers at the Feb. 24 seminar in the Harper College Management Development seminar series.

The session will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and is open to the public. The fee for the all-day program is $40, which includes lunch and materials.

Brooks is professor of administration at the Cornell University Graduate School of Business. He has been consultant in the United States and overseas for General Motors, Mobil, Prudential, Shell Oil, IBM and General Mills.

During the seminar Dr. Brooks will discuss the asset "Which towers above all others — not money, not buildings, not land — but men inspired by confidence in each other." He believes that men should see their own success in the success of their business associates.

For further information about this seminar, or others in the Management Development and Supervisory Department programs, phone the Harper College Community Services Office at 358-4200, ext. 248.

2 Area School Newspapers Win Contest Awards

The Viewer, school newspaper at Forest View High School, and the Sextant, school newspaper at Schaumburg High School, have received honorable mention awards in the annual School Press Project contest conducted by The Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook County.

Through special feature photos, articles, cartoons, quizzes and news coverage, the student newspapers from the participating schools focused attention on the problems of air pollution and cigarette smoking.

All entries in the contest were judged on originality, depth of coverage and journalistic excellence in their treatment of the assigned topics. Judges were Dorothy Johnson, executive editor of Post Newspapers; two members of The Institute staff — John Kirkwood, director of environmental health, and James Somerville, director of tuberculosis eradication.

The prize winning entries have been sent to the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association in New York to compete in the national school press project.

Scout-O-Rama Chiefs Named

Six area men have been named committee chairmen for Northwest Suburban Council's "A Promise To Keep" Scout-O-Rama '72 to be held April 8-9 at Arlington Park Exposition Hall.

Assisting General Chairman John Woods of Arlington Heights are Richard B. Dunlop, vice chairman, and Bob Nord, ticket chairman, Arlington Heights; Irv Sprawko, participation chairman, Park Ridge; Roy E. Ingles, marshal, Des Plaines; Harry Gobrecht, physical arrangements and C. E. Krischano, public relations, Mount Prospect.

More than 10,000 scouts and leaders will participate in the two-day scouting extravaganza.

Hundreds of exhibits and live demonstrations depicting the skills of Northwest Suburban cubs, scouts and explorers are expected to attract close to 100,000 visitors.

Scout-O-Rama tickets will go on sale Feb. 23.

Our land . . . The Land of the Free!

Occasionally, we pause from the commercialism of our business to reflect on the heritage of our great land and the benefits bestowed upon us by our forefathers . . . benefits that have set the pattern for the highest living standards in the world, one of which is our claim to the dignity and pride of our home ownership in the community of our choice . . . in the land of the Free.

It's our land . . . let's cherish it and preserve it every day.

Soaring Land Costs Help Spur Growth Of Townhouses, Cluster Housing

Soaring land costs will help spur the growth of townhouse and cluster housing construction in 1972.

That's the opinion of E. William Savage, vice president of Winkler/Scheid Corp., Los Angeles, Calif., who adds that "efficient land usage becomes increasingly important in housing as available acreage becomes more scarce."

Winkler/Scheid, an investment and financial consulting firm, works with the agricultural and real estate industries and with growth-oriented industrial, financial and services companies.

Savage, real estate investment-oriented in his previous positions as vice president of Shareholders Management Co. and as a senior investment analyst with the Prudential Insurance Co., said that "as available land for housing diminishes, the cost obviously goes up — dictating the type of housing construction feasible for major metropolitan areas."

"Townhouse and cluster housing, thus far, makes the best possible use of available land. It is both suitable and feasible construction for land-scarce areas. Land costs — nationally — are up approximately 25 per cent; they have gone up as much as 45 per cent in Southern California," he said. "This sends builders to their drawing boards to design housing which will treat the land with the dollar respect it commands."

He observes that the popularity of condominiums — one form of scarce-land usage — has declined in some areas. This is due, he explains, not to the type of construction, but rather to increasing maintenance costs. As a result, townhouse and cluster housing construction is growing in these areas.

"So far as single-family housing is concerned," Savage adds, "the three hottest markets this year will be: the northern counties above San Francisco — the suburban-urban region surrounding the Bay Area; the District of Columbia plus adjacent Maryland and Virginia counties; and certain areas in the Deep South — including Louisiana, Georgia, Alabama and northern Florida."

DES PLAINES session will be among the stops for the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards' Sales Caravan. The local sessions set for March 22 at the O'Hare Inn. The educational program includes two speakers. Robert of Phoenix, Ariz., will discuss the anatomy of a sale; and Albert J. Mayer III of Cincinnati, Ohio, will discuss real estate sales techniques. Additional information is available from the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors headquartered in Arlington Heights.

NEW CHARTERS recently issued to Illinois corporations by Secretary of State John W. Lewis include the following: Morton Industries, Inc., 15 N. Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights, to act as a sales representative or counselor for others in the promotion or sale of their products; by Morton Clotfelter; Sportsman's Liquors, Inc., 1443 W. Schaumburg Road, Schaumburg, to buy and sell wholesale alcoholic and non-alcoholic beverages by Charles Engers and Jacob Ullrich; and Court Homes of Foxcroft Condominium Association, a not-for-profit corporation, 148 Evanston, Hoffman Estates, by Arthur Kelter, Morton Sillen and Dennis Taheny.

PRODUCER AND distributor of educational films, Oxford Films, Inc., recently opened a branch office in Mount Prospect. The firm, based in Hollywood, Calif., will serve the Midwest and Eastern regions of the country from the new office at 300 W. Golf Road. Charles H. Jensen, executive vice president will head up the new office. He was formerly a vice president of Walt Disney Educational Material Co.

SPECIAL PLAQUE was recently presented to Chevrolet general sales manager Robert D. Lund by Thomas C. Todd, of Tom Todd Chevrolet in Wheeling. Todd, chairman of the National Chevrolet Dealer Council, made the presentation on behalf of the 6,300 Chevrolet dealers across the country at a Detroit meeting. The plaque cited Lund for sales of more than 3 million Chevrolet cars and trucks in one year. Chevrolet set an industry record in 1971 with sales of 3,092,315 cars and trucks.

FOURPLEX AND FHA Section 234 building will be discussed by Dave Corneau, president, and Jay Moore, vice president and marketing director, both of Puiter Homes of Illinois, at the Feb. 21, meeting of the Home Builders Association of Lake County. The group will meet for a social hour at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m., followed by the program. It will be held at the Parkway in Waukegan, according to Robert Spillane of Hailmar, Inc. in Zion, president. Tickets are $7.50 a person with advance reservations, of $8.50 at the door. Reservations can be made by calling Maria Svaidl at the Home Builders office, 782-8657.

THE BOARD OF directors of Lucky Stores, Inc., at a recent meeting elected two new vice presidents, C. A. Dorman and R. E. Tedford. The announcement was made by William H. Dyer Jr., chairman of the board. Dorman, formerly president of Dorman's Inc., will be the division manager of the new Automotive Division of Lucky Stores, Inc. Tedford, formerly vice president of Hancock Textile Co., Inc., will be the director of operations of the new Fabric Division of Lucky Stores, Inc., and his office will be located at the headquarters in Tupelo, Miss.

THE APARTMENT Council of Metropolitan Chicago (SCMC) recently held an informal Talk Session in Chicago. Louis Silverman, president of Development Management Group, discussed condominiums before a group of more than 25 residential builders, according to Ned Simon, ACMC president. The next informal talk session will be held at noon, Wednesday, March 8, at the downtown Holiday Inn located at 1 South Halsted St., Chicago.

Buying A Home For Investment

The old homestead not only has a price tag on it today — it probably has a resale value, a tax schedule plus appreciation plus profit potential.

"In other words, it's an investment, pure and simple — especially if the owner is under 30," said Jackson W. Goss, president of Investors Mortgage Insurance Co., Boston, Mass. Investors Mortgage, a subsidiary of Continental Investment Corp., Boston, is an organization in the private mortgage insurance industry. The company works with lenders, such as savings and loan associations, mutual savings banks and commercial banks, by insuring the top 20-25 per cent of high-ratio conventional mortgage loans.

"Today's young marrieds look at homes in a far different light than did their parents. They do not think of a house merely as basic shelter — four walls and a roof — and they most assuredly do not consider it the place where they will spend the next 30 years.

"Housing is a commodity to the young — something to be bought and sold — and hopefully at a profit. This type of thinking is not limited to primary homes alone — it includes leisure and vacation homes as well," Goss said.

He takes issue with those specialists who see America becoming a nation of one-home owners — buyers who think of a house only as a place to live — to hold on to for years. That was the situation years ago when many Americans owned farms that were passed on from generation to generation, he said.

The reason for the two different schools of thought is simple: the under-30 segment of the population has never known anything other than an affluent America, according to Goss. "These young people have grown up with a continually advancing economy," he said. "Depression is just a word — out of the past — to them. And as for recessions, well, most believe that a recession involves politics just as much as it does economics.

"Young marrieds know how to make — and spend — money. And one traditional concept they have taken to heart is that of real estate investments. That's why they look at a house as a potential money-maker," he said.

In fact, Goss states, a recent survey of young married couples — all under age 30 — indicates that 63 per cent definitely consider housing an investment. Some 39 per cent already owned at least one house and had plans to buy another — either a vacation home or a house that they can lease and from which they can derive rental income.

A large percentage also indicated that they don't plan to buy a vacation home just to use for themselves. They intend to use — and, of course, enjoy — this home-away-from-home, anywhere from three to six months a year and rent it for the rest of the time. The rental income will help pay for the house and the investment, Goss said.

"Still others report that they are taking — or plan to take — advantage of new financing programs to buy houses — and apartments — with the lowest possible cash down payment and then to rent them. They know the tax advantages that go with such an investment," he said.

A new course in the principles and practices of industrial real estate has been developed by the Society of Industrial Realtors. It will be offered for the first time April 9-15 at the Lake Shore Club, Chicago.

The course is open to all Realtors, as well as society members and salesmen with their firms, according to an announcement by C.V.W. Trice Jr., Miami, Fla., society president.

Subjects to be covered include: types of industrial property; distinguishing characteristics of industrial real estate; identifying and measuring industrial growth; location; land use inventory; industrial land use projections; zoning; marketing industrial space; sources of funds; credit analysis vs. financing sources; leases and leasing; specialized inputs to the brokerage of industrial real estate; evaluating future trends in industrial development; and functions of the industrial real estate broker. A case study and an examination are also scheduled.

Enrollment will be limited to 100. The registration fee of $165 includes tuition, a copy of the text, course materials, one dinner, and six lunches.

The course will cover material in the first 10 chapters of the second edition of the book, Industrial Real Estate, published last October by the society — a professional affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Four SIR members will serve as lecturers — J. Baldwin Pearson, Bridgeport, Conn.; Thomas J. Daly, New York; Robert P. Boblett, Minneapolis; and Milton Podolsky, Chicago.

For complete information and a copy of the enrollment form, write the Society of Industrial Realtors, 1300 Connecticut Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

Group Ownership Course Offered

Group Ownership (Syndication), course will be presented in Chicago, on Feb. 22-24. The event, presented by the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers and sponsored by the Chicago Real Estate Board, will take place at the Lake Shore Club of Chicago.

The instructors explain that the advanced three-day workshop course concerns the development of skills and techniques needed to organize groups of clients interested in investing in a syndicate. Instruction includes procedures for property acquisition, selection of properties best suited for group ownership, maximum tax structuring and marketing methods.

Registration for Group Ownership (Syndication) can be made through the Registrar, Department of Education, NIREB, 155 E. Superior St., Chicago, Ill., 60611, or through Thomas Hughes, executive vice president, Chicago Real Estate Board.

With 18,000 members, NIREB is the largest professional organization affiliated with the National Association of Real Estate Boards and acts as its educational arm for Realtors and sales associates.

The Alexander Construction Co. announced the opening of models at The Village, its $15 million residential and commercial planned unit development in Great Hill, north of Joliet in Will County.

Four furnished model condominiums are open for inspection at the community on Caton Farm Road at Route 30. The condominiums, priced from $18,950 to $22,100, will be grouped into buildings containing either four or five units. The "quad" buildings will contain four units and garages; the "quint" buildings will contain five units, the fifth replacing the garage space. According to Walter Sebring, marketing director for Alexander.

The developers say that the condominium units are geared primarily for married couples under 30; the town homes for those under 35; and the single-family homes for those over 35.

Phase I of the residential section of the community will comprise, in addition to the 144 condominiums, 36 private garden homes, priced from $34,900 to $39,900; and 32 patio townhomes, priced from $29,900 to $36,400. Models for the latter two housing types will be opened later this Spring. When completed, the community will comprise a total of 550 residential units, comprised of all three types of housing.

There also will be a clubhouse with recreational facilities; a convenience shopping center and acres of open landscaped areas. The Village Clubhouse and Pool will include a billiard room, card room, teen room and fully-equipped kitchen. There is no membership fee for any of these year-round facilities. The cost of maintaining them is a shared expense for a monthly charge for each family.

The units will have exteriors of stained wood and pebble-coated panels to present a rustic appearance. Four of the five units are available with garages as optional extras.

Each residence has two bedrooms and features wall-to-wall carpeting throughout, kitchen with oven, range and refrigerator; color coordinated sink; thermopane glass sliding doors; storm doors and screens.

The A Unit, priced at $18,950 or $19,950 with garage, is a ranch-style residence with two large bedrooms, living room and kitchen-dining room with sliding glass doors leading onto a private fenced-in patio and storage area.

The B and C Units, which are priced at $20,950 or $21,950 with garage, have identical but reversed floor plans and are two-story homes each with two bedrooms, bath-and-a-half, living room, dining area, storage-utility room, private fenced-in patio, closets and convenient storage area.

The D Unit, priced at $21,100 or $22,100 with garage, is a private ranch home one level above the ground. It has two bedrooms with walk-in closets, a living room, a dining room with balcony terrace and a storage-utility room, in addition to the storage space adjacent to the residence.

The E Unit, priced at $21,100, essentially the same as Unit D, is not available with a garage and is found only in the quint buildings. On the ground level, it has a private fenced-in patio instead of a balcony.

Furnished models are open daily from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. and on Sundays until 7 p.m.

Record-Breaking Sales Announced

A cooperative sales volume of $6,986,415 marked the highest January sales volume ever recorded for MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate Service. The sales volume record topped the 1971 January sales by $516,767.

The $6,986,415 January 1972 sales volume is the result of 180 cooperative sales between participating MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate companies, and combined with the number of non-cooperative sales established a record average home sale price of $37,254.

The January sales figures were disclosed at a MAP officers and directors meeting where a main topic of discussion was the outlook for Real Estate sales in the coming year and the requirements needed to answer the growing changes in customer home buying habits.

"We are unanimous in our feeling that 1972 will produce another outstanding year in area Real Estate Sales," said Bill Nieman, current MAP president. "The MAP officers and directors base our outlook on the general atmosphere of buying and listing enthusiasm that is obvious in the market. We see no major fluctuation in the all important mortgage money situation and we all see continued substantiation in the fact that the Northwest Suburban Chicago area is certainly still one of America's most desirable living areas," he said.

Winterfest Planned

The Branigan Organization announced that its Apple Canyon Lake project will remain open all winter. The decision marks the first time in its four-year history that Apple Canyon Lake has remained opened for winter sporting activities.

The winter opening is centered around Branigan's Winterfest, to consist of several weekends in which the public will be invited to join in the many wintertime activities that Apple Canyon Lake offers said Robert Kessler, vice-president of Branigan's Lake Properties of Illinois and Wisconsin.

"As soon as property owners take over when the lake is sold out," Kessler continued, "the development will be open only to owners and their guests."

Included in the one-day Winterfest outings will be pony and horseback riding, sleigh-rides (buckboard rides, if there is no snow), snowmobiling, sledding, tobogganing and ice skating. In addition a cheese and sausage buffet will be served along with hot chocolate and fresh apple cider.

Kessler pointed out that anyone interested in attending the Winterfest, must make a reservation by calling The Branigan Organization at 279-3102.

"We even have special charter buses to transport our guests to and from Apple Canyon Lake," Kessler said. "This, I feel, will make it more of a 'vacation' for the whole family. Or for those who prefer to drive out, Apple Canyon Lake is located just off Route 20, seventeen miles east of Galena."

Kehoe Named Ryerson Product Representative

Luke P. Kehoe of 886 Millers Rd., Des Plaines, has been named an aluminum-sales representative for the Chicago service center of Joseph T. Ryerson & Son, Inc., the nation's largest metals service center organization. The appointment was announced by G. Phillip Later, sales manager, product sales, in Chicago.

A graduate of John Carroll University in Cleveland, Kehoe brings 14 years of experience in the aluminum sales field to his new Ryerson position.

Packheiser Promoted By Park Ridge Bank

Robert C. Packheiser, 256 Peach Tree Ln., Elk Grove Village, has been promoted to assistant cashier by the Board of Directors of Citizens Bank & Trust Co., Park Ridge.

Packheiser joined Citizens in 1965 as a teller. After three years, he was promoted to loan interviewer in the Commercial Loan Division where he spent three and one half years. Packheiser will remain in the Commercial Loan Division but will assume new duties as assistant cashier.

He attended DePaul University, University of Illinois and the American Institute of Banking.

Railway Exec. Retires

C. A. Murphy of 290 N. Westgate Rd., Mount Prospect, administrative assistant to vice president-information systems, Santa Fe Railway, has retired.

A native of Salt Lake City, Utah, Murphy began his Santa Fe career in the company's accounting department at Los Angeles, Calif. in 1924.

He advanced through various positions there and in 1964 was transferred to Chicago as disbursements accountant. He was promoted to chief clerk in 1967 and in 1967 was appointed assistant to general auditor. A year later he was named administrative assistant, serving in that position until his retirement, following more than 47 years of service.

EQUITY PROGRAM in which the rent can be allocated toward the purchase of a future home has been announced by Mor-Well Construction. The plan is in effect for residents of the Town Square Apartments in Schaumburg, shown above. A percentage of the monthly rent can be allocated toward a down payment on a home built by Mor-Well Construction.

Delinquencies Rose Slightly

Despite the rise in unemployment and business uncertainties, mortgage loan delinquencies at the nation's savings and loan associations rose only slightly during 1971, the United States Savings and Loan League reported.

As in 1970, mortgage delinquencies continued to run at a rate of less than 1 per cent of all mortgages held by savings and loan associations.

The average mortgage loan delinquency ratio for 1971 was .79 as compared to .76 during 1970. During the last quarter of 1971 loan delinquencies dropped fractionally from .84 in September to .80 in October, and then stabilized at .79 in November and .80 in December.

The United States League's monthly report of mortgage delinquencies is based on a survey of more than 800 savings and loan associations. It includes loans on which payments have not been made within 60 days of the payment date stipulated in the mortgage. Included are not only conventional loans, but also loans made under programs of the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration.

Norman Strunk, executive vice-president of the League commented: In light of the increased unemployment in 1971, it is surprising and encouraging that delinquencies remained so low. This gives evidence of the fact that American families still regard their home payments as the number one monthly obligation."

Shows One-Level Living

Miller Builders, Inc., has underlined confidence in the popularity of one level living by the opening of a new ranch home at Northgate in Arlington Heights.

The project has six other models priced from $41,850 to $48,450. With a wall of window facing the side yard.

NEW RANCH MODEL featured at the Northgate project in Arlington Heights is the Vermont, shown above. The development is by Miller Builders, Inc. Three bedrooms, two baths and a two-car garage are featured in the house. A full basement and mud room are also included. House is of brick with aluminum or cedar siding.

The Vermont has three bedrooms, two baths, built-in oven, range, dishwasher and disposal, family room, full basement, mud room, two car garage and carpeting among the extras included in the $45,990 price.

This house includes an entrance foyer. A living room and dining "L" with a picture window is featured.

The dining room has another window facing the rear yard and is accessible from the 21-foot kitchen. At one end of this room is a place for informal dining has a window and wet weather entrance to the two-car garage.

The retirement wing, with three bonus-sized bedrooms is separated from the rest of the house. There are two baths, of which one is private to the master bedroom.

There are two closets in the master suite, plus those in the mud room, front entry, both family bedrooms and the linen closet. There is a full basement as well as extra storage in the garage.

A continuation of the space dedicated to informal living is found in the 17-foot family room, where sliding glass doors lead to the patio area. The utility room. This home is equipped with nylon high-pile wall to wall carpeting, as shown in the model. The kitchen has built-in oven and range, dishwasher and disposal, plus self edged countertops. Both baths have colored plumbing and ceramic tile. The exterior of the house is of brick and either aluminum or cedar siding. The lot is landscaped with seeded lawn and trees.

Miller offers three other ranch designs, one in the Willow North in Glenview, one in Mill Creek in Buffalo Grove, and another at College Hill in Naperville. Miller vice president, Peter Dudek, said, "We find there is an enthusiastic market for the quality ranch home."

Checking Apartment Fees

THE HERALD

Thursday, February 17, 1972

Section 3 — 13

By taking the time to learn what is included in your apartment lease, and what isn't, you may save yourself considerable disappointment or even some money, one of Chicago's leading real estate experts advises.

"Maybe that wonderful swimming pool, sauna, tennis court, and party room are available to you as a tenant and to your guests free of charge, and maybe they're not," cautions William D. Sally, vice president and general manager of the property management division of Baird & Warner, Inc.

"The same goes for cooking gas, air conditioning, and even hot water. You just can't assume that basic services as well as amenities come with the apartment. There are too many exceptions, so it pays to investigate."

An ethical leasing and management agent will make it perfectly clear in the advertising, literature, lease form, and tenant information just what your monthly rent buys according to Sally. "If anything isn't clear, feel free to ask the rental agent," Sally says. "He should have the answer and state it positively. If he tries to duck, you can suspect trouble."

It pays to have a checklist of things to ask about when you look at apartments, Sally said. Here's what the Baird & Warner people suggest:

Who pays for the heat? It used to be that the landlord furnished heat to all apartments. But in many newer apartments today, electric heat is provided and the tenant pays the bill as registered on his electric meter. Some garden-type apartments have central gas or oil heating units for each apartment, and again, the tenant pays for the fuel used.

Who pays for hot water? Again, there are some apartments which have individual hot water heaters and the tenant pays for the fuel or power.

What about air-conditioning? If the apartment has window or wall unit air conditioners, chances are the tenant pays for the electricity. If the apartment is centrally air conditioned, the tenant may pay for the electricity used to operate the circulating fans in his apartment.

Is cooking gas free? In some buildings, particularly all-gas structures, the gas for your oven and range may be free, a good bonus if it is. The normal arrangement is to pay separately for cooking gas.

Is your electric service limited to your apartment? Don't laugh: some landlords have been known to tap into tenant circuits for hall lighting and even to operate mechanical equipment, such as a water pump. "The best way to check is to operate the circuit breaker in your apartment or remove the fuses one by one to see if anything outside the apartment is affected," Sally said.

Is window-washing included? If so, how often are windows washed and if there's a charge, what is it?

How about parking? Whether it's inside or outside, parking may involve an extra charge of anywhere from $10 to $50 per month. If an attendant parks your car, there's a tip. Ask about guest parking.

Will the floor be finished? In brand-new apartments, the floor is usually raw concrete, although some buildings put in tile. If the floor is unfinished, the tenant is expected to carpet or tile it. Don't assume that because the model apartment is carpeted, yours will be, too.

Is there a charge for special decorating? How much allowance is there for decorating on a renewal lease? Many buildings limit your choice of colors. If you want something different, or if you want wallpaper, you may have to pay for the privilege, or at least guarantee to restore the walls to their original condition when you move.

How much is the master TV antenna? You probably will be charged an installation fee plus a monthly use charge.

Is there a private bus to take tenants to and from the nearest commuter station or business district? Some apartment owners play up this feature but they may charge extra for it.

What about charges or clean up fees for use of recreation and hospitality facilities? These are many and varied, Sally says. Even though you're a tenant, you may have to pay extra to use the tennis courts, swimming pool, party room, sauna, and other facilities. If equipment is needed, there may be a charge to rent it. And even if these facilities are free to you, guests or relatives may have to pay.

Are there custodial charges? For example, if you find yourself locked out of your apartment, is there a charge for the janitor to come up and let you in? What about charges for after-hours emergency repairs in your apartment?

What's the Christmas tipping custom? You may be pressured to come up with a large amount. Although tipping isn't compulsory, if your building has many service personnel that you depend on, you may find that it's better to tip generously than to skimp.

What are the fees, if any, if you want to sublease or re-lease the apartment? Owners or agents will usually charge for this because of the paperwork involved.

"All of the above relate to money," Sally said. "There are several other points to be checked out, too. For instance, in a new building that's been rented for the first time, you may find a doorman or security guard on duty. But will he be there when the building is filled? Find out if full-time doorman service is provided."

Another point to check is pets — are they permitted? Ask about the kind of people who are renting, and casually observe the other people in the rental office.

Larwin Sales Are Reported

Sales for 1971 exceeded $14 million at Larwin's Greenbrook Country, a 1,000-acre community in DuPage County. It features three architecturally distinct villages, Tempo, Trend, and Tanglewood. "This brings our total sales since Greenbrook opened in 1970 to more than 16 million," reported Wyn Pope, president of the Illinois region of The Larwin Group Inc.

"We are pleased with the response, particularly among young homebuyers in the late 20's and early 30's, to our innovative home styling, and effective use of large, landscaped areas," said Pope. The community's planned environment Pope said provides an open feeling.

Greenbrook offers a variety of California-styled homes at a range of prices. Trend and Tempo Villages feature single-family homes, and Tanglewood Village offers townhomes. All three villages have large greenbelt areas and cul-de-sac streets, virtually eliminating through traffic within the community.

Larwin's Western influence is seen in the accent on wood with rough-hewn and natural-stained siding, vaulted ceilings, high-pitched roofs, flexible floor plans.

Recreational facilities are featured at Tempo and Tanglewood Villages. Tempo homes are designed for young families, while Trend units appeal to budget-conscious families.

A Larwin Home Center within the community features a line of home furnishings and appliances as well as free professional decorating counsel.

Greenbrook Country is located off Lake Street (U.S. 20), one-half mile east of Barrington Road in DuPage County, and is being developed by the Illinois Region of The Larwin Group Inc., of Beverly Hills, Calif.

Larwin has built more than 27,000 homes in 50 communities since 1948, and also has major divisions in multiple-family housing, financial services including mortgage banking and real estate investment trust management, recreational communities development, and commercial property development.

Single-Family Starts Climbed

Housing, long the sick man of the American economy, made a remarkable recovery during 1971, the United States Savings and Loan League said recently.

In its annual report on trends and economic policies the principal trade organization for the savings and loan business said that housing was the "truly bright spot" in the economic picture.

"During the year," the report stated, "approximately 2.5 million shelter units were started, with mobile homes continuing to account for a substantial share. To the surprise of many, this achievement was on target with respect to the President's goal of producing 26 million units during the '70s."

The league's committee on trends and economic policies, which compiles the annual report, is headed by chairman E. O. Knowles, president and secretary, Peoples Savings Association, Toledo, Ohio.

The report emphasized the fact that during 1971 mortgage lending volume was expected to be 55 per cent greater than the previous record year of 1963. This meant a 1971 mortgage loan volume of $38 billion as compared to $25 billion in 1963. Pointing out that virtually every facet of mortgage lending has shown significant increases over 1970, the report said:

"The largest increases over 1970, however, have come in other than single-family purchase loans. For example, two or more family structure loans through September are up 118 per cent, while five and more family structure loans are up a staggering 173 per cent over 1970. Equally large gains occurred on loans for other structures and other improved real estate."

The report said that the significant increases in these loan categories showed the changing structure of the savings and loan business. It said that the structure of the business was changing because of the fact that associations wanted to increase the yield on average loan portfolios so that associations could pay the interest rates necessary to attract savings.

"In the process," the report continued, "the business has been acquiring the necessary expertise to meet the varied needs of our changing residential housing market."

"The truly surprising aspect of the housing recovery in 1971," it stated, "was the rebound in single-family starts which have averaged 1.1 million units through October of 1971. This compared to only $12,000 during the comparable months of last year. The recovery of single-family starts has tended to dispel the opinions of some who have suggested that the single-family home today simply is an anachronistic survivor from an earlier era."

The report said that despite changing life styles and other social factors, the chief reason for the upturn in housing during 1971 was the availability of mortgage credit.

"The tremendous increase in housing starts can be attributed to a number of causes," it said. "These factors do include growth in industrialized housing and federally subsidized housing programs, but neither accounts for large increases over last year. The main reason for the upturn, of course, has been the staggering increase in the availability of mortgage credit. As a result, mortgage terms have been liberalized significantly this year, and potential home buyers who have been waiting on the sidelines for one, two or more years to buy a house, jumped in quickly as mortgage money became available on favorable terms."

FROM
MAP MULTIPLE LISTING REAL ESTATE SERVICE

IS NOW A GOOD TIME TO BUY?

Inflation, recession, economy, bear market, fluctuating interest rates... can this be the best time to buy a home? Cost experts say yes. Waiting for interest rates to come down probably will cost you more in the long run as labor, materials and Real Estate continue to become more expensive. Home prices are expected to climb as the housing shortage becomes more apparent.

Housing will have to be provided for 100 million more Americans in the next 30 years — in addition to replacing about half of all existing housing.

A home is an excellent long range investment, but it's important to buy wisely and carefully. Prudent purchasing begins with becoming well informed on home buying before you enter into an actual transaction. There are numerous factors that affect your investment and safeguard your financial interest.

The many local Real Estate offices that display the big gold and black "MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate Service" sign can help you make the right move. Call or stop in anytime and meet the "PROS" — the people of MAP Multiple Listing Service who work together for efficient, satisfactory Real Estate service to the community.

Motorola's Management Realigned

A broad realignment of management responsibilities at Motorola "in response to growth and complexity requirements, thus creating additional opportunities for many," has been announced by Robert W. Galvin, chairman.

A New Ventures activity has been formalized encompassing various research, business opportunity and acquisition explorations, and special marketing units. Stephen L. Levy, vice-president and general manager of the company's Semiconductor Products Division, has been named to head the activity as vice-president, New Ventures. Levy will be succeeded as vice president and general manager of the Semiconductor Products Division by Thomas J. Connors, now corporate vice president for marketing, and formerly head of marketing for the Semiconductor Products Division.

The post of director of corporate staff has been created to encompass supervision of the corporate functions of engineering, manufacturing and facilities, marketing, planning and public relations. The corporate functions of finance, human relations and multinational operations will continue to report to the chairman/president's office. J. Paul Jones, vice president and general manager of the Government Electronics Division, has been named vice president and director of corporate staff. He will be succeeded as general manager of the Government Electronics Division by Ralph W. Elander, vice president and assistant general manager. Robert J. Solen, divisional director of communications operations, becomes assistant general manager of the division.

The new position of vice president, general manager, Equipment Divisions, has been established to provide for cognizance of the Automotive Products, Communications, Consumer Products and Government Electronics Divisions by one senior operating officer. Homer L. Marrs, vice president and general manager, Communications Division, has been appointed to this post. He is succeeded as head of the Communications Division by John F. Mitchell, vice president and assistant general manager of that division. Carl E. Lindholm, vice president and director of product operations, becomes vice president and assistant general manager.

A six-man operating committee with William J. Weisz, president, as its chairman, has been designated with its first permanent members being Thomas J. Connors, vice president, Semiconductor Products Division; John T. Hickey, vice president, Finance and Administration; J. Paul Jones, vice president, Director of Corporate Staff; Stephen L. Levy, vice president, New Ventures; and Homer L. Marrs, vice president, Equipment Divisions.

Gensler Honored By Walgreen Co.

Robert C. Gensler, 211 Ivy Ln., Arlington Heights, was honored recently by Walgreen Co. for 25 years of service.

Gensler, general sales manager in the firm's 1900-store agency division, received a gold watch and emblem.

Gensler attended DePaul University and joined Walgreens as a sales clerk in 1946. In 1949 he was transferred to the agency division as a salesman. He was promoted to regional sales manager in 1960 and to general sales manager in May, 1971.

Bank Functions: Drawing A Line

The management of real property by bank holding companies would not be in the best interests of the public, would curb the trend toward greater social orientation for real property management and would stifle the growth toward professionalism in management, said Joseph C. Murray, CPM (Certified Property Manager), Washington, D.C.

In testimony before the Federal Reserve Board on behalf of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and its affiliate, the Institute of Real Estate Management, Murray said "our objection" to the proposals which would permit bank holding companies to engage in property management services, "relates to the . . . activities which involve the bank holding company or its subsidiaries acting as intermediaries between lessors and lessees with respect to real properties generally. . .

"Only a most exaggerated interpretation of the (1970 Bank Holding Company) Act would bring the business of property management within the meaning of 'closely related to banking or managing or controlling banks as to be a proper incident thereto.' In our opinion, not only is this proposal contrary to the language employed in the Act, but we believe it is inconsistent with the intent of the Congress. . . " he said. Murray, a past regional vice-president of IREM, noted that in applying the "closely related" test to the proposals, there must be a "direct and significant connection" between property management and the business of banking or of managing and controlling banks. This connection "has eluded us in our study of this issue," he said.

The line which has been drawn between those activities that are permitted and those which are not is clear and unmistakable, Murray stated. "We strongly urge that the line not be blurred by acceding to the questionable reasoning that, because banks make loans on real estate, real property management becomes a banking function.

"The 1970 Act provides a public benefits test in the application of which the board must consider whether the permitted activity 'can reasonably be expected to produce benefits to the public, such as greater convenience, increased competition, or gains in efficiency, that outweigh possible adverse effects, such as undue concentration of resources, decreased or unfair competition, conflicts of interest, and unsound banking practices.'"

"Real estate managers are generally small businessmen, independent, professional, and highly competitive. Their existence as an independent entity is crucial to today's relationship between landlord and tenant," Murray said.

"Because of the power of banks as lenders of money, it behooves the Federal Reserve Board to draw a carefully defined line so that the banks may not wield this extraordinary power in competition with those who look to the banking system for financial assistance. . . . The banking system should assume a posture of neutrality that is not eroded by the bank's own involvement in one of the fields of consumption — this instance, real estate."

Finally, Murray noted, "the problems of the cities, aggravated by the growing phenomenon of abandonment of buildings, residential and commercial, have focused attention by government and industry on the need for a greater social orientation for real property management. This orientation is now under way hand in hand with growth of professionalism in real property management. "Traditional relationships of owners and tenants are being challenged successfully in the courts. This new concept of management is now emerging, whereby management's role is not solely a protection of the owner-investor's interest but more of a middle ground position requiring a balance of the rights, responsibilities, and needs of both owner and tenant. We are fearful that the extension of real property management as a permissible activity of bank holding companies will stifle both the growth toward professionalism as well as this new and essential social orientation," Murray concluded.

Wittmeyer Named To Insurance Club

In recognition of excellence in insurance sales and service, Ronald F. Wittmeyer, of Custin-Wittmeyer Insurance, Arlington Heights, has again been selected for membership in the Kemper Insurance President's Club.

M. D. Rudgers, executive vice president of the Kemper Insurance Group, awarded the membership and stated that "It is a hallmark of excellence, awarded to agents who have done an outstanding job for their policyholders. We want you to know that your friends in the Kemper Organization are deeply appreciative of what you have done."

The President's Club is the highest accolade by the Chicago-based Kemper organization for outstanding sales and service accomplishments. The Custin-Wittmeyer Agency also attained membership in 1969 and 1970.

Wittmeyer is also president of Northwest Professional Sports Inc., a group of local businessmen interested in promoting professional sports in the Northwest Suburbs. He is also Program Chairman for the Wheeling Township Republican Organization.

Representatives Earned License

A total of 18 sales representatives from the Northwest Suburban Area offices of Quinlan and Tyson, Inc., Realtors, have earned real estate broker's licenses from the State of Illinois. Eight of these were earned during the last year.

Those who have received broker's licenses are:

Palatine area office — Robert Stirn, manager, and Joseph Fredian, Mrs. Ruth Ryan, Mrs. Maryellen Morris, Mrs. Grace Sullivan, Fred Grabner, Duane Smith, Mrs. Mary Fraser, Mrs. Mary Ann Falkenberg, and Mrs. Beverly Berry.

Arlington Heights area office — Marvin Kamp, manager, and Mrs. Bunny Polanz, Anthony Vesta, Mrs. Audrey Sievert, and Robert Griffith.

Schaumburg-Hoffman Estates area office — Kenneth Koy, manager, and Mrs. Mary Shields and Jerry Trofholz.

Richard G. Rutledge, Q&T executive vice president and general manager-real estate sales, said the firm encourages its representatives to go beyond the minimum licensing requirements of the salesman's license and to get the more comprehensive broker's license.

Plan Ski Outing

The Young Builders Council of the Home Builders Association of Chicago-Land will sponsor a winter ski outing on Wednesday, Feb. 23, at the Villa Olivia Country Club in Bartlett.

Jack Lageschulte of Old Colony Builders in Barrington, chairman of the event, made the announcement. Starting time for the group will be 6 p.m., and arrangements can be made at the club for equipment rental and lessons. Reservations for the event can be made by calling Diane Moore at the HBAC office, 782-8657.

Announce Land Sale

Chicago-based Arthur Rubloff & Co., represented by Lee Miglin, vice president, and John Garfield, announced completion of negotiations for the purchase of approximately 40 acres of land by Gould, Inc. in Rolling Meadows. The property is on Golf Road just west of the Northwest Tollway interchange.

The undeveloped property also has access off Rte. 53 and the new Interstate 90. While Gould, Inc. declined to comment on plans for use of the newly acquired land, it was noted that the City of Rolling Meadows recently approved rezoning of this area for office building developments. Vice president Lee Miglin of the Rubloff firm stated that no details would be available on the proposed land use "for several weeks."

"Real estate managers are generally small businessmen, independent, professional, and highly competitive. Their existence as an independent entity is crucial to today's relationship between landlord and tenant," Murray said.

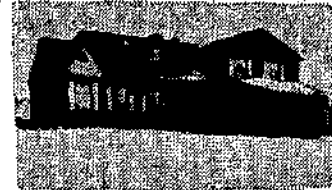

"Because of the power of banks as lenders of money, it behooves the Federal Reserve Board to draw a carefully defined line so that the banks may not wield this extraordinary power in competition with those who look to the banking system for financial assistance. . . . The banking system should assume a posture of neutrality that is not eroded by the bank's own involvement in one of the fields of consumption — this instance, real estate."

Finally, Murray noted, "the problems of the cities, aggravated by the growing phenomenon of abandonment of buildings, residential and commercial, have focused attention by government and industry on the need for a greater social orientation for real property management. This orientation is now under way

Tucker Names Area Realtor

Jack V. Keller, Realtor of Arlington Heights, was appointed chairman of the National Association of Real Estate

Jack V. Keller

Boards membership committee, by Association president Fred C. Tucker Jr. at the recent midwinter business and educational meetings in Las Vegas, Nev.
 Keller, a past president of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors, served as a director of the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards for five years and chaired its membership committee in 1968. He has played an active role in the local, State and National Boards serving on numerous committees. He is currently chairman of the executive committee of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

The 89,000 member organization represents about 500,000 in the field. Realtors serve on these committees without compensation and attend meetings at their own expense.

Wheeling Condo Loan Announced

Percy Wilson Mortgage and Finance
 Corp. has arranged a total financing package of over $1 1/2 million in FHA and VA loans for Sandpbble Walk Condominiums, in Wheeling, according to Clifford L. Wall, vice president of the firm's residential division.

FHA has issued a project financial commitment to Percy Wilson for $2,082,500 for the Sandpbble Walk condominium now under construction.

In addition to the project commitment
 Wilson has also arranged a $1 1/2 million financial commitment to cover the individual home mortgage loans for purchasers of the condominiums.

Sandpbble Walk consists of 336 units in seven buildings. The buildings are three stories each with one and two-bedroom apartments. Recreational facilities include a heated-swimming pool, health club, sauna baths, tennis and shuffleboard courts.

Phase I of the project is scheduled for completion February and phase II will be completed in May of 1972, with phase III through VII scheduled for completion in 1972.

Reservist Promoted

Herbert J. McCauley, 672 Raupp Blvd., Buffalo Grove, has been appointed master chief petty officer of the nation's Naval Air Reserve force. He is the third senior enlisted man to serve in the Naval Air Reserve's top enlisted billet since its inception in August 1969. He is assigned to the staff of the Commander Naval Air Reserve Force/Chief of Naval Air Reserve Training at Glenview Naval Air Station.

The 36-year-old veteran of more than 19 years naval service is advisor and counselor to the air reserve's 26,000 enlisted personnel. His responsibilities include promoting effective communications at all levels of command as well as maintaining sensitivity to the enlisted community's needs and interests.

A native of Minerva, Ohio, McCauley enlisted in the Naval Air Reserve at Akron, Ohio, in 1952. He was advanced to master chief, the Navy's highest enlisted grade, in August 1968.

Prior to assuming his new duties, Master Chief McCauley had served as the enlisted detailer for new assignments at

Earns Cash Awards

Jerry Libit, 626 Raupp, Buffalo Grove, has received a cash award from Walgreen Drug Stores for driving a company vehicle one year without a chargeable traffic accident.

Libit, a truck driver, works out of Walgreen's Warehouse, Berkeley, Ill. This is the fourth consecutive year he has qualified for the award.

He is one of 80 Walgreen truckers who logged a total of more than 750,000 miles in 1971, making deliveries to Walgreen
 Drug Stores in Chicago, New Orleans, Milwaukee, Miami and Houston.

Part Two

Opens Oak Creek North

The Oak Creek North apartment complex in Buffalo Grove was recently opened by Albert Frank Associates.

The eight-unit project, located on Dundee Road, features 150 apartments in the first stage. Albert Frank, who built the original 500 residences in Buffalo Grove, patterned the apartment complex after Oak Creek West project in Aurora.

Both Oak Creeks have approximately 40 acres with three-story buildings in southern antique face brick with natural cedar shake Mansard roofs. There are also swimming pools, recreation centers and children's play areas.

"Our architects are adding to nature at the Buffalo Grove site. We had the landscape architects plan so we could provide a complementary landscaping of the open areas, the land around buildings and the site's perimeter line," Frank said.

Oak beams make up a fence line that borders the width of Oak Creek along Dundee Road. Grass and trees are planted along this beamed wall in a natural sculptured design.

"We did our best," Frank said, "to make each apartment different, to give each a view of the surrounding environment and to allow residents to feel a freedom of living style within an apartment building." Oak Creek offers seven different apartment types and styles ranging from studios to two-bedroom—two-bath family environment units.

Surveys were taken by the planning group established by the Frank organization to define what was available in the area. Then apartment renters and renters-to-be were surveyed on what they hoped to find in their next rental.

All Oak Creek apartments include refrigerator/freezer, dishwasher, separate central air conditioning and heating for each apartment, wall-to-wall shag carpeting and kitchen carpet, patios or balconies, separate entries for each apartment, telephone and color TV antenna connections in all bedrooms and the living room and one-piece marble sink and vanity tops in the bathrooms.

A life of new comfort and convenience. You've earned it.

1-Bedroom Plus Den, Condominium Ranch Home

Here, in one of the most desirable northwest suburban communities, is the kind of new home so many people have been waiting for. Here, at last, is the best of suburban living designed for the needs of mature persons... offering new comfort, new security.

At monthly payments that are less than rent you'll own a condominium ranch home (with no stairs to climb) which has 1-bedroom plus a den, a spacious living-dining area, modern cabinet kitchen and your own private, enclosed garage. You'll have no major items to buy because your home will include all of these ready-for-living features: 100% Nylon carpeting • deluxe frost-free refrigerator • oven and range with hood • automatic disposer • triple-track storm windows and screens • completely landscaped grounds. Year-round exterior maintenance is included so you can forget about snow-shoveling or grass-cutting. You'll be living within a short walk of a modern shopping center and surrounded by convenient community services and facilities such as police and fire protection, churches, hospitals, forest preserves, golf courses and other recreational areas. You'll be living in the very same outstanding community, Hanover Park, which has attracted so many young families—perhaps your own children.

One last "good news" reminder: There is no age limit on the FHA Mortgages available in Hanover Square.

Jeff Larsen — No. 1 On Another Honor Roll

YOU WON'T FIND Jeff Larsen's name among the top performers in today's area honor roll.

Although he has been a solid swimmer for the Prospect team all four years, this senior has yet to crack the top five in the 100-yard butterfly.

However, he easily ranks No. 1 on another list, a hero's honor roll.

Jeff, you see, performed an act which is only second to one — giving up one's life for a friend. He saved his friend John Todd's life a week ago Wednesday.

Prospect's heroic team captain explained what happened when a typically normal practice session at the Northwest Suburban YMCA turned into a nightmare:

"He was swimming under water. He just did it to see how long he could hold his breath or something. I don't know.

"He just blacked out and was lying on the bottom. They thought he was watching the other swimmers."

John, who was wearing goggles at the time, appeared to be resting on the bottom. But when this so-called rest stretched nearly a minute, Kent Dexter, another teammate, decided to go after him.

"He went down and dragged him out of the water," said Larsen. "He was blue and wasn't breathing."

Some of the Knight swimmers were pretty shocked in this situation because they didn't know what had happened. Jeff was not.

"I'm a lifeguard at Kopp's Pool, so I've been trained how to give artificial respiration," said Jeff. "After a half minute or so he started breathing on his own. We gave him some oxygen from the resuscitator they had there."

An ambulance took Todd to the hospital. His close call was serious enough to keep him there until late Friday afternoon.

"I'm a little tired, but other than that I'm all right," said Todd.

John had shared the top seed with Elk Grove's Dave Toler in the 100-yard breaststroke and had been scheduled to swim in the Mid-Suburban League meet last Friday. He couldn't compete then and his chances of swimming in the district meet on Saturday appear doubtful, but he's happy to be alive.

John could recall going one length of the pool and trying to return without taking a breath. The next thing he remembered was being on the pool deck.

"I didn't know what to say," said John of Jeff's act. "I just thanked him. I figured if it wasn't for him I wouldn't be alive."

This was the first time Jeff had been called upon to use his lifesaving skills. The position he found himself in wasn't an easy one, as he recalled:

"I thought he hadn't been under long and I thought he'd start breathing right away, but he didn't and I was sort of scared."

Despite the crisis, Jeff kept cool, something that didn't surprise his coach, Jerry Lovejoy.

"He's very mature for his age and handles his responsibilities," praised Lovejoy. "He's just the kind of kid every coach likes to have."

"He's been an outstanding swimmer for me the last four years. He's just kind of an all-around guy... very liked by his teammates."

Jeff swam the butterfly leg of the 200-yard medley relay team which set a school record of 1:48.0. The mark ranked fifth on the honor roll until this week when Arlington replaced Prospect.

So even that bit of glory has been taken from Jeff and his team. But last week's heroic act — giving life to John's limp body — can never be taken off any list.

Better Showings In Districts Seen

Coaches of the stronger swim teams in the area agree — this weekend's districts could have more athletes qualifying for the state than ever before.

"I think our area will be well represented because we aren't cutting up each other in the same meet," said Gordon Aukerman, Forest View's coach.

This is a first for the area. Three Mid-Suburban League teams will be at New Trier West and the other four will join St. Viator at Highland Park. Last year all the MSL schools and St. Viator were jammed into the talent-laden Glenbrook South District. Out of that meet came 12 individual places and two relay teams.

Saturday the two most powerful schools — Forest View and St. Viator — are split up. Forest View will be with Elk Grove and Prospect at New Trier; St. Viator will be at Highland Park with Arlington, Hersey, Wheeling and Rolling Meadows.

Both districts will begin the swimming events at the same time — 2 p.m. The diving at New Trier will start at 9:30 a.m. with Highland's getting underway at 10:00.

The New Trier West District, located in Northfield, is "without a doubt one of the two toughest districts in the state," according to Aukerman. The other one is at Hinsdale South where Hinsdale Central is expected to romp as usual. The presence of runnerup New Trier East along with New Trier West and Glenbrook North and South force the MSL entries to travel in extremely fast company.

Forest View has 10 very good possibilities for state qualifying — Cliff Schlak in both the individual medley and 400 freestyle, Mark Bailey in the 50 and 100 freestyles, Pete Lenkeit in the 200 and 400 freestyles, the medley relay (Jeff Geisler, Fred Westdale, John Mate and Bailey), the 400 freestyle relay (Lenkeit, Mate, Norb Polacek and Schlak), Mate in the butterfly and Jim Johnson in diving.

Mate is the only repeater both on the freestyle relay and in the butterfly.

"Johnson injured his hand the week before the districts last year and missed qualifying by 5/100ths of a point," recalled Aukerman. "He made it the year before."

"I'd rather be with the New Trier District," said St. Viator's John Fleck. "I just like tougher competition."

The Lions' coach tabbed three individuals and a relay team as having the best shots of qualifying — Mike Salerno in the backstroke, Randy Robertson in the breaststroke, Kevin Szarabjka in the breaststroke and the 400 freestyle relay team (Jeff Iversen, Ed Fitzsimmons, Dick Fitzsimmons and Mark Savage).

Trying for their second trip to the finals are Iversen and Robertson.

"I can see Elk Grove qualifying in six spots," said Arlington's Don Anderson. "I think that's all they'll do, but that's a lot."

Spotlight On Swimming

He was referring to Scott Bolin in both the 200 and 400 freestyles, Dave Toler in both the individual medley and the breaststroke, Mike Kinn in the butterfly and the medley relay team (Bolin, Toler, Kinn and Spence Huebner).

As for Arlington, Anderson has three individuals who should do well along with two relay teams — Charlie Dunn in the individual medley and backstroke, Ray Hollenbach in diving, Steve Jurco in the 100 freestyle, the 400 freestyle relay team (Jurco, Jim Stoll, Mike Nitch and Rex Hansen) and the medley relay team (Dunn, Denny Stout, Jim McWhorter and Jurco).

Jurco qualified in both the 200 and 400 freestyles last year.

Mike Richartz has the best shot of the Hersey athletes, according to Herb Parsons. He just missed qualifying by 1/10th of a second last year.

Prospect's Rick Fox appears to be the only other area swimmer with a real good shot. He'll be going in 50 and 100 freestyles.

Falcons' Overall Strength Turns Meet Into Runaway

by PAUL LOGAN
Swimming Editor

You're always hearing about the one-two punch in sport. Such a demonstration took place many times Friday night.

Forest View, as awesome a team as there ever was in the Mid-Suburban League, showed such strength in the conference swim meet at Olympic Pool.

Falcon swimmers and divers finished first and third in four events, first and fourth in two others and second and fourth in another. They also took second and third in two other events.

When you add the pair of overpowering relay victories in the opening and closing events, you come up with a collective knockout punch to the jaw of the rest of the league.

This dazzling display of league dominance by Coach Gordon Aukerman's senior-laden team led to numerous conference records and an all-time total point mark of 109. The nearest team, Arlington, was 41 points behind.

To insure a second outright title in three years, Aukerman knew his team had to do more than just take firsts in eight of the 11 events. His Falcons didn't let him down.

"I thought we got some good performances out of our second swimmers which was a necessity in order for us to score," said Aukerman. "In my mind this was the big question — how well our second swimmers would do. I thought they came through almost without exception."

Names like Pete Lenkeit, Norb Polacek, Kent Higgins, Fred Westdale and Craig Hippensteel haven't captured the headlines this year, but these were the young men Aukerman was very pleased with. These were some of the more prominent men in the trenches.

Because of their extra efforts, the rest of the MSL teams finished in this order — Arlington 68, Elk Grove 45, Prospect 37, Hersey 17, Wheeling 10 and Rolling Meadows 0.

"In terms of highlights, I would say the overall performance of the team would be it instead of singling out anyone in particular," said Aukerman. Then he had second thoughts.

"Although (John) Mate's swimming of the butterfly... I don't think you can overlook it in terms of overall accomplishment," he said. "He wasn't top-seeded; in fact, he was nearly a second behind the best seed time. He just swam a helluva race, you can't deny the kid that."

Mate's upset finish of :57.0, six-tenths of a second ahead of favored Mike Kinn of Elk Grove, was the only surprise finish by Forest View. The rest of the Falcon firsts were expected.

Cliff Schlak and Mark Bailey each had a pair of firsts. Schlak won the 200 freestyle (1:50.5) and the 400 freestyle (4:02.0); Bailey captured the 50 free (:23.3) and the 100 free (:51.5).

Bailey just missed setting conference records in both events, but Schlak succeeded in besting both marks set last year by Arlington's Steve Jurco. Mate's effort was also good enough to top the mark of Arlington's Tom Rowe.

Forest View's other two new marks were accomplished by the relay teams. The 200 medley (Jeff Geisler, Westdale, Mate and Bailey) won in 1:45.5; the 400 freestyle (Lenkeit, Mate, Polacek and Schlak) romped home in 3:31.0.

Forest View also won diving behind the runaway performance of Jim Johnson. He missed the league high by just seven points while rolling up a total of 436.00.

St. Viator Just Misses

Arlington's Charlie Dunn, left, and Elk Grove's Dave Toler took the only firsts besides Forest View performers in the Mid-Suburban League meet.

Marmion Wins Final Event, Title

Race To Wire . . . But Lions Falter

Swimming Editor

When a swim team breaks a relay record by over seven seconds, the losing coaches should investigate the foursome to see if any carried concealed miniature motors.

St. Viator coach John Fleck didn't frisk the Marmion Military Academy relay team Saturday, but he probably shook his head a little when the Cadets registered a dazzling 3:25.73 in the 400-yard freestyle event.

Along with motoring to one of the better marks in the state, the hosting Cadets also slipped away with a two-point victory over the Lions and the Suburban Catholic Conference championship at Aurora.

Frosh-Soph Championship To St. Viator

Although the St. Viator varsity just missed capturing another Suburban Catholic Conference crown, the frosh-soph team did come through with a lopsided victory Saturday afternoon at Marmion.

St. Viator had 80 points with Notre Dame a distant second with 66. Then came Marmion 49, St. Patrick 47 and Marist 10.

The young Lions got off to an unfortunate start when the 200 medley relay team was disqualified.

However, the winners were led to victory after that with the outstanding help of freestylers Chris Kenny and Joe McMahon.

Kenny captured the 200 freestyle (2:01.6) and the 400 freestyle (4:20.5). McMahon took the 50 free (:24.6) and the 100 free (:54.8). Then they joined forces with Jim Martin and Mike Skarszynski to win the 400 free relay in 3:49.7.

Jerry Tully rounded out the first-place showings with a win in diving.

"We were out in front until event No. 4 — the 50 free — and then they one-timed us in diving," recalled the Lions' young coach. "Going into the second half of the meet, we were 11 points down."

Then St. Viator, a perennial conference champion, showed it had the stuff which great teams are made of by coming back. Jim Wolf's third (1:01.0) and Monte McCoilum's fourth (1:01.8) in the butterfly got the team started. The same places were recorded by Jeff Iversen (:53.6) and Dick Fitzsimmons (:53.8) in the 100 freestyle.

A 2-3 finish by Mike Schroeder (4:16.0) and Ed Fitzsimmons (4:22.2) in the 400 freestyle then set the stage for St. Viator's two aces — Mike Salerno and Randy Robertson.

Salerno captured first in the backstroke (:57.3) and Mark Savage was right behind (1:01.8) for a 1-2 slam. That put their team just one point behind.

Robertson matched Salerno's performance with another first in the breaststroke (1:06.8). Kevin Szarabjka was fourth (1:06.1).

"After the breast we were two points up," said Fleck. "Then it went down to the last relay."

St. Viator, owner of a 3:32.9 conference record in this relay, needed a win to insure victory. The Lions — Iversen, Ed and Dick Fitzsimmons and Savage — bettered the former mark with a 3:30.8, but it wasn't enough.

The relay event was close heading into the third swimmer. Then Dan Kinney gave the Cadets' anchor man a lengthy lead with a brilliant (:49.0) split for 100 yards, over three seconds faster than the winning time in the 100-yard freestyle event.

"It turned into a dual meet, really, between us and Marmion," said Fleck, although the meet had five teams competing. "The other teams didn't help us in any way."

St. Viator dove in front at the start when the 200 medley relay team of Salerno, Robertson, Wolf and Bob Rathmann clocked a 1:46.83. This was one of two SCC meet marks that the Lions set. The other was by Salerno in the backstroke.

Then Marmion won the next four events — 200 freestyle (Gary Brock, 1:53.99), 200 individual medley (Ned McCrink, 2:12.27), 50 freestyle (Kinney, :23.48) and diving (Chris Pettit, 448.65).

After a Notre Dame swimmer won the butterfly, Marmion followed with the 100 freestyle (Rick Lyons, :52.02) and the 400 freestyle (Gary Brock, 4:07.02). The Cadets won seven titles in all.

"Their kids went their personal bests all the way down the line," pointed out Fleck. "Our kids just haven't come up with their personal bests yet."

Interested In Tally-Ho Club

Tally Ho Country Club, located on US Highway 45, Mundelein is a totally private club.

Tally Ho offers an 18-hole golf course, of a membership which is no longer interested in belonging to a "elite group" and desires something other than parties and functions. Instead, today's member is actively geared and wants to get the most possible for his recreational dollar.

Tally Ho offers an 18-hole golf course, olympic size swimming pool, gracious club house and facilities, and a calendar full of social activities.

In addition, Tally Ho is in the process of constructing four championship tennis courts, which are expected to be ready by the summer season.

A limited number of charter memberships are still available. Open houses are being held on Saturday and Sunday afternoons from 2 until 6 p.m. to explain the 1972 membership program. For further details contact the membership committee at 362-3910.

points, 52 more than his nearest challenger.

Schlack and Bailey weren't alone, however, when it came to being a double winner. Elk Grove's Dave Toler was the only other athlete to turn the trick. Toler bettered his own mark in the individual medley (2:09.0) and topped the record of Arlington's Jeff Burling in the breaststroke (1:07.0).

Charlie Dunn, a very talented sophomore for Arlington, bettered the record he set last year in the breaststroke (:58.4).

The top finishers from the other four schools were as follows:

Prospect — Rick Fox with second in the 50 freestyle (:24.6), Hersey — a pair of fifths by Mike Richartz in the 50 freestyle (:24.2) and Allen Zasadny in diving (2:1.05), Wheeling — a fifth by Ken Bergman in the breaststroke (1:11.8) and Rolling Meadows — a seventh in diving by Mike Tousey (2:02.90).

The MSL conference meet should be much more competitive next year for the bulk of the Falcon team is graduating. Most of this group captured the first league championship as sophomores two years ago. Last year they were undefeated in duals but finished second in the conference meet and had to share the title with Arlington.

"They seem to have gotten the idea that all we had to do was show up and they'd hand us the trophy," said Aukerman of last year's co-championship. "We got dumped."

"To see them come back after last year's tie and do the job so completely, I don't think they left anything to be desired in terms of what they accomplished. I'm just real proud of them," added Aukerman.

56-54 Thriller On An Anniversary

Cardinals Win In Double Overtime

by KEITH REINHARD

Perhaps it was the ghosts of Arlington basketball teams past that blew Jim Kass's jump shot from the corner just slightly off course.

Perhaps not. At any rate the ball narrowly missed its mark and in the resulting scramble for control the final buzzer went off. Nostalgia fans went home happy. Grace gym had survived beyond the 20-year mark. And the Cards had topped off the notable occasion by pulling out a 56-54 victory over Wheeling in double overtime Tuesday night.

"They just don't pay us coaches enough," Card mentor George Zigman was saying after his heart beat had returned to normal and the gym had been mostly cleared in preparation for its third decade of operation beginning Wednesday morning.

Zigman was thinking perhaps some sort of clause should be put in the contracts of both he and the "Cat coach Ted Ecker to compensate for such anxious, frustrating moments, especially the last eight seconds of play when Wheeling almost sent the game into an unprecedented third overtime period.

Moments before that Tim Will had rebounded his own missed shot and popped one in from underneath to break a 54-54 deadlock. Twice before that after regulation play had ended it was Will who had pulled the Cardinals back into a tie when Wheeling jumped ahead.

Tim's last bucket of the game came with 14 seconds on the clock and the visitors hurried to get the ball down to their end of the court afterwards and then signaled for a time out with eight seconds remaining. Zigman speculated about that intermission and the detailed plans Ecker seemed to be mapping out over in his corner for a final Wildcat offensive:

"It looked like they wanted to get off a couple of passes, down the line and then in, in order to give their big man the last shot. We tried to force them outside though and it meant an extra man had to handle the ball. That seemed to cause them to rush their last shot a big even though they might not have had to."

According to Ecker this analysis was only partially true. The big play he chalked out before those final frantic seconds had Kass getting the ball in the corner as planned but he was supposed to have the option of shooting or passing in to Roger Wood close by the bucket.

"Jimmy probably didn't think there was enough time left to pass off when he took that shot. He was hemmed in pretty good and normally I think he would have gone with the pass instead of the shot in that situation," Ecker said.

Whatever the last minute strategy, the hosts had countered it to take away their second decision over Wheeling this year and close the book on regular season division play with a second place finish firmly in hand.

The Wildcats have now fallen in six of their last seven meetings with Arlington stretching back to the 1968-69 campaign.

Earlier in the evening Tuesday, a close-scoring game did not appear so evident. Big Red collected four quick buckets in the first period and the guests assumed a 15-10 lead after one period play and maintained it right through halftime.

Midway through the third stanza, Mid-Suburban League scoring leader Ken Peters broke loose to nail down a pair of 15 footers and Will pitched in a couple of charity shots to wipe away a 33-27 deficit and forge a 33-33 standoff. At the outset of period four the hosts even moved on top temporarily when Terry Ormsbee struck from inside and followed up with two free throws a minute later.

Wheeling stormed right back though, and appeared to put things on ice after Kass struck twice on long shots and Wood jammed one in all alone underneath. The score favored the 'Cats 48-42 with less than three minutes to go.

At 2:37 Ormsbee connected on a 15 footer. At 2:17 Peters was left alone for a second and hit from the 10-foot range. At 1:19 Peters struck again from 17 feet out and the score was deadlocked at 48-48.

Arlington held off for a last second shot but Ormsbee missed a five footer with less than ten seconds to go and the contest was sent into overtime. In the first extra period Wildcat George Kange went down the baseline for a layup. Will came back with a pair of free losses and once more the hosts held out for a last second shot only to miss inside right under the bell.

The second overtime session looked like the first one for a while. Wood connected on a 10 footer, Will countered with two free throws, Arlington gained control and set up for the countdown.

But the Cards surprised the enemy this time by moving in quick. Mike Cleveland missed a close-in shot but tipped it back in for 54-52 advantage with 1:10 remaining.

Wheeling came right back on two free throws by Wood at 0:58. After that Arlington held off until Will came up with the rebound shot at 0:14 that proved decisive.

Ironically, the winning bucket allowed the Cards to finish up with exactly one more point than they had in their original game at this site 20 years earlier to the day. On that occasion they lost to Hinsdale 62-55.

And then again, maybe it was the ghosts of Arlington teams past which guided that last attempt by Will up and into the hoop.

Arlington Frosh-Sophs Swim To League Honors

The Arlington frosh-soph team, posting seven firsts, rolled to nearly as lopsided a victory as Forest View did in varsity competition Friday in the Mid-Suburban League conference meet.

The Cardinals of Coach Don Anderson, behind the double wins of both Joe Nitch and Brian Kelly, captured the third straight conference title in as many tries at Olympic Pool in Arlington Heights.

"I was real pleased with Joe Nitch," said Anderson. "He's a very outstanding swimmer and he's only a freshman."

Nitch set a meet record in the 200 individual medley (2:22.9) and nearly missed another in the 400 freestyle (4:22.4).

Kelly won the 50 freestyle (1:24.2) and then came back in the final individual event, the breaststroke, for another first (1:12.2).

"Overall," said Anderson, "we swam pretty well. Since this was not a year when many sophomores were swimming on the varsity, the sophomore picture is relatively clear for all the teams."

Arlington's Ron Hefner tied a record in the backstroke (1:04.8). The other Cardinal firsts came from these athletes:

Eric Kroeger in diving (297.45) and the 200 medley relay team (Hefner, Larry Miller, Don Fanning and Kelly) in 1:55.7, another record.

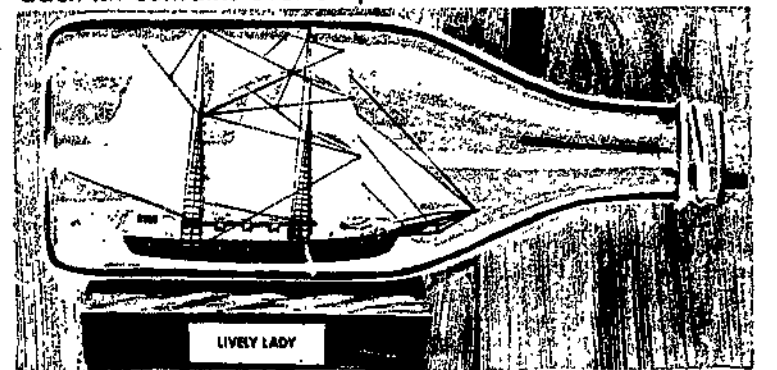

Hersey, the second-place finisher, had Kevin Taylor take first in the butterfly (1:04.5) as well as the 400 freestyle relay (Bob Butler, Taylor, Bob Larue and Dave Henderson) with 3:50.8, both were meet records.

Forest View, which finished third in the meet, was paced by Kevin Redig's win in the 20 freestyle (2:04.9) and Doug Schlak's record-setting 100 freestyle (54.1).

The final point totals went like this: Arlington 97½, Hersey 51, Forest View 41, Wheeling 31, Rolling Meadows 26½, Elk Grove 25 and Prospect 14.

Hughett Cops Only First In Conant's Track Opener

Conant's indoor track team, which has some talented veteran individuals and plenty of promise, finished a deceiving third in a triangular Thursday to open the season.

Wheaton North won the meet with 64 points, Glenbard North had 43 and Conant 28. However, coach Jack Ary commented that "this was no indication of what we can do. It was our first meet and we're not in shape yet. We'll have most of the kids back who finished second in the conference outdoors last year."

John Hughett was the Cougars' only winner in the opener, taking the high jump with 5-6. Hughett placed second in the long jump with 19-6½.

Four other Cougars also grabbed runner-up honors — George Swegles with 5.9 in the 50-yard dash, Scott Clark and Doug Paape in a tie with 10-6 in the pole vault and Bob Everly with 4:55.8 in the mile run.

Third places went to Russ Windholz with 45-7 in the shot put and Jeff Brandt with 9.2 in the high hurdles. Finishing fourth were John Bond with 10:29.7 in the two-mile run, Perry Miyashita with 17-9 in the long jump, Paape with 5.2 in the high jump, Everly with 2:14.7 in the 880, Bob Kross with 56.9 in the 440 and Warren Olsen with 8.3 in the low hurdles.

Several individuals expected to help the Cougars still are busy with winter sports. Terry Stenger, a wrestler, was third in the long jump in the Mid-Suburban League meet last spring. Rick Phillips, a sophomore basketball player, will be a high jumper and Bill Anderson, a gymnast, is an experienced pole vaulter.

Swegles was the conference champion last year in both the 100 and 220-yard sprints and Hughett also was an MSL champ in the long jump. The relay teams also look promising, according to Ary.

Conant has a tough assignment Thursday against what Ary calls "two of the best dual meet teams in the state" when the Cougars go to Evanston to take on the Wildcats and veteran-laden Palatine. After that, Conant's next meet will be against Niles East and Notre Dame Saturday, Feb. 26.

Three Pirates Gain Wins

Palatine ran into some formidable competition in indoor track Saturday and finished third in a quadrangular at Oak Park.

The powerful host Huskies won with 61 points. Addison Trail was second with 56½, Palatine had 41½ and Willowbrook 25.

The Pirates of coach Joe Johnson had three individual winners — Brian Barnett with 9:47.9 in the two-mile run, Fred Miller with 2:00.7 in the 880-yard run and Jan Fitzgerald with 7.5 in the low hurdles.

Garnering second places for Palatine were Barry Schultz with 18-11 in the long jump, Jim Brandt with 6-0 in the high jump and Paul Strealer with 12-0 in the pole vault. Thirds went to Fitzgerald with 8.2 in the high hurdles and Scott Williams with 4:33.0 in the mile run.

Palatine had opened its indoor season last week with a victory against Maine West. The Pirates will travel to the home of state power Evanston Thursday, along with Conant, before competing in the Proviso West Invitational Saturday.

In frosh-soph action at Oak Park, the hosts won easily with 106 points to Willowbrook's 58, Palatine's 27 and Addison Trail's 12.

Conant Hikes Mark To 15-4

It was Indiana-style basketball from the start — run, run and shoot, shoot, shoot.

There was some scoring done, too, as guard Bill Arkus' 28 points led Conant to an 87-77 non-conference victory over visiting Harvard Tuesday night.

The triumph, which upped Conant's overall record to 15-4, provided a good warmup for Friday night's crucial game at Elk Grove which will make or break the Cougars' title possibilities in the South Division of the Mid-Suburban League.

The Cougars survived a nip-and-tuck first half to take the lead near its conclusion, then came out smoking in the second half and were never in trouble. Ahead by as much as 22 points in the fourth quarter, coach Dick Redlinger was able to give everyone some playing time.

Arkus enjoyed his biggest scoring outburst since the Christmas tournament at Grant as he hit 11 field goals and six of nine from the line. He upped his overall average to 18 points per game as the team leader.

Dave Schmitt, 6-7 center, helped with 17 points and forward Chet Pudlosky had 15. Pudlosky, the leading rebounder in the MSL with an average of 17 boards per game, collected 19 rebounds to help Conant to a healthy advantage in this department.

There was plenty of contact with all the running as a total of 47 fouls were called. Four players fouled out. Harvard was hot from the line with 29 of 37 to keep the score within reason.

Conant got off to a fast start, jumping to a 12-3 lead, before being hit with a sudden assault by the guests. Almost before fans could glance at the scoreboard again, Harvard had suddenly taken a 14-12 lead. "They have one of the fastest breaks I've seen," said Redlinger.

But the Cougars were showing some ability to run, too, aided by their domination of the boards. The score see-sawed through the second quarter before Arkus hit two quick baskets just before halftime for a 38-34 lead at intermission.

"Our kids came out ready to play in the second half," said Redlinger. This was evident when the Cougars gradually pulled away to an eight-point lead, 63-55, after the third quarter.

Conant got even hotter early in the fourth period, reeling off 14 straight points without retaliation, to take its biggest lead at 77-55 with five minutes left. That's when Redlinger started clearing his bench.

Schaumburg Ice Hockey

The Schaumburg Kings hockey team broke even last week, winning three games and losing three on five levels of competition. Four of the contests ended in shutouts, two of them being closely-played losses and two easy wins. The Peewees, Bantams and Midgets posted victories while the Squirts, Mites and Midjigs lost.

MIDGETS
Schaumburg lost the first of two games for the week as Elk Grove staked to a 3-1 triumph. Elk Grove had 29 shots on goal in the Kings' 14. The Midgets were winless in three tries against Elk Grove this winter, one of the games being a tie.

Five days later, the Kings made up for the defeat with a 5-4 victory in a long-awaited game against the Palatine Norsemen at Downers Grove. It was a well-played, even game as shots on goal indicated (27 for Palatine and 25 for Schaumburg).

The Norsemen scored first, only to be tied on a deflected goal by Dennis Pollard, assisted by Bill Marzoo. Marzoo scored on an assist by Bill Lemar, to tie the game once more after Palatine took the lead. The Norsemen led once more before Marzoo's second goal, assisted by Steve O'Hanlon, gave Schaumburg a 3-3 tie.

PEEWEE
Schaumburg shut out Elk Grove 5-0 with fine skating and passing and a shutout game by goalie Jeff Gross.

The Kings did not score until after 10 minutes of play when Crisp Landis scored with assists by Mike Riley and Kurt Klier. The second goal came two minutes later by Riley with Klier assisting.

In the last period, Danny Gorman scored on a quick unassisted shot while the Kings were short-handed to make it 3-0. Another goal by Landis with assists by Riley and Klier, plus a score by Crisp Gatto with assists from Rich Walltschek and Ray Gawnon, closed out the scoring.

BANTAMS
The other Schaumburg shutout came in a 6-0 Bantam victory over Elk Grove. Five of the goals came in a first-period assault and goalie Ed Platt played a fine game to preserve the shutout.

First to score was Rob Payson with assists by Bob Atkinson and Scott Scholz. Then Cary Dickerson scored with an assist by Joe Ciccia. Mike Waghorne was the next scorer with Atkinson's assist. Payson scored the fourth goal (his second) from John Irmann. Dan Culvert trailed from Atkinson before the first period ended, and Irmann got the only goal of the second half on Culvert's assist.

SQUITS
Elk Grove earned a 2-0 shutout over the Kings after a scoreless first period. In the second period, Schaumburg was plagued by bad positioning and inability to control the puck.

The Mites of Schaumburg lost a tense one to Naperville, 1-0. Not until late in the game was the only goal scored on a shot that bounced off a King player's skate and crossed the goal line. Goals by John Maccheri made 10 saves for the Kings in their finest defensive performance of the season.

COMING GAMES
Schaumburg will play its next games Monday, Feb. 21 against Danville at the Polar Dome from 8:00 to 9:30 p.m. Admission is free.

state champions; Rev. Ed Moosbrugger of St. Ignace (Chicago), dean of area tennis mentors; Joanne Pepe of Morton College, believed to be the area's only woman coaching a men's tennis team; Tom Pitchford of Arlington, Neal Peterson and Don Biere of Rolling Meadows, Roy Kearns of Harper College and Hughes Davis of perennially strong New Trier East.

Early-round results:
First round — Paul Tulacka (Morton College) over Paul Nemecek (La Grange), 6-4; Jim Rees (Downers Grove South) over Kearns, 6-1; Morrison over Dan Hildebrandt (Lake Park), 6-1; Schaller over Harold Anderson (Thorndale), 6-1; Tolman over John Macarek (Lake Park), 6-1; King over Dennis Wade (Hillcrest), 6-1.

Quarterfinals — Anderson over Tulacka, 6-4; Morrison over Rees, 7-6; Schaller over Tolman, 6-4; Velasco over King, 6-2.

Helen Lutsch Sweeps Senior Women's Class

The Mount Prospect Skating Club participated in the two-day Land of Lincoln Meet sponsored by the Champaign-Urbana Skating Club at the University of Illinois Rink in Champaign.

This meet is the largest indoor meet sponsored by an Illinois club and heralds the move from the outdoor season to the indoor season. Since it is an open meet, competitors come from many other states to tune up for the National Indoor Championships that will be held in St. Louis on March 11-12.

Senior lady Helen Lutsch swept her class with wins in the one-mile, 3/4-mile, and 1/2-mile events and a third place finish in the 440-yard sprint.

The intermediate boys class was well represented with Steve Pedersen, Todd Jonland, Bob Haenisch, and Dick Robertson competing for medals. Dick Robertson had several falls which kept him out of his final events. Teammates Pedersen and Jonland skated well, but not quite good enough to make the finals in this very competitive class. Bob Haenisch placed third in his one-mile race and second in the 3/4-mile event. A fall in the 880 and a disqualification in the 440-yard sprint kept him from contending for the class championship.

Greg Robertson, competing in Class A for the first time, missed making all of his finals by one position. The club expects him to be scoring points in the near future.

The juvenile boys class was represented by Eric Jonland, Tommy Grunnah, National Outdoor Champion, and Rich Vehe. Grunnah scored fourth place positions in the 880 and 1/8th-mile races and a second in the 1/3-mile event. While coming up fast on the leader in the 440-yard race, he went up on his toes and fell in the final turn. Vehe skated easily through his heats, but had his problems in the semi-finals. In his 1/6th-mile final he placed fifth to miss scoring points.

Juvenile girl Joan Wagner, competing for the first year in her class, scored her first points with a thrilling third-place finish in the 1/6th-mile race.

The club will travel next weekend to Park Ridge for the State Indoor Championships on Saturday and to the Northwestern University Rink on Sunday for a meet sponsored by the Evanston Speed Skating Club.

Hockey League Open For All High School Squads

The founding members of the Chicago Metropolitan High School Hockey League are anxious to expand the league so that all area high schools interested will be able to participate.

Applications to join the league next season and names and telephone numbers of present coaches are available at Paddock Publications by contacting Larry Everhart in the sports department. Other information on the league can be obtained by contacting secretary Al Gibbons (Lane Tech coach) at 644-8300, ext. 332, or 642-0718.

A special meeting will be scheduled to arrange expanding new divisions. Applications for the 1972-73 season will be reviewed at that time. Current plans are to start in October and continue through March. Games are played at the new Twin-Ice Forum in Oak Brook Terrace.

The league suggests that interested schools start organizing now and, if possible, hold tryouts and practice during the rest of the winter. The entire process of starting play, getting finances raised and pulling a representative team together usually takes two or three months.

Celtics Host Soccer Fete

The Palatine Celtics hosted a banquet for the entire Young Sportsmen's Soccer League of greater Chicago at Fremd High School last Saturday.

Brad Byker, high-scoring Celtic star, was awarded a Silver Bowl by Sports Illustrated magazine for appearing in the magazine's "Faces In the Crowd" feature last fall.

Each team in the league was awarded three individual trophies — for best sportsman, most improved and most valuable player. Palatine elected to decline its trophies, feeling that while winning championships on both levels there were no three boys who stood out. The Palatine Park District, which sponsors the soccer program, gave trophies to every Celtic.

The boys also gave plaques in appreciation to their coaches — Fred Hegel for heading the junior team and Jim Kinsella for guiding the intermediates. Ann Marsland also was cited for handling publicity for the teams.

Other teams present were Morton Grove, Northwest Kickers, Skokie, Hanover Park, Menominee Boys Club of Chicago and Northbrook.

Palatine's spring season will open April 1 for at least two teams. Age levels this year will be 10-14 for intermediates and 15-18 for juniors.

REWARDING

Immediate openings in our phone room for ladies who have lots of enthusiasm, a will to learn and a desire to talk with people. You'll be working for an advertising director and a company who really cares about people. It could be the most rewarding and enjoyable position you've ever had. Sound interesting? You bet it is! This position involves handling established advertising accounts and developing new ones. Previous experience in sales, public contact or phone work helpful but not necessary. A pleasant outgoing personality, a little determination and the ability to type is what it takes. We'll train you to do the rest.

SALARY PLUS INCENTIVES

This is not a commission-type job but added incentives mean you can easily make more than the set wages. Your extra earnings will largely depend on how well you personally perform. Many liberal company benefits including paid vacations and holidays, sick leave, profit sharing, hospitalization, disability insurance and company paid life insurance. You may be just the person we're looking for and we may be just the company you're looking for. One way to find out — come in between 9 a.m. and 12 noon and fill out an application. Ask for Larry Bell, Classified Advertising Manager, or call:

ASSESSMENT NO. 72-C-9129

Notice

IN THE MATTER OF THE PETITION OF THE VILLAGE OF SCHAUMBURG, a municipal corporation, for the special assessment to pay the cost of constructing water mains, sanitary sewers and otherwise improving Schaumburg Road and Roselle Road in the Village of Schaumburg, Cook County, Illinois, as hereinafter described and what property will be benefited by such improvement and the amount thereof.

It appearing in this cause and the files herein, and the affidavit of ownership filed therein on the 16th day of February, 1971, that there are certain defendants and certain defendants designated as "ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN" who upon diligent search, cannot be found so that personal service of process cannot be had on said persons.

Notice is hereby given to said defendants and defendants designated as "ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN" and to all other persons and parties named in the report and assessment roll of the Commissioners filed in this cause in this Court against whose property benefits have been assessed therein: to pay the cost of the improvement herein described; that on the 24th day of January, 1972, said Village of Schaumburg filed its petition in said Circuit Court of Cook County, praying that steps be taken to ascertain the just compensation to be made for private property to be taken or damaged for the improvement known as IN THE MATTER OF THE SPECIAL ASSESSMENT TO PAY THE COST OF CONSTRUCTING

TWO WATER MAINS, SANITARY SEWERS AND OTHERWISE IMPROVING SCHAUMBURG ROAD AND ROSELLE ROAD IN THE VILLAGE OF SCHAUMBURG, COOK COUNTY, ILLINOIS, and to ascertain what property will be benefited by such improvement and the amount of such benefit, and to levy a special assessment upon all the property benefited by said improvement to pay the cost of said improvement in accordance with the terms and conditions of said ordinance and in the manner provided by law; that the summons in said cause is made returnable on the 20th day of March, 1972, to said Circuit Court of Cook County, County Department, County Division, to be held in the Chicago Civic Center, City of Chicago, Cook County, Illinois, and that the pieces and parcels of property sought to be taken for said improvement are described as follows, to-wit:

The West 20 feet of the east 50 feet of a parcel of land in the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of Section 22-41-10 bounded by a line described as follows: Beginning on the east line of said northeast quarter 274 feet south of the north line thereof, thence south to the south line thereof 225 feet, thence east parallel with the north line thereof 258.80 feet, thence north parallel with the east line thereof 438.56 to the south line of the north 225 feet thereof; thence east parallel with the north line 102.62 feet, thence south on a line forming an angle of 85 degrees 38' 20" measured from west to south a distance of 40 feet, thence east parallel with the North line thereof 166.62 feet to the place of beginning.

71-22-301-041
The West 20 feet of the east 50 feet of a parcel of land in the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of Section 22-41-10 bounded by a line described as follows: Beginning in the North line of said northeast quarter 148.5 feet west of the center line of Roselle Road, thence South at right angles with said North line 148.5 feet, thence west 4 feet, thence South 78.5 feet to a point 225 feet south of the north line, thence west parallel with said north line 63 feet, thence North 225 feet to said north line, thence east along said north line 67 feet to the place of beginning.

71-22-301-015
The South 20 feet of the North 50 feet of a parcel of land in the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter of Section 22-41-10 bounded by a line described as follows: Commencing in the North line of said northeast quarter 218.5 feet west of the center line of Roselle Road, thence South at right angles with said north line 225 feet, thence west parallel with said north line 69 feet, thence North 225 feet to said north line, thence east along said north line 69 feet to the place of beginning.

71-22-301-004
The South 20 feet of the North 33 feet of the west 176 feet of a parcel of land in the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of Section 22-41-10 bounded by a line described as follows: Commencing 307.66 feet west of the northeast corner of said northeast quarter, thence South 224.12 feet, thence west 746.95 feet, thence North 251.69 feet, thence east 763.26 feet to the place of beginning.

The West 30 feet of the east 65 feet of the South 720 feet of the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter of Section 22-41-10.

That the total cost of the said improvement as shown by the estimate and report filed in this cause is of TWO HUNDRED NINE THOUSAND THREE HUNDRED TWENTY-FIVE and 79/100 DOLLARS ($209,325.79), that a special assessment has been made to raise the cost of said improvement, and that the Commissioners' Report and Assessment Roll therefor was filed in the office of the Clerk of said Circuit Court of Cook County, Illinois, on the 16th day of February, 1971, and the said proceedings therein are now pending.

You are hereby notified that the summons in this cause is made returnable to the 20th day of March, 1972, of the said Circuit Court of Cook County, County Department, County Division, to be held in the Chicago Civic Center, City of Chicago, Cook County, Illinois, and where you may appear and defend if you see fit to do so.

MATTHEW J. DANAHER
Clerk of the Circuit Court of Cook County, Illinois.

We print a new textbook daily!

Motivate your students! The newspaper can be the key to a new kind of teaching-learning experience... bridging the gap between classroom ideals and the reality of living.

Because of the daily service provided in the news, young people are growing up aware of the problems they must face. Education must encourage, not dispel, the growing, active interest through exploration and study of the press.

Sugar 'n Spice

a way to warm your winter...

You can count on a bit of sunshine, captured from vacation lands, to combat winter's chill. To warm up appetites and dispositions, brighten the table with color and flavor. For a dinner-time fiesta serve a gay and hearty meal that couples old-fashioned charm with modern convenience.

It's easy to say "welcome home" with a beef roast that cooks in the oven unattended. A boneless rolled beef rump, providing more servings per pound than bone-in cuts, can be roasted when of the high quality generally available and will provide flavorsome, juicy slices. A beef rump also makes a fine pot-roast for braising in oven or atop range.

For one of those extra touches that make a meal special, glaze the beef with a spicy sauce, utilizing the syrup drained from peaches. Extra sauce can be thickened for a delicious gravy. A vegetable combo of green beans and water chestnuts completes the main course.

Rolled Beef Rump Roast

4 to 6-pound rolled beef rump roast
Peach-Onion Glaze

Place beef rump roast, fat side up, on rack in open roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer so bulb is centered in thickest part of roast, making certain it does not rest in fat. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in slow oven (325 degrees) until roast meat thermometer registers a temperature of 140 degrees to 170 degrees, depending upon the degree of doneness desired. Allow 25 to 30 minutes per pound. Brush roast with Peach-Onion Glaze several times during last 15 minutes of roasting time. For easy carving let roast "stand" 15 to 20 minutes after removing from the oven. Internal temperature may rise 5 degrees or more during this time. For optimum tenderness serve roast rare or medium and carve into thin slices. Thicken drippings with flour for gravy if desired.

Peacy Dressing Casserole

1 can (29 oz.) sliced cling peaches
3/4 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
6 cups toasted bread cubes
1 envelope onion soup mix
1 teaspoon sage
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups milk

Drain peaches and reserve syrup. Set aside 8 peach slices. Cut each of remaining slices in half. Cook celery in melted butter or margarine for 5 minutes and combine with halved peach slices, bread cubes, onion soup mix, sage and baking powder. Beat eggs until light, combine with milk and pour over peach-bread mixture. Lightly stir to distribute ingredients evenly and let stand 5 minutes. Turn into well-greased 1 1/2-quart casserole. Garnish with reserved peach slices. Bake in a slow oven (325 degrees) 60 minutes, or until knife comes out clean when inserted in dressing. Yield: 5 to 6 cups.

Peach-Onion Glaze

2 tablespoons onion soup mix
1/4 cup hot water
1 cup peach syrup
2 tablespoons catsup

Dissolve onion soup mix in hot water in saucepan. Add peach syrup (drained from canned peaches) and catsup. Bring to boil and cook 12 to 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Let stand 5 minutes. Brush glaze on roast several times during last 15 minutes roasting time. Yield: 1 cup.

Three Penny-Wise Chicken Dinners

Because chicken is perhaps the most versatile as well as most economical of all leading meats, these invaluable birds provide your guests with elegant food at a thrifty price. To prove the point, here are three penny-wise show-off dinners, each delectable enough to satisfy the most exacting gourmet and earth economical enough to please the family breadwinner.

The first dinner features Twin Roast Chickens. This classical American favorite is prepared with a Savory Rice Stuffing that combines precooked rice with onion, celery, bread cubes — and a judicious combination of seasonings.

Chicken Fruit Festival presents the birds in the suave Oriental manner, with mixed fruits, celery, green pepper and ginger and curry, among other seasonings. Serve it too, Oriental fashion, with rice.

When a French chef buys a chicken, he really knows what to do with the succulent bird, and Blanquette de Poulet is a French favorite. It classifies as a stew, but it is prepared in the superb French fashion, with a combination of herbs and spices and delectable lemon sauce.

Since meat is the most expensive item on a company menu, it is important to remember that dollar for dollar, chicken gives you more for your money than any of the other leading meats. And since chicken is rich in high-quality protein, it's a fine nutrition value, too.

legs and tail together. Repeat for second chicken. Place chickens in shallow roasting pan. Roast uncovered in a 375-degree oven 30 minutes per pound, about 1½ hours. Yield: 8 servings.

Savory Rice Stuffing

¾ cup butter or margarine
¾ cup chopped onion
1½ cups chopped celery
1 cup packaged pre-cooked rice
1 teaspoon Accent
1½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon dried leaf thyme
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 1/3 cups water
3 cups day-old bread cubes
Melt butter in saucepan. Add onion, celery and rice; cook over moderate heat, stirring, until celery is crisp-tender. Add seasonings and water. Bring to a boil over high heat; reduce heat and simmer 2 minutes, gently fluffing rice once or twice with fork. Add bread cubes; toss until well mixed. Yield: Enough stuffing for 2 broiler-fryer chickens.

CHICKEN FRUIT FESTIVAL

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in serving pieces
1 teaspoon Accent
1½ teaspoons salt, divided
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 can (1 pound) fruit cocktail
1 medium onion, sliced
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon curry powder
¼ teaspoon ginger
½ cup sliced celery
½ cup sliced green pepper
2 teaspoons cornstarch
¾ cup water
Sprinkle chicken with Accent and 1 teaspoon salt. In large skillet, brown chicken in melted butter. Drain syrup from fruit cocktail into skillet. Add onion, lemon juice, curry powder, ginger and remaining ½ teaspoon salt. Cover and simmer 20 minutes. Add celery and green pepper; simmer 10 minutes longer. Blend cornstarch and water; stir into chicken mixture. Add fruit; simmer 2 minutes longer. Serve with hot cooked rice. Yield: 4 servings.

BLANQUETTE DE POULET

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in pieces
2½ cups water
1 teaspoon Accent
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon dried leaf thyme
1 bay leaf
1 onion, stuck with 2 cloves
1 rib celery, diced
1 carrot, sliced
1 sprig parsley
¼ cup butter or margarine
12 small white onions
3 tablespoons flour
2 egg yolks
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon sugar
Put chicken in pot with tight-fitting lid. Add water, Accent, salt, thyme, bay leaf, onion, celery, carrot and parsley. Bring to a boil; cover; reduce heat and simmer 1 hour until chicken is tender. Meanwhile, melt butter in saucepan. Add onions, cover and simmer 25 minutes or until tender. Remove onions; blend in flour. Remove chicken from pot; strain broth and measure 2 cups. Gradually add broth to flour mixture in saucepan, stirring constantly. Bring to a boil; remove from heat. Beat egg yolks, lemon juice and sugar with a fork. Gradually add to broth mixture, stirring constantly, and cook until thickened; do not boil. Add chicken and onions; heat. Turn onto platter; garnish with parsley. Yield: 4 servings.

TWIN ROAST CHICKENS

2 whole broiler-fryer chickens, about 3 pounds each 1½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon Accent
Sprinkle cavity of each chicken with ¾ teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon Accent. Fill neck cavity of chicken with Savory Rice Stuffing. Hook wing tip into back; fill body cavity with additional stuffing. Tie legs together with string, then tie

Tasty Meatless Main Course

Yesterday's homemaker had a single-minded interest in her food... she just wanted it to taste good. Today's mother demands the same but she has a second desire as well... she wants the food she serves her children to be as fresh as possible. Health food shops are doing a booming business the country over, and there's a strong new interest in natural foods.

Today we know that quality nutrition can determine how people look, act, and feel. The homemaker knows that the foods she feeds her family can make the difference between ending the work or school day with listlessness... or with the vitality which insures enjoyment of evening time. What fuel goes into the body determines energy level, health and zest for life.

Meatless Loaf, rich in protein, turns up for dinner or lunch... and provides a most delicious meatless main course. It's economical and easy since wheat, spinach, eggs and peanuts all go into the blender with a dash of pepper sauce. With the Meatless Loaf, serve a Parsley Mayonnaise that's a snap to make in the blender and is a most delicious accompaniment. The whole dinner offers that fine quality that comes only with foods you prepare yourself from fresh ingredients.

MEATLESS LOAF

1 tablespoon peanut oil
1 onion, chopped
1 cup cracked wheat, uncooked
2 cups water
2 teaspoons salt, divided
1 pound spinach, cooked (approximately 2 cups)
1 cup unsalted peanuts
2 eggs
½ teaspoon liquid pepper sauce

Heat oil in medium saucepan. Add onion and cracked wheat and cook until onion is transparent. Add water and ½ teaspoon salt. Bring to boil, cover, reduce heat and cook over a very low heat 15 minutes, until all water is absorbed. Place spinach, peanuts and eggs in container or electric blender. Cover and process at high speed until pureed and smooth. (It may be necessary to turn the blender on and off at first, pushing contents down with a spatula.) Turn spinach mixture into a large bowl. Stir in cooked cracked wheat, pepper sauce and remaining ½ teaspoon salt. Turn into a 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan that has been lined with well oiled aluminum foil. Bake in 350 degrees oven 55 minutes. Remove from oven and let stand 5 to 10 minutes before removing from pan. Slice with serrated knife for best results. Serve with Parsley Mayonnaise. Yield: 6 servings.

PARSLEY MAYONNAISE

1 egg
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1/8 teaspoon liquid pepper sauce
1 cup peanut oil
¼ cup chopped parsley

Combine egg, lemon juice, salt, mustard, pepper sauce and ¼ cup oil in electric blender container. Cover, turn to high speed, remove feeder cap or cover and immediately begin pouring remaining oil into mixture in a slow steady stream. Process until thoroughly blended and smooth. Stir in parsley. Chill. Yield: About 1½ cups.

CHICKEN WITH WINE sauce is just one of Mrs. Joe Martino's recipes to which her husband suggested adding sherry. Mrs. Martino dots chicken with onion, celery and parsley and bakes it in sherry until well-browned.

Mrs. Joe Martino

Cooking With Sherry

by LOIS SEILER

When Joe Martino asks his wife, "What's Cooking?" it's more than idle curiosity. He is likely to look under the lid, taste the contents and add an ingredient or two.

It was at his suggestion that Jeanne Martino added sherry to a few of their favorite dishes and happily admits that it added such flavor that she has been making them this way ever since.

One is for Clam Spaghetti, the other for chicken baked in a flavorful wine and tomato sauce.

The chicken dish may be likened to a simplified Cacciatore. Dotted with onion, celery, parsley and butter, the chicken is baked in sherry until well-browned.

At this point, pureed tomatoes are poured over all and the baking period is continued.

The savory sauce ingredients flavor the chicken as well as tenderize it. It is delicious served over rice. As an accompaniment for this dinner, Jeanne suggests a green salad tossed with an oil and vinegar dressing.

Her clam spaghetti is quite different. No tomatoes are used in this recipe; the sauce simply consists of clams, clam juice and sherry seasoned with garlic, red pepper and parsley. Simmered for a mere half hour, the sauce is mixed with cooked spaghetti. A green salad is also ideal for this appealing meal.

Both of these dishes make a big hit with the Martino children, Susan, 15, and John, 13, who love Italian food. When the Martino family took a trip to Italy last year, they enjoyed the cuisine of the country as well as meeting their relatives and seeing the sights.

The Martinos have lived in Des Plaines the past 15 years. Jeanne is a member of St. Mary's Altar and Rosary Society.

CHICKEN WITH WINE SAUCE

- 1 frying chicken or more, cut up
- Salt and pepper
- 1 onion, diced
- 1 rib celery, diced
- Butter
- 1 sprig fresh parsley, cut up,
- or 1/2 teaspoon dried parsley flakes
- 1 cup cooking sherry
- 1 one-pound can tomatoes

Place chicken in a shallow baking pan. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Put onion and celery on top of chicken. Dot with butter. Sprinkle with parsley. Pour in sherry.

Bake chicken at 400 degrees for one hour or longer until chicken is very brown. (The browner the chicken, the better it is.)

Then puree tomatoes in blender and pour over chicken. Let bake an additional 30 to 45 minutes at 350 degrees. Serve with rice. Serves 4.

SPAGHETTI WITH CLAM SAUCE

- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1 clove garlic, slivered
- 1/2 teaspoon crushed red pepper or less
- 2 cans minced clams and juice
- 1/2 can water
- 1 cup cooking sherry
- 1/2 teaspoon parsley flakes or 1 sprig fresh parsley
- 1 pound extra-thin spaghetti

Brown garlic slivers in oil with the crushed pepper. Let cool. Then add clams, juice, sherry and parsley. Simmer, uncovered, for a half-hour.

Cook spaghetti and drain well. Pour clam sauce over spaghetti, mix and serve in a large bowl. Serves 4.

Franfare

by Fran Heckart

"Beware of the hot dog" has become almost as commonplace in the past few weeks as "Please don't eat the daisies."

The old-fashioned weiner roast may soon be quietly tucked away as a pleasant nostalgic memory. Never again will I be able to sit with a clear conscience before an open fire roasting a lowly hot dog.

An article in the February issue of Consumer Reports stressing what it considers the poor nutritional value of hot dogs has started the recent heat on the franks.

Consumers Union, which did the testing, states that in 1937, United States Department of Agriculture records show franks averaged 19 per cent fat and 19.6 per cent protein. In 1970, they averaged about 28 per cent fat and 11.7 per cent protein. Therefore, C.U. claims that hot dogs are only 60 per cent as nutritious as they were in the '30s.

HOWEVER, IN OCTOBER, 1969, following extensive hearings, USDA set the permissible maximum fat level of franks at 30 per cent. Reports indicate that 97.9 per cent of the frankfurters tested by the USDA in 1971 met the federal standard.

Meat industry sales statistics show that the best selling frankfurters are moist, juicy and mild in flavor. Lowering the fat makes franks less juicy, and they are also somewhat tough.

C. U. recommends the federal fat limit be pared to 25 per cent and 20 per cent protein be required with only five per cent nonmeat ingredients.

However, taste preference studies have shown that many consumers prefer the fatter, juicier hot dog. A test made in 1969 by Peryon and Kroll Research Corp. showed that 23 per cent of consumers preferred a hot dog with 25 per cent fat, 28 preferred 30 per cent fat, 27 per cent liked 35 per cent fat, and 22 per cent preferred 40 per cent fat.

OTHER USDA regulations as to the composition of frankfurters specify that franks must be made from meat and meat by-products. No more than 3.5 per cent cereal or nonfat dry milk and 15 per cent poultry is permitted, and the label must clearly state this. Added water may not exceed 10 per cent, corn syrup two per cent. All-meat franks must use only muscle tissue with its natural fat and contain no binders.

Franks may contain a nitrate or nitrite (primarily a bacteria retardant) and a color fixer of sodium erythorbate, sodium ascorbate, ascorbic acid or citric acid.

C. U. believes no extra water should be allowed. The meat industry says the water is needed in the processing and is added chilled or as ice, not to adulterate the product but to keep the temperature down during grinding and mixing.

C. U. says that frank does not pull its own weight in the daily diet. Ideally, each meal should provide one third of one's nutritional needs. Two hot dogs do not supply one third of your protein needs.

HOWEVER, NEITHER does an equal weight of any sausage product. Frankfurters provide about the same gram weight of protein as all other varieties of sausage. According to the USDA's "Nutritive Value of Foods," two franks provide 14 grams of protein (C.U. claims 10). An equal weight of cooked steak gives about 20 grams.

In reality, most people do not expect to get one-third of the day's nutrition at lunch. Most people eat rather large evening meals, with smaller breakfasts and lunches. Protein deficiencies are generally rare in this country.

The two meat group servings recommended in the basic four food plan do not usually provide 100 per cent of the body's protein needs. Actually, it's closer to two-thirds and the remainder comes from dairy products and cereal foods.

Spaghetti Sauce Glazes Rib Roast

Glaze a standing rib roast of beef with spaghetti sauce for an elegant and different approach to roast cookery. Made with spaghetti sauce mix, the extra sauce is served over pasta for a change of pace from the usual potato or rice accompaniments.

Marinated Vegetables Italia combines a garden variety of colorful vegetables marinated in red wine vinegar & oil dressing and tossed with greens. Crusty bread and wine complete an outstanding meal.

SPAGHETTI SAUCE GLAZED ROAST BEEF

- 1 package (1 1/2 oz.) spaghetti sauce mix
- 1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
- 1 1/2 cups water
- 2 tablespoons salad oil or butter
- 5 to 6 pound standing rib roast
- Lawry's Seasoned Salt, as needed
- Lawry's Seasoned Pepper, as needed

Combine spaghetti sauce mix, tomato sauce, water and salad oil or butter; stir thoroughly. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 25 to 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Rub roast with seasoned salt and seasoned pepper. Place meat on rack in roasting pan; insert meat thermometer in thickest part, not touching the bone. Place in 450-degree oven 25 minutes. Reduce heat to 300 degrees and roast 1 hour longer. Brush top and sides of roast with prepared spaghetti sauce. Continue to roast until meat thermometer registers 140 degrees for rare (about 1 hour longer) or 150 degrees for medium (about 1 1/2 hours longer), basting with spaghetti sauce every 15 minutes. Allow to stand 20 minutes before carving. Serve remaining spaghetti sauce over pasta as an accompaniment to the meal.

Makes 8 to 10 servings.

MARINATED VEGETABLES ITALIA

- 1 can (1 lb.) shoestring beets, drained
- 1 carrot, coarsely grated
- 3 radishes, thinly sliced
- 1 box cherry tomatoes, halved
- 1 package (10 oz.) frozen asparagus, cooked and drained
- 1 package (10 oz.) broccoli, cooked and drained
- 1/2 pound sliced fresh mushrooms
- 1/2 cup red wine vinegar & oil dressing
- 1 quart torn lettuce
- 1 tablespoon Lawry's bacon

Combine all ingredients except lettuce and bacon. Marinate several hours or overnight, stirring occasionally. Just before serving add lettuce and bacon and toss.

Makes 10 servings.

Mostly For Men

by Charles Flynn

The real oyster lover likes his on the half shell at a raw bar. Still, this succulent bi-valve lends itself well to many cooked preparations which have much more universal acceptance.

Here are three interesting and appetizing ways to serve oysters, which with constantly improving handling and transportation reach inland markets more fresh than ever.

If available in the shell, purchase a dozen large oysters. If not, a pint of tinned large oysters will do. Open shells, leaving oysters in the curved half, or place 3 of the tinned oysters in ramekins or baking shells. Dice 2 strips of bacon very fine.

Place bits of bacon on each oyster and sprinkle with a couple of drops of Worcestershire, a dash of hot sauce and a sprinkle of paprika. Broil 3 inches from flame 2 to 3 minutes until edges curl and serve immediately. Serves 6.

THIS RECIPE FOR oysters casino is a favorite for either appetizers (about 3 dozen) or for 4 main servings over toast points. Chop fine 3 slices of bacon and fry partially, then add 1 small chopped onion and 1 stalk chopped celery. Cook until onion and celery are tender. Add 1 salt, a few sprinkles of seasoned pepper, 6 drops of hot sauce.

Drain 1 pint of shucked standard oysters and arrange in a well-greased shallow baking pan. Spread bacon mixture over the oysters and bake at 400 degrees for 10 minutes. Serve on small dishes as appetizers or plates as part of dinner.

IN MARYLAND, a popular oyster recipe is for Eastern Shore fritters. Drain 1 pint oysters, reserving liquor. Put oysters in a bowl and mix in 1/2 cup evaporated milk. Add 1 cup pancake mix (prepared), 2 tablespoons cornmeal, 1 teaspoon salt, and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Mix well to make a thick batter.

Heat 1/4 cup cooking oil in a 10-inch skillet. Drop batter into hot oil by tablespoons being sure to include 2 oysters in each portion. Cook on one side until brown (1 to 2 minutes), then turn carefully to brown other side. Makes approximately 18 fritters.

If the batter becomes too thick while you're frying, thin with some of the reserved oyster liquor.

Do you have a favorite recipe for oysters, or a question about food?

Delightful Partners For Salad Or Dessert

Great "go-togethers" have been written and sung about for ages. There's love and marriage, sugar and spice, and even the horse and buggy. Well, here's another great pair to hum about — fresh fruit and fruit flavor gelatin — delightful partners for salad or a grand finale for your menu!

To round out a special luncheon, Party Pear and Pistachio Dessert is simple to prepare and elegant to serve, combining two favorites, cool-tasting lemon or lime flavor gelatin and diced fresh pears with the bits of pistachio added for interest. For the busy hostess, this two-layer mold has a real bonus — a built-in topping! (The creamy layer rests on top of the pear and nut mixture.) Party Pear and Pistachio Dessert teams up perfectly with chilled tomato juice, piping hot chicken ala king spooned over freshly baked corn bread, and refreshing iced coffee.

Party Pear and Pistachio Dessert

2 packages (3 oz. each)

- lemon or lime gelatin
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1 1/2 cups cold water
- 4 teaspoons vinegar
- 2 fresh pears, diced (about 2 cups)

- 1/4 cup coarsely chopped pistachio nuts
- 1/4 cup sour cream

*Or use 2 cans (8 oz. each) pears, drained and diced.

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add cold water and vinegar; chill until slightly thickened. Add pears and nuts to 3 cups of the gelatin mixture and set aside. Place remaining gelatin in a bowl over larger bowl of ice and water and beat with a rotary beater until fluffy and thick. Beat sour cream into whipped gelatin. Pour into a 1 1/2-quart mold and chill until firm — about 15 minutes. Then spoon fruit-nut mixture over top; chill until firm — 4 to 8 hours or overnight. Unmold. Makes 5 1/2 cups or 6 servings.

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN WIN!

1. Pick up your FREE "RACING SWEEPSTAKES" card at any National. No purchase necessary.
2. Each card has five races with possible qualifying numbers for each race.
3. After each race is run on WGN-TV, check the number of the horse which finishes in first place. Compare this number with the number shown on your card. If these numbers for a particular race match with the number on your card for that race, you have qualified for the weekly Sweepstakes drawing. Check each of the five races. It's as simple as that.

4. Take your qualifying cards to your nearest National and deposit them in the special locked box in the store.

WEEK RS-7 CARDS ARE NOW READY!

Get your Brown Sweepstakes Cards now. Qualifying cards may be deposited at any time up until Wed. Feb. 23, 1972. Major prize winners will be announced on television and in the newspapers. All winners' names will be posted in the stores and all winners will be informed by mail the week following each race.

Regional Planner Criticizes Area Transit Proposal

A Northeastern Illinois Plan Commission official Tuesday night criticized the Chicago Metropolitan Area Transit System (CMATS) proposal, arguing that such legislation might aggravate rather than improve problems of the area.

Speaking at a forum in Elk Grove Village on the CMATS proposal, John G. Morris, NIPCO director of transportation study, argued that the legislation might aggravate the problem by isolating transportation from other regional problems being studied on a long-range basis.

Morris' comments came after two Chicago & North Western Ry. officials warned that the legislation must be approved soon if the suburbs are not to lose their chance to improve mass transit systems. Representatives of Chicago Area Transportation Study (CATS) and the Chicago Area Rapid Transit System (CARTS) also spoke at the forum, held at Elk Grove Village Municipal Building for the benefit of village officials.

C&NW OFFICIALS have been campaigning in recent months for support for the legislation, known as House Bill 2138, which would create a regional agency to coordinate transit improvements in the suburban Cook County area.

Band, Orchestra To Compete Saturday

Members of the band and orchestra from Grove Junior High School in Elk Grove Village will compete Saturday at the Illinois Grade School Band and Orchestra Association solo and ensemble contest.

Grove is one of 17 area schools participating in the contest, being held at Hinsdale Junior High School in Hinsdale.

Approximately 100 students from Grove will be involved in the various competitions. Last year, Grove won several awards at the school.

Harold Lenske, C&NW director of commuter and passenger service, noted that the federal and state governments have large amounts of funds available for improving transportation facilities. But, he warned, without an organized effort the suburbs may lose any chance for the funds.

"If CMATS is not approved now, the suburbs may lose any opportunity to improve their mass transit systems for the next decade," he said. Chicago officials now have plans that would use up all federal funds for the state for the next 10 years, he said.

Morris, however, said it "isn't quite that bad." Noting that there has been considerable study of the suburbs' transit problems, he said, "We don't believe anybody is abandoning the suburbs for the central city."

POINTING OUT that NIPCO has taken no official position on the CMATS legislation, Morris praised the proposal's unifying concept, but criticized contentions that without it the suburbs would have no chance for improved transportation facilities.

A five-agency board, the Regional Transportation Planning Board, has been created to formulate an active mass transit plan for the area, he said. In addition, NIPCO has been actively studying the problem, he said.

However, Jack Pahl, representing the CARTS proposal, argued that some agency is needed to represent the interests of suburbia.

"The suburban people have to get together to have their interests represented," the former Elk Grove Village president said. "There's no way they're being represented now."

Pahl, who also is a NIPCO commissioner, noted that the CARTS proposal is an alternative plan to CMATS. Sponsored by the Cook County Council of Governments, the proposal would provide for political accountability in transit areas, he said.

YOGA EXERCISES build concentration and trim down the figures, and Kathy Skorcz and 16 other students practice them each week in the yoga program was just started for the winter session and is open to teen-ager as well as adult.

Competing Fund Applications

Health Services Move On In State

The competing applications for funds to provide mental health services to Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships have made it through two levels of the state's review process, but state officials will not reveal what preliminary recommendations have been made.

The two grant applications to the Illinois Department of Mental Health, one from Elk Grove Village Community Service and the other from Northwest Mental Health Association in Arlington Heights, seek funds to provide psychiatric and social services for the two townships.

Northwest has been supplying services to the two townships and also to Wheeling and Palatine townships. Last year the four-township area was divided into two separate planning areas by the state and as a result Community Service decided to apply to serve the new two-township planning area. The state will fund only one agency for each planning area. The areas are determined by population.

Community Service, now totally funded by Elk Grove Village, is applying for $53,000 in state funds. Northwest is applying for $190,000 to continue to serve the four townships.

DR. PATRICK STAUNTON, regional director for the State Department of Mental Health, said yesterday the two grants have been received by his office and have been passed along with recommendations to the state office in Springfield.

"I'm not at liberty to reveal what recommendations have been made," Staunton said. "These are only preliminary recommendations, and the final decision is in the hands of the director of the department."

The next step in the review process will be hearings by a citizens' advisory committee, expected to begin in March. The committee will then pass its recommendations on to the director of the state department who will make final decisions on grants by the first part of July.

Staunton did say that the state department has had a policy of funding separate agencies in each designated planning area. "The whole thrust of our policy is to develop a separate network of services for each planning area. We realize that can't happen right away in every area and we do consider individual situations when we make any decision," he said.

REPRESENTATIVES of both Community Service and Northwest have been appearing before governmental bodies in Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships to gain support for their grant applications.

In addition, Dr. Eugene Trager, medical director of Northwest, first offered to file a joint grant application with Community Service which would have provided $20,000 earmarked for staff assigned to the two townships.

When Community Service board declined Trager's offer, Trager then offered to set up an outpost of his agency in Schaumburg Township. The offer was accepted by the township's mental health board.

Ray Stenberg

Commerce, Industry Post For Stenberg

Ray W. Stenberg has been named by the Elk Grove Village Association of Industry and Commerce to fill the unexpired director's term of Harry Cooper.

Stenberg's appointment was made by the organization's board of directors after Cooper resigned due to personal and business demands.

Stenberg, of Howell Tractor & Equipment Co., lives at 839 Brantwood Ave. with his wife and two sons.

Cooper had been a director of the association and its predecessor, the Centex Industrial Park Association, since 1962 and served as its president from 1967-69.

Homosexuals Rap With Elk Grove High School

The three self-professed homosexuals sat there talking about their different way of life, answering questions which a few years ago would probably have been considered inappropriate for even private conversation.

But yesterday at Elk Grove High School the discussion was a public one, involving three members of the Chicago Gay Alliance and about 100 students in the school's sociology classes.

The program was part of a series on "Individual Society and Human Sexuality" which attempts to give students a general view of life in society.

"We're just trying to put things in a proper perspective," said Joseph Wellman, one of the teachers. "We thought it would be a good to give students a first-hand chance to see what we're talking about."

Earlier this week a member of a women's liberation group spoke to the students as part of the program, which is now in its third year.

THE THREE homosexuals, identified only as Gene, Rich and George, spoke to students during two two-hour sessions, answering questions about their lives, attitudes and experiences.

"We're not from a different planet," Gene said. "We're just normal in a different way."

The three stressed that there are a great number of homosexuals (between 250,000 and 333,000 in the Chicago area), who are as different from one another as are their "straight" brothers.

Noting that the goal of the gay liberation movement is to make homosexuality acceptable, they said the conception that a gay life must be an unhappy one has been proven wrong in recent years.

"It can be really beautiful," Rich said.

The three also criticized the stereotyped idea of how a homosexual looks and acts. "The vast majority of homosexuals have no recognizable physical characteristics," Gene said. "There are more gay people here than just us three."

THE OLDEST of the three, Gene, explained problems he has encountered in "coming out" as a homosexual.

"I haven't told my father yet because of the hassles it would cause for him," he said. "But I've told all my friends and never lost one."

The three openly answered all of the students' questions, which ranged from "How did you become gay?" to "Do you find girls physically attractive?"

Wellman was well pleased with the students' response to the men.

"I would say so far the program has been pretty successful," said Wellman, who admitted that the idea of bringing homosexuals into the classroom was "pretty much of a radical idea for a high school."

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Some 15,000 West Coast longshoremen began balloting in 24 ports in a vote that could end the longest dock strike in U.S. history by Sunday.

President Nixon leaves Washington for a 12-day trip to China to open "a new chapter" in relations with the world's most populous country.

Sen. George McGovern suggested the sensible way to handle the marijuana problem might be to legalize its use and impose regulations similar to those used to control the sale of alcoholic beverages.

Edith Irving surrendered in federal court to a Swiss fugitive warrant for her arrest on criminal charges in connection with her husband's "autobiography" of

Howard Hughes. She was released on $250,000 bond.

A U.S. District Court judge signed a temporary order putting into effect the agreement reached by Democrats and Republicans to protect government employees from doing forced political work. It stipulates that state, county and local government employees in 18 northern Illinois counties cannot be fired or harassed for failure to do political work or to make political contributions.

The State

The three Chicago businessmen who were found shot to death last Friday in Indiana received a letter promising a profitable financial deal if they attended a meeting in Gary, police said. One of the victims received the letter asking all three men be present at a restaurant in Gary on the night of the slayings.

Elementary and secondary education will get the largest fund increase in Gov. Richard Ogilvie's fiscal 1973 budget. Ogilvie said he will recommend an allocation of $1.083 billion for elementary and secondary education, 15 per cent more than he recommended last year.

The World

A three-man junta put Ecuador under virtual military control after a bloodless coup in which the armed forces overthrew President Jose Velasco Ibarra for the fourth time since 1933 and sent him into exile in Panama.

China now ranks as "perhaps the third most important nuclear power in the world" and the United States must be prepared to fight simultaneous atomic wars with both China and the Soviet Union, said Adm. Thomas Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The War

Hanoi radio charged several flights of American warplanes bombed and strafed a number of populated areas in Quang Binh province and that two jets were shot down. The U.S. command disclaimed any knowledge of the raids. In Paris, the Viet Cong charged the American refusal to attend the next session of the peace talks was "sabotage" and that the only way to solve the war was at the conference table.

To Hold Interviews

Consultant Hired By Library Board

The Elk Grove Village Public Library Board has hired a consultant to conduct interviews and make a recommendation on the hiring of a head librarian.

The consultant, William Sannwald of Arlington Heights, will also evaluate the library's present staff and book collection, according to board member Barbara Walsh. For the service he will be paid $100 for each day he works on the project plus his out-of-pocket expenses. He was hired Tuesday at the library board meeting.

Sannwald has a bachelor's degree in economics and master's degree in library science and is now working on a master's degree in business administration, Mrs. Walsh said. He has served as a consultant to other libraries and is currently employed as director of editorial services (librarian) for the Chicago Sun-Times.

Mrs. Walsh said Sannwald has not given a firm amount of time he will spend on the project, and will report to the board after he recommends the head librarian so they will be able to decide whether to spend the money for the survey of present staff and facilities.

Mrs. Walsh said Sannwald will have about 10 complete applications for the position and will advise the personnel committee and the board on the relative qualifications of applicants.

THE LIBRARY has been without a head librarian since August when Evelyn Schmidt, who had held the post for 12 years, resigned after a series of resignations by other employees. Library Business Mgr. Virginia James has been acting administrator of the library since then.

Also at Tuesday's meeting, board members were presented with the resignation of Ruth Griffith, who has been reference librarian since last summer. Mrs. Griffith said in her resignation she was taking a job as head of the children's and young adults sections at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library.

Board members also read a memo from Mrs. Griffith containing "constructive criticism" on library procedures. In the memo she said, "There is a lack of communication between the board and the staff" and suggested the board discuss future plans with the staff.

In addition, she said in the memo the duties of staff members need to be more clearly defined and evaluations of staff members were needed. Board members asked that copies of the memo be made for each of them.

Troop 446 Donates

Presents To Hospital

Girls from Scout Troop 446 of Mark Hopkins School in Elk Grove Village recently gave toys and art reproductions to the Elgin State Hospital.

The framed art reproductions were donated to the troop for the hospital by Dominick's Food Stores. Christine Easter, Lori Meeks, Leann Rose and Gayle Trudy presented the gifts on behalf of the troop.

The area service unit of Girl Scouts is aiding the Elgin State Hospital this year as one of the service projects. Each month a different troop delivers donations to the hospital.

Register Saturday

For Girls' Softball

Girls between the ages of 8 and 16 will be able to register for a summer 14-inch softball league Saturday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. at Elk Grove Bowl.

The league, with teams divided into three age levels, is being organized by Elk Grove Village Athletic Association.

The athletic association last fall began a George Halas football league. Representatives of the association have said they plan to build softball diamonds for the new girls' league on land provided by the village on Wellington Avenue behind village hall.

Voice Of Democracy Awards To Students

Four Elk Grove High School students received plaques and U. S. Savings Bonds as winners of the Voice of Democracy contest sponsored by Post 8284 of Veterans of Foreign Wars and the auxiliary recently.

The four winners were Michael D. Brannan, first place; Karen L. Eversen, second; Thomas Stewart, third; and Lin Austin, fourth.

Brannan competed in the district-wide contest and placed eighth.

LOCAL SNOWMOBILE enthusiasts will be out in full force for a day of races Sunday in Wheeling's Heritage Park. In case there is no snow by Sunday the races will be postponed for a week. Residents of Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Northbrook and Prospect Heights are invited to join the competition. Registration will be held the Saturday before the races from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at park district offices, 222 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling.

Ambulance Call Story Called 'Suspect'

Francis E. Kelly, attorney for the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District, yesterday said a story told to The Herald by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rogers, 286 Westview, Hoffman Estates, is "highly suspect."

Mrs. Rogers related events of the evening of June 24, when she said she had tried to obtain an ambulance for her injured son, and was unable to reach the fire district by telephone. When she went to the fire hall for help, she said, there was nobody there.

"The point that she comes forward at this late date makes the thing highly suspect," said Kelly.

"If a call had been made, our phone is so set that it would have rung in four different homes. If there was a malfunction the operator would have cut in and asked 'who are you trying to call.' She would have cut in and offered her assistance," said Kelly.

TELEPHONE company officials, already have stated it is entirely possible the receiving phone would not ring, and the malfunction might not register on company monitoring equipment.

That is what Fire Chief Carl Selke said, he believes happened. Also, said Selke, the fire phone, when it does ring, is heard in the two fire stations and in three private homes.

"We do not know if the woman actually dialed the correct number," continued Kelly. "In her excitement, she may have transposed one or two numbers." Kelly also suggested Mrs. Rogers should have dialed the operator after her first phone call was not answered.

Telephone company officials already suggested the possibility Mrs. Rogers misdialed. She believes she dialed correctly. But she adds, she was so upset about her child's injuries she did not think of calling the operator. She took what she thought was the quickest step in getting her son to the hospital, going to the fire hall where ambulances are parked. She then went directly to the hospital after finding the fire station locked and unattended.

Kelly also objected to the fact that Mrs. Rogers' story was brought to the attention of the press by David Baird, chairman of Concerned Citizens Committee for a Municipal Fire Department, which has attacked the operation of the fire district by present officials.

Mrs. Rogers said she had seen earlier issues of The Herald, in which letters supporting the fire district were printed. She discussed her own anger over the letters with a neighbor, who contacted Baird saying Mrs. Rogers wished to make her story known. Baird then called The Herald. He said he did not know the details of the story until Mrs. Rogers' interview, which he attended as an observer at her invitation.

Parochial Debate Ends In Standoff

Opposition to the voucher system was where agreement ended Tuesday night in a debate on financial aid to parochial schools.

State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and Dr. Virgil Kraft, regional director for Americans United for Separation of Church and State, in their first public appearance together, debated the pros and cons of parochial aid at a Willow Bend School PTA meeting in Rolling Meadows.

Schlickman told the approximately 35 people present that the state is getting a "real bargain" from nonpublic schools.

Drawing on historical and philosophical viewpoints, Schlickman emphasized the need for allowing parents to make a choice between sending their children to private or public schools.

The voucher system is a proposal whereby all parents of school-age children would receive a voucher that would guarantee admission when presented at any public or private school.

SCHLICKMAN, who headed the Elementary and Secondary Nonpublic Schools Study Commission, said the commission had found the quality of education in nonpublic schools "equal to, if not better than" that in the public schools. He said, the commission found a "tremendous variety" of nonpublic schools, although most are religious-oriented.

Furthermore, it was found the cost of providing a nonpublic education is substantially less than that of providing a public education, leaving salaries aside, Schlickman said.

During the last four years, enrollment in nonpublic schools has dropped 20 per cent, resulting in a cost increase to Illinois taxpayers of $106 million, according to Schlickman's figures. He said that if this decline in enrollment continues, the cost would increase further and education would lose its diversity.

He said he hopes that the United States and Illinois Supreme Courts would find parochial aid, which he called state aid to parents with children in nonpublic schools, legal.

IN REBUTTAL, Kraft said he felt there was a "revolution afoot." He cited the general attitude toward law as a major problem. "That no citizen should be forced to support any religion is a basic belief in this country," he said.

Kraft called the parochial bills "gimmicks," and said that while they contained money will be used to support only "reading, writing and arithmetic," the main purpose of a parochial school is to give a religious education.

Clearbrook Grew Out Of Barn, 5 Kids

by JOANN VAN WYE

Retarded children can be helped and become worthwhile individuals — all they need is a chance.

With this conviction and a severely retarded child of her own, Mrs. Arthur Krause, 2407 Wing, Rolling Meadows, started her work with retarded children in the area more than 17 years ago.

She founded a Sunday School in 1954, with five retarded children meeting in a converted barn. As interest in the school grew along with enrollment, the school was expanded and eventually led to the construction of Clearbrook Center, 3201 W. Campbell St., Rolling Meadows.

A dinner-dance to honor Mrs. Krause for her work in founding Clearbrook Center will be held Feb. 26 at Lancer's Steak House.

While she is pleased with the progression from a cold, damp, old barn to a modern new facility, Mrs. Krause is more concerned with the progress the children have made over the years.

"IT'S BEEN HARD work but it's been worth it," said Mrs. Krause. Her daughter is now 21 and has graduated from Clearbrook center and is working in the Clearbrook Vocational Rehabilitation Center and Sheltered Workshop in Elk Grove Village. Mrs. Krause talks about the dances they have and the work the people do at the center.

"It's amazing to think this all started with five people," said Mrs. Krause. She explained she was new to Rolling Meadows in 1954 and could not afford to pay tuition to send her daughter to a special school and the public schools would not accept her. Believing something could be done to help her daughter and other children like her, Mrs. Krause ran an advertisement in an effort to contact parents who were in the same situation. Ten people attended the first meeting.

The Sunday School in the Community Church of Rolling Meadows, a converted barn at the time, grew out of this meeting. Mrs. Krause was elected president of the group and all the parents worked as teachers.

The parents felt the children were making some headway so they decided to try a school in 1954. The school started with one teacher and many volunteers. The teacher's salary was paid from donations and fund-raising projects for four years.

ENROLLMENT AT the school grew so rapidly that the school had to be moved from the barn to the educational room of the Community Church, from there to the Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights and finally to Clearbrook Center.

While the idea of the school had been conceived by the parents, it grew to the point where the parents had gone as far as they could and they gave way to a board of directors, said Mrs. Krause, adding that this was probably one of the best moves they had made. Mrs. Krause still does an assortment of volunteer work and attends board meetings.

Mrs. Krause is extremely happy with the progress being made in the education of the trainable and educable mentally handicapped in the area. She said some of the students had graduated into the public schools while others are just learning to be worthwhile individuals.

"It really does pay to get involved," she said.

Forget Tax Hanky-Panky

by RAY DE CRANE

NEW YORK — The Christmas bills are not fully paid. Junior's college tuition is going up again and that April 17 income tax deadline moves closer every day.

Let's see, muses the harried taxpayer, didn't President Nixon order all federal departments to cut back by 5 per cent on the number of employees? Then didn't he give the staff of Internal Revenue Service the responsibility for being watchdogs over enforcement of the Economic Stabilization Program?

Those guys at IRS are good all right, the harried man continues to dream, but even they can't do everything.

Since they are going to be so busy checking on store prices, rents and wages, maybe they will be unable to check those tax returns too carefully.

We've got news for you. You're not the first one to think along those lines.

IRS has got the message, too. They are prepared for all those who make subtle inquiries about the size of the work force and all that extra work that must be done.

THE INQUIRIES have been so numerous that IRS has prepared a "fact sheet."

This shows, right off, that Internal Revenue has been officially exempted from the cutback order. This is to insure that it will have adequate staffing.

Last year IRS had 58,700 employees. This year it has 4,000 more.

If it continues to supply 3,000 employees to the stabilization program, it actually has 1,000 more employees for auditing tax returns than it did a year ago.

And another thing. Every time they check records to make sure there is no price violation, they do double duty by checking compliance with the income tax at the same time.

IT WORKS the other way, too. When they are checking income tax returns and are looking over the books, they are also in a position to check price violations.

So if you have any devious notions, better forget all about it. Uncle Sam's tax sleuths insist they will be in an even better position than before to spot any hanky-panky on those tax returns. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

State Tax Questions Answered

Q—I AM AN Illinois resident and have a farm in Iowa. Is the income from the farm subject to Illinois income tax?

A—Yes, the Illinois income tax law was amended in 1970 to provide that all income of Illinois residents is subject to Illinois income tax regardless of where the income is earned and regardless of source. However, if you pay an income tax to another state on income also taxed by Illinois you will be allowed a tax credit on your Illinois return.

Q—WHAT IS the state rule on the filing of estimated tax for husband and wife who plan to file joint returns?

A—If husband and wife are eligible to file joint estimated tax returns for federal tax purposes, they may make a joint declaration of estimated tax as if they were one taxpayer. In such a case the liability will be joint and several. If a joint declaration is made but the husband and wife elect to determine their taxes separately, the estimated tax for such a year may be treated as the estimate of either spouse or may be divided between them as they may elect.

Q—WHAT ARE some of the errors that cause the delay in the issuance of refunds on Illinois income tax returns?

A—Missing or incorrect social security numbers, mathematical errors, and unsigned returns cause a great deal of delay. Missing W-2's and schedules requires additional time for correction and completion of the return. Incomplete returns will be sent back to the taxpayer for the missing documentation.

Q—THIS MAN left his employment last year and now has his own shop operating as a plumber on his own. He was told he is required to file estimated tax by the IRS. Is he also required to file estimated tax for the State of Illinois?

A—Yes, he is required to file and pay estimated tax along the same lines as the IRS. The estimated tax payments are made on April 15, June 15, Sept. 15, and Jan. 15.

Decision Requires 14 Ballots

2 Incumbents, Newcomer Receive Support Of Caucus

After 14 ballots, the School Dist. 21 General Caucus decided to support two incumbents and one newcomer for the April 8 school board election.

Incumbents Lillian Stiller, of Wheeling, and Mary Joan Reid, of Buffalo Grove, were elected on the first two ballots; the selection of Ben Herman of Mount Prospect took 12 ballots to decide.

Herman, a program manager with Motorola, was involved in a battle with Raymond Niro, Niro, also a newcomer, is an Arlington resident and a patent attorney.

Incumbent Jack Lane, of Arlington

Heights, and a third newcomer, Frank Sacco, of Wheeling, were never really in the race. However, it was finally a staunch Lane supporter who cast the deciding vote to Herman.

THERE WERE 27 delegates at the meeting and a majority of 14 votes were needed to be nominated.

Mrs. Stiller received 15 votes on the first ballot and Mrs. Reid received 20 votes on the second ballot. Then the battle began.

The third ballot gave both Herman and Niro nine votes, Lane, six and Sacco three. The fourth showed 10 each for Herman and Niro, five for Lane and two for Sacco.

Starting with the fifth ballot it became a two-man race. Herman and Niro were tied four times and the lead changed hands five other times. Herman finally won the battle with a vote of 14 to 13.

Lane said he will now seek the school board position without caucus support. Niro said "some of the people who supported me at the caucus meeting called me and urged me to run independently. I will make a decision in a few days."

Sacco said he will "have to consider all factors" before making a decision.

ALL SIX CANDIDATES were interviewed by the general caucus in 15-minute sessions. Mrs. Stiller, Mrs. Reid and Niro made opening statements, while the other candidates immediately opened themselves to questions from the caucus.

The candidates appeared before the caucus in the following order: Sacco, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Stiller, Herman, Lane and Niro. The order was determined by pulling names out of a hat.

The candidates were questioned about current national problems: busing, drug and sex education, taxes, curriculum, labor unions and whether state or local government should have control of the school district.

The caucus members also took into consideration the candidates background in civic affairs.

THEY WERE CONCERNED with the experience of each nominee in a decision-making role. They also asked the candidates what they thought the role of education is in today's schools.

Following the question-and-answer period the caucus explained the voting procedure. Each caucus delegate was given a ballot and to vote for "one person and one person only."

The nominating committee said the candidates will have the choice to decide who would like to run for a three-year term and who would like to run for the two-year opening.

They said, "If the candidates are unable to decide who will fill the slots we automatically place the first two candidates for three years and the third for two years."

The candidates could not decide and the caucus informed Herman he was to seek the two-year opening.

The caucus will start circulating the candidates petitions for signatures immediately and will file the petitions Feb. 23.

ASH WEDNESDAY, the beginning of the Lenten season, day's palms are smudged on the forehead as a reminder of repentance.

Candidates Discuss Busing

Candidates seeking Dist. 21 General Caucus support in the school board election discussed subjects ranging from busing to drug and sex education at the caucus meeting Tuesday night.

Incumbents Mary Joan Reid and Lillian Stiller came out against the idea of busing students from one area to another. Mrs. Stiller said, "Busing is a problem of society, not education. Education will not solve that problem."

Ben Herman said, "I believe in the neighborhood school and if busing were to upset that program, I would be against it."

Jack Lane, an incumbent, told the caucus "All children have a right to equal education. I understand busing is a problem but I have no answer to a better way."

All six candidates said they believed drug and sex education are important parts of the curriculum. They added that they have attended PTA meetings and think most parents are content with the education.

Two candidates thought the idea of "every child must go to college" needs to be changed.

Ray Niro said, "We are still living in the post-Sputnik era of specializing our students for college. We must teach them that there are more ways to go and more opportunities open to them."

MRS. STILLER said, "Our children must be able to face whatever society puts in front of them. Not all children are going to go to college or become mechanics. They must be able to adjust."

All candidates thought financial problems should be looked at "long and hard." They said they have new ideas on ways to "find money and stop wasting it."

The three new candidates felt they were justified in seeking the school board position because they would bring new and fresh ideas to the board. Niro said, "The board must have a balance of new and old members and this balance will lead to a better board."

Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Stiller were asked what they thought of Springfield (the state school superintendent's office) taking over the schools.

Mrs. Reid said she was against the idea and the only way to stop it was to "lobby, and work with our state legislators and tell them how they goofed."

Mrs. Stiller said at one time "The old 13th (legislative) district, which included part of the northwest suburbs, was said to be the best educated in the state. With local control we can continue to put out the best product."

Several candidates were asked for their opinion on Parochialism.

HERMAN SAID he had no real answer. "However, if it is necessary for the public schools to begin taking all the children it will be impossible. On the other hand, it goes against our history of separation of church and state."

Frank Sacco said he thought that the state would have to "revamp the statute concerning the problem and that may take some time."

Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Stiller both commented on the firing of teachers not performing their jobs.

"We really can't fire teachers like we did," said Mrs. Reid. "Before we were able to make that decision and now we must follow state guidelines for investigation."

Mrs. Stiller said, "I don't believe there is a problem with firing teachers. They are all performing because with the job market the way it is, it would be hard to find another job. I don't see any problem."

The only specific local questions asked were on attendance at board meetings and one question on the Youth Services Bureau.

All the candidates said they would have time to attend meetings and the incumbents said the caucus could check their past records.

Lane answered the question on the youth bureau. "It is an outstanding program and is needed in the district. We are glad to support it and will be keeping a close watch on its performance," he said.

Joe Cieslewicz, chairman of caucus nominating committee said the caucus was "satisfied with all the candidates but because of our by-laws can only select three to fill the three vacancies."

Village Agrees To Annex

Village of Wheeling officials have begun the legal processes to annex a piece of land surrounded by the northeastern section of the village.

The property, south of Meadow Lane and west of Wolf Road is directly south of the property for the proposed Carriage Woods North development.

The village board Monday directed the village engineer to survey the property to see if it is smaller than the 60-acre limit under Illinois law.

If the property is smaller than 60 acres and is surrounded by the village, the village can annex it without the consent of the property owner.

Village Director of Public Safety Roger Stricker, who brought the surrounded land to the board's attention, said the village will notify the owner before annexing the land.

Stricker noted that Wheeling has made a practice of annexing all surrounded land.

School Band Trip To Munich Still Alive

The Wheeling High School band has been granted a brief extension and now has until Monday to raise enough money to keep alive its hopes of playing at the summer Olympics in Munich, Germany.

Originally the band had been told that it must raise $15,000 by Feb. 15 to insure that it can get to the international band competition to be held at the Olympics.

When the deadline passed Tuesday, the band had raised only about $5,000, including only about $1,300 in cash. However, it was given the extension to raise the remaining $10,000.

The $15,000 is only an initial deposit on the total $140,000 cost of the trip, but Roberta Krause, a leader of the fund-raising drive said, "Once we get past the first hurdle we know we can go all the way."

Other leaders of the campaign have said that if the band can raise the $15,000 locally, they will expand the campaign to cover businesses throughout the state.

The band has been designated the official Illinois representative in the international contest. It is one of only 10 high school bands in the United States invited to participate.

THE WHEELING Instrumental League, the adult group which is running the campaign, will hold a meeting for band parents and other supporters tonight at 8 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Mrs. Krause said, "We will give a status report, tell the parents and other supporters where we stand."

At a village board meeting Monday, Wheeling Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon, another leader of the campaign, expressed some optimism.

Scanlon congratulated Diane Hohm and Anne Henning of neighboring Northbrook on their success at the Winter Olympics and said, "Northbrook did it with skates; we'll do it with music."

The money raised in the campaign will be used to pay the expenses of about 200 band members and chaperones. They plan to spend two weeks in August in Germany.

Donations should be sent to the Wheeling Instrumental League, Wheeling High School, Wheeling. If the band cannot make the trip, donations will be refunded, according to Don Hoeck of the league.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Some 15,000 West Coast longshoremen began balloting in 24 ports in a vote that could end the longest dock strike in U.S. history by Sunday.

President Nixon leaves Washington for a 12-day trip to China to open "a new chapter" in relations with the world's most populous country.

Sen. George McGovern suggested the sensible way to handle the marijuana problem might be to legalize its use and impose regulations similar to those used to control the sale of alcoholic beverages.

Edith Irving surrendered in federal court to a Swiss fugitive warrant for her arrest on criminal charges in connection with her husband's "autobiography" of

Howard Hughes. She was released on $250,000 bond.

A U.S. District Court judge signed a temporary order putting into effect the agreement reached by Democrats and Republicans to protect government employees from doing forced political work. It stipulates that state, county and local government employees in 18 northern Illinois counties cannot be fired or harassed for failure to do political work or to make political contributions.

The State

The three Chicago businessmen who were found shot to death last Friday in Indiana received a letter promising a profitable financial deal if they attended a meeting in Gary, police said. One of the victims received the letter asking all three men be present at a restaurant in Gary on the night of the slayings.

Elementary and secondary education will get the largest fund increase in Gov. Richard Ogilvie's fiscal 1973 budget. Ogilvie said he will recommend an allocation of $1.083 billion for elementary and secondary education, 15 per cent more than he recommended last year.

The World

A three-man junta put Ecuador under virtual military control after a bloodless coup in which the armed forces overthrew President Jose Velasco Ibarra for the fourth time since 1963 and sent him into exile in Panama.

China now ranks as "perhaps the third most important nuclear power in the world" and the United States must be prepared to fight simultaneous atomic wars with both China and the Soviet Union, said Adm. Thomas Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The War

Hanoi radio charged several flights of American warplanes bombed and strafed a number of populated areas in Quang Binh province and that two jets were shot down. The U.S. command disclaimed any knowledge of the raids. In Paris, the Viet Cong charged the American refusal to attend the next session of the peace talks was "sabotage" and that the only way to solve the war was at the conference table.

Village OKs Detention Basin Work Payment

Wheeling's Village Board has approved paying $2,780.50 to the Glenview Sewer and Water Co. Inc. for work on the Heritage Park East detention basin.

The board's action Monday came after Village of Wheeling and Wheeling Park District officials had reached agreement on solutions to problems with the dual basin just north of the Heritage Park fieldhouse.

The village is still withholding $2,780.50 which it owes the engineering firm in order to assure that the corrective work is completed.

Village Director of Public Works Larry Oppenheimer has estimated that the work will cost only $1,000.

The additions to the basins include a system of underground drains controlled by a hand activated valve. The system will be installed by Glenview Sewer and Water.

The engineering firm will also have to replace a fence along the north boundary of the basin.

THE VILLAGE AND the park district will cooperate in placing broken concrete around the light poles in the center of the basin and will try to solve the problem with drainage in the northern end of the basin.

In other action at the meeting Monday the board approved spending an additional $1,700 for parts to revamp the controller box at Well Number 5. The board waived competitive bidding procedures on the purchase of the parts because of the necessity of getting the McHenry road well back into service as soon as possible.

The well is out of service while its pump is being replaced.

The board also approved paying $3,100 for the final payment to Don Streicher Guns Inc. for the new automatic pistols for the village police. The board did not keep a 5 per cent retainer on the purchase price of the pistols because of a guarantee on the weapons.

THE BOARD ALSO met in a lengthy closed session for a discussion of personnel with Oppenheimer and with Police Chief M. O. Horcher and Director of Public Safety Roger Stricker.

At the end of the closed session Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlan announced that "proper direction was given" to employees during the executive session.

Parochial Debate Ends In Standoff

Opposition to the voucher system was where agreement ended Tuesday night in a debate on financial aid to parochial schools.

State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and Dr. Virgil Kraft, regional director for Americans United for Separation of Church and State, in their first public appearance together, debated the pros and cons of parochial aid at a Willow Bend School PTA meeting in Rolling Meadows.

Schlickman told the approximately 35-people present that the state is getting a "real bargain" from nonpublic schools.

Drawing on historical and philosophical viewpoints, Schlickman emphasized the need for allowing parents to make a choice between sending their children to private or public schools.

The voucher system is a proposal whereby all parents of school-age children would receive a voucher that would guarantee admission when presented at any public or private school.

SCHLICKMAN, who headed the Elementary and Secondary Nonpublic Schools Study Commission, said the commission had found the quality of education in nonpublic schools "equal to, if not better than" that in the public schools. He said, the commission found a "tremendous variety" of nonpublic schools, although most are religious-oriented.

Furthermore, it was found the cost of providing a nonpublic education is substantially less than that of providing a public education, leaving salaries aside, Schlickman said.

During the last four years, enrollment in nonpublic schools has dropped 20 per cent, resulting in a cost increase to Illinois taxpayers of $105 million, according to Schlickman's figures. He said that if this decline in enrollment continues, the cost would increase further and education would lose its diversity.

He said he hopes that the United States and Illinois Supreme Courts would find parochial aid, which he called state aid to parents with children in nonpublic schools, legal.

IN REBUTTAL, Kraft said he felt there was a "revolution afoot." He cited the general attitude toward law as a major problem. "That no citizen should be forced to support any religion is a basic belief in this country," he said.

Kraft called the parochial bills "gimmicks," and said that while they contended money will be used to support only "reading, writing and arithmetic," the main purpose of a parochial school is to give a religious education.

Another "gimmick" Kraft cited is a proposal to give money to parents and not the schools. He said that no matter who the money went to, it would end up supporting the schools.

Both agreed the voucher system was not the answer to the problem. Schlickman said he felt vouchers would undermine the public schools system, which would not be able to meet the competition.

Kraft cited the loss of community control over the school system as a reason he opposed the voucher system. He said it would be equivalent to taxation without representation.

Clearbrook Grew Out Of Barn, 5 Kids

by JOANN VAN WYE

Retarded children can be helped and become worthwhile individuals — all they need is a chance.

With this conviction and a severely retarded child of her own, Mrs. Arthur Krause, 2407 Wing, Rolling Meadows, started her work with retarded children in the area more than 17 years ago.

She founded a Sunday School in 1954, with five retarded children meeting in a converted barn. As interest in the school grew along with enrollment, the school was expanded and eventually led to the construction of Clearbrook Center, 3201 W. Campbell St., Rolling Meadows.

A dinner-dance to honor Mrs. Krause for her work in founding Clearbrook Center will be held Feb. 26 at Lancer's Steak House.

While she is pleased with the progression from a cold, damp, old barn to a modern new facility, Mrs. Krause is more concerned with the progress the children have made over the years.

"IT'S BEEN HARD work but it's been worth it," said Mrs. Krause. Her daughter is now 21 and has graduated from Clearbrook Center and is working in the Clearbrook Vocational Rehabilitation Center and Sheltered Workshop in Elk Grove Village. Mrs. Krause talks about the dances they have and the work the people do at the center.

"It's amazing to think this all started with five people," said Mrs. Krause. She explained she was new to Rolling Meadows in 1954 and could not afford to pay tuition to send her daughter to a special school and the public schools would not accept her. Believing something could be done to help her daughter and other children like her, Mrs. Krause ran an advertisement in an effort to contact parents who were in the same situation. Ten people attended the first meeting.

The Sunday School in the Community Church of Rolling Meadows, a converted barn at the time, grew out of this meeting. Mrs. Krause was elected president of the group and all the parents worked as teachers.

The parents felt the children were making some headway so they decided to try a school in 1954. The school started with one teacher and many volunteers. The teacher's salary was paid from donations and fund-raising projects for four years.

ENROLLMENT AT the school grew so rapidly that the school had to be moved from the barn to the educational room of the Community Church, from there to the Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights and finally to Clearbrook Center.

While the idea of the school had been conceived by the parents, it grew to the point where the parents had gone as far as they could and they gave way to a board of directors, said Mrs. Krause, adding that this was probably one of the best moves they had made. Mrs. Krause still does an assortment of volunteer work and attends board meetings.

Mrs. Krause is extremely happy with the progress being made in the education of the trainable and educable mentally handicapped in the area. She said some of the students had graduated into the public schools while others are just learning to be worthwhile individuals.

"It really does pay to get involved," she said.

Hearing On Map Changes Tonight

The Wheeling Plan Commission will consider amendments to the official map at a 7:30 p.m. public hearing tonight.

The hearing was called to consider adding public land use sites for fire stations, well sites and other village needs to the official map.

Currently the map has only sites planned for future use as schools or parks.

The public hearing will be held in the village municipal building, 255 W. Dundee Rd.

PTA Fun Fair Set

The PTA of Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School will sponsor a Fun Fair at the school gymnasium from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday to raise money for the PTA.

The fair will feature more than a dozen booths for games, and food, coffee and soft drinks will be available.

Decision Requires 14 Ballots

2 Incumbents, Newcomer Receive Support Of Caucus

After 14 ballots, the School Dist. 21 General Caucus decided to support two incumbents and one newcomer for the April 8 school board election.

Incumbents Lillian Stiller, of Wheeling, and Mary Joan Reid, of Buffalo Grove, were elected on the first two ballots; the selection of Ben Herman of Mount Prospect took 12 ballots to decide.

Herman, a program manager with Motorola, was involved in a battle with Raymond Niro, Niro, also a newcomer, is an Arlington resident and a patent attorney.

Incumbent Jack Lane, of Arlington

Heights, and a third newcomer, Frank Sacco, of Wheeling, were never really in the race. However, it was finally a staunch Lane supporter who cast the deciding vote to Herman.

THERE WERE 27 delegates at the meeting and a majority of 14 votes were needed to be nominated.

Mrs. Stiller received 15 votes on the first ballot and Mrs. Reid received 20 votes on the second ballot. Then the battle began.

The third ballot gave both Herman and Niro nine votes, Lane, six and Sacco three. The fourth showed 10 each for Herman and Niro, five for Lane and two for Sacco.

Starting with the fifth ballot it became a two-man race. Herman and Niro were tied four times and the lead changed hands five other times. Herman finally won the battle with a vote of 14 to 13.

Lane said he will now seek the school board position without caucus support. Niro said "some of the people who supported me at the caucus meeting called me and urged me to run independently. I will make a decision in a few days."

Sacco said he will "have to consider all factors" before making a decision.

ALL SIX CANDIDATES were interviewed by the general caucus in 15-minute sessions. Mrs. Stiller, Mrs. Reid and Niro made opening statements, while the other candidates immediately opened themselves to questions from the caucus.

The candidates appeared before the caucus in the following order: Sacco, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Stiller, Herman, Lane and Niro. The order was determined by pulling names out of a hat.

The candidates were questioned about current national problems: busing, drug and sex education, taxes, curriculum, labor unions and whether state or local government should have control of the school district.

The caucus members also took into consideration the candidates background in civic affairs.

THEY WERE CONCERNED with the experience of each nominee in a decision-making role. They also asked the candidates what they thought the major role of education is in today's schools.

Following the question-and-answer period the caucus explained the voting procedure. Each caucus delegate was given a ballot and to vote for "one person and one person only."

The nominating committee said the candidates will have the choice to decide who would like to run for a three-year term and who would like to run for the two-year opening.

They said, "If the candidates are unable to decide who will fill the slots we automatically place the first two candidates for three years and the third for two years."

The candidates could not decide, and the caucus informed Herman he was to seek the two-year opening.

Candidates Discuss Busing

Candidates seeking Dist. 21 General Caucus support in the school board election discussed subjects ranging from busing to drug and sex education at the caucus meeting Tuesday night.

Incumbents Mary Joan Reid and Lillian Stiller came out against the idea of busing students from one area to another. Mrs. Stiller said, "Busing is a problem of society, not education. Education will not solve that problem."

Ben Herman said, "I believe in the neighborhood school and if busing were to upset that program, I would be against it."

Jack Lane, an incumbent, told the caucus "All children have a right to equal education. I understand busing is a problem but I have no answer to a better way."

All six candidates said they believed drug and sex education are important parts of the curriculum. They added that they have attended PTA meetings and think most parents are content with the education.

Two candidates thought the idea of "every child must go to college" needs to be changed.

Ray Niro said, "We are still living in the post-Sputnik era of specializing our students for college. We must teach them that there are more ways to go and more opportunities open to them."

MRS. STILLER said, "Our children must be able to face whatever society puts in front of them. Not all children are going to go to college or become mechanics. They must be able to adjust."

All candidates thought financial problems should be looked at "long and hard." They said they have new ideas on ways to "find money and stop wasting it."

The three new candidates felt they were justified in seeking the school board position because they would bring new and fresh ideas to the board. Niro said, "The board must have a balance of new and old members and this balance will lead to a better board."

Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Stiller were asked what they thought of Springfield (the state school superintendent's office) taking over the schools.

Mrs. Reid said she was against the idea and the only way to stop it was to "lobby, and work with our state legislators and tell them how they goofed."

Mrs. Stiller said at one time "The old 13th (legislative) district, which included part of the northwest suburbs, was said to be the best educated in the state. With local control we can continue to put out the best product."

Several candidates were asked for their opinion on Parochialism.

HERMAN SAID he had no real answer. "However, if it is necessary for the public schools to begin taking all the children it will be impossible. On the other hand, it goes against our history of separation of church and state."

Frank Sacco said he thought that the state would have to "revamp the statute concerning the problem and that may take some time."

Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Stiller both commented on the firing of teachers not performing their jobs.

"We really can't fire teachers like we did," said Mrs. Reid. "Before we were able to make that decision and now we must follow state guidelines for investigation."

Mrs. Stiller said, "I don't believe there is a problem with firing teachers. They are all performing because with the job market the way it is, it would be hard to find another job. I don't see any problem."

The only specific local questions asked were on attendance at board meetings and one question on the Youth Services Bureau.

All the candidates said they would have time to attend meetings and the incumbents said the caucus could check their past records.

Lane answered the question on the youth bureau. "It is an outstanding program and is needed in the district. We are glad to support it and will be keeping a close watch on its performance," he said.

Joe Cieslewicz, chairman of caucus nominating committee said the caucus was "satisfied with all the candidates but because of our by-laws can only select three to fill the three vacancies."

ASH WEDNESDAY, the beginning of the Lenten season, day's palms are smudged on the forehead as a reminder of repentance.

School Band Trip To Munich Still Alive

The Wheeling High School band has been granted a brief extension and now has until Monday to raise enough money to keep alive its hopes of playing at the summer Olympics in Munich, Germany.

Originally the band had been told that it must raise $15,000 by Feb. 15 to insure that it can get to the international band competition to be held at the Olympics.

When the deadline passed Tuesday, the band had raised only about $5,000, including only about $1,300 in cash. However, it was given the extension to raise the remaining $10,000.

The $15,000 is only an initial deposit on the total $140,000 cost of the trip, but Roberta Krause, a leader of the fund-raising drive said, "Once we get past the first hurdle we know we can go all the way."

Other leaders of the campaign have said that if the band can raise the $15,000 locally, they will expand the campaign to cover businesses throughout the state.

The band has been designated the official Illinois representative in the international contest. It is one of only 10 high school bands in the United States invited to participate.

THE WHEELING Instrumental League, the adult group which is running the campaign, will hold a meeting for band parents and other supporters tonight at 8 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Mrs. Krause said, "We will give a status report, tell the parents and other supporters where we stand."

At a village board meeting Monday, Wheeling Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon, another leader of the campaign, expressed some optimism.

Scanlon congratulated Diane Holup and Anne Henning of neighboring Northbrook on their success at the Winter Olympics and said, "Northbrook did it with skates; we'll do it with music."

The money raised in the campaign will be used to pay the expenses of about 200 band members and chaperones. They plan to spend two weeks in August in Germany.

Donations should be sent to the Wheeling Instrumental League, Wheeling High School, Wheeling. If the band cannot make the trip, donations will be refunded, according to Don Hoeck of the league.

Village Agrees To Annex

Village of Wheeling officials have begun the legal processes to annex a piece of land surrounded by the northeastern section of the village.

The property, south of Meadow Lane and west of Wolf Road is directly south of the property for the proposed Carriage Woods North development.

The village board Monday directed the village engineer to survey the property to see if it is smaller than the 60-acre limit under Illinois law.

If the property is smaller than 60 acres and is surrounded by the village, the village can annex it without the consent of the property owner.

Village Director of Public Safety Roger Stricker, who brought the surrounded land to the board's attention, said the village will notify the owner before annexing the land.

Stricker noted that Wheeling has made a practice of annexing all surrounded land.

Village OKs Detention Basin Work Payment

Wheeling's Village Board has approved paying $2,780.50 to the Glenview Sewer and Water Co. Inc. for work on the Heritage Park East detention basin.

The board's action Monday came after Village of Wheeling and Wheeling Park District officials had reached agreement on solutions to problems with the dual basin just north of the Heritage Park fieldhouse.

The village is still withholding $2,780.50 which it owes the engineering firm in order to assure that the corrective work is completed.

Village Director of Public Works Larry Oppenheimer has estimated that the work will cost only $1,000.

The additions to the basins include a system of underground drains controlled by a hand activated valve. The system will be installed by Glenview Sewer and Water.

The engineering firm will also have to replace a fence along the north boundary of the basin.

THE VILLAGE AND the park district will cooperate in placing broken concrete around the light poles in the center of the basin and will try to solve the problem with drainage in the northern end of the basin.

In other action at the meeting Monday the board approved spending an additional $1,700 for parts to revamp the controller box at Well Number 5. The board waived competitive bidding procedures on the purchase of the parts because of the necessity of getting the McHenry road well back into service as soon as possible.

The well is out of service while its pump is being replaced.

The board also approved paying $3,100 for the final payment to Don Streicher Guns Inc. for the new automatic pistols for the village police. The board did not keep a 5 per cent retainer on the purchase price of the pistols because of a guarantee on the weapons.

THE BOARD ALSO met in a lengthy closed session for a discussion of personnel with Oppenheimer and with Police Chief M. O. Horcher and Director of Public Safety Roger Stricker.

At the end of the closed session Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlan announced that "proper direction was given" to employees during the executive session.

Parochial Debate Ends In Standoff

Opposition to the voucher system was where agreement ended Tuesday night in a debate on financial aid to parochial schools.

State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and Dr. Virgil Kraft, regional director for Americans United for Separation of Church and State, in their first public appearance together, debated the pros and cons of parochial aid at a Willow Bend School PTA meeting in Rolling Meadows.

Schlickman told the approximately 35 people present that the state is getting a "real bargain" from nonpublic schools.

Drawing on historical and philosophical viewpoints, Schlickman emphasized the need for allowing parents to make a choice between sending their children to private or public schools.

The voucher system is a proposal whereby all parents of school-age children would receive a voucher that would guarantee admission when presented at any public or private school.

SCHLICKMAN, who headed the Elementary and Secondary Nonpublic Schools Study Commission, said the commission had found the quality of education in nonpublic schools "equal to, if not better than" that in the public schools. He said, the commission found a "tremendous variety" of nonpublic schools, although most are religious-oriented.

Furthermore, it was found the cost of providing a nonpublic education is substantially less than that of providing a public education, leaving salaries aside, Schlickman said.

During the last four years, enrollment in nonpublic schools has dropped 20 per cent, resulting in a cost increase to Illinois taxpayers of $105 million, according to Schlickman's figures. He said that if this decline in enrollment continues, the cost would increase further and education would lose its diversity.

He said he hopes that the United States and Illinois Supreme Courts would find parochial aid, which he called state aid to parents with children in nonpublic schools, legal.

Clearbrook Grew Out Of Barn, 5 Kids

by JOANN VAN WYE

Retarded children can be helped and become worthwhile individuals — all they need is a chance.

With this conviction and a severely retarded child of her own, Mrs. Arthur Krause, 2407 Wing, Rolling Meadows, started her work with retarded children in the area more than 17 years ago.

She founded a Sunday School in 1954, with five retarded children meeting in a converted barn. As interest in the school grew along with enrollment, the school was expanded and eventually led to the construction of Clearbrook Center, 3201 W. Campbell St., Rolling Meadows.

A dinner-dance to honor Mrs. Krause for her work in founding Clearbrook Center will be held Feb. 28 at Lancer's Steak House.

While she is pleased with the progression from a cold, damp, old barn to a modern new facility, Mrs. Krause is more concerned with the progress the children have made over the years.

"IT'S BEEN HARD work but it's been worth it," said Mrs. Krause. Her daughter is now 21 and has graduated from Clearbrook center and is working in the Clearbrook Vocational Rehabilitation Center and Sheltered Workshop in Elk Grove Village. Mrs. Krause talks about the dances they have and the work the people do at the center.

"It's amazing to think this all started with five people," said Mrs. Krause. She explained she was new to Rolling Meadows in 1954 and could not afford to pay tuition to send her daughter to a special school and the public schools would not accept her. Believing something could be

Hearing On Map Changes Tonight

The Wheeling Plan Commission will consider amendments to the official map at a 7:30 p.m. public hearing tonight.

The hearing was called to consider adding public land use sites for fire stations, well sites and other village needs to the official map.

Currently the map has only sites planned for future use as schools or parks.

The public hearing will be held in the village municipal building, 255 W. Dundee Rd.

PTA Fun Fair Set

The PTA of Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School will sponsor a Fun Fair at the school gymnasium from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday to raise money for the PTA.

The fair will feature more than a dozen booths for games, and food, coffee and soft drinks will be available.

Plan Presented For Willow Creek Area Projects

A total plan for development of the Willow Creek area, calling for an ultimate population of 7,500 residing primarily in multi-family dwellings, was presented Tuesday to the Palatine Plan Commission.

The area of the projected development is bounded by Palatine Road, Rohlwing Road, Northwest Highway and Rte. 53. Harland Bartholomew and Associates, village consultants on land planning, presented the study to the commission as part of a recommendation for use of land at Kenilworth and Leonard just north of the Willow Creek apartments.

Owners of that land had requested a zoning change to permit construction of six 8-unit apartment buildings and one 12-unit building. The land is currently adjacent to single-family homes on two sides and apartment zoning on the other two sides.

Although the planner, Leo G. Wilkie, recommended higher density use of the land, he suggested it be subject to a thoroughfare plan developed for transportation in the entire Willow Creek neighborhood.

He suggested zoning be made in the entire area to allow for construction of 140 single-family residences and 2,300 multiple-family dwellings. This would be in addition to the existing 170 homes and 300 apartments, bringing the area to full development.

Growth of the area following such zoning would create an estimated 7,500 residents, or about one-fourth of Palatine's current population.

Wilkie, speaking for village land planner Thompson Dyke who prepared the report, also recommended that the land between Willow Creek apartments and the Baybrook development east of it be zoned multi-family. This would cause a reduction in the number of single-family homes in the neighborhood over a 20-year period of about 30 units, he said.

Other land use recommendations included making frontage on Palatine and Rohlwing Roads zoned for office purposes and developing the park land in the lower southeast corner of the neighborhood near Rte. 53 to make it adequate to serve the recreational needs of 7,500 persons.

Wilkie, himself a specialist in traffic and transportation planning, emphasized that such high density development would require a complete improvement of the internal roads through the neighborhood.

He made the following roadwork recommendations:

—Internal roads be planned for a width of 36 feet rather than the present 28 feet;

—Rohlwing Road be widened and extended to Dundee Road as a major north-south traffic artery;

—Leonard Road be extended to Palatine Road;

—Kenilworth be developed from

EMERGENCY EQUIPMENT. Bob Woodward of National Custom Coaches, Inc., Knightstown, Ind., looks on. Fire and village officials from various Northwest suburbs attended the demonstration Wednesday in Rolling Meadows. Four communities have endorsed a proposal to install two-way radios and heart care apparatus in their fire department's ambulance and three others are considering it.

Zoning Unit Overruled

The Palatine Village Board this week overturned two recommendations of the village zoning board of appeals dealing with separate proposals.

The board approved an amendment that would delete beauty shops and dog grooming shops from the zoning ordinance as permitted home occupations.

Village Mgr. Berton Braun had requested the change be made because such home occupations were "inequitable to the business community," which incurs more costs for operation because of their location.

The ordinance would not apply to those home occupations already in operation, making them legal non-conforming uses. It would, however, prohibit the starting of new home occupations for such businesses.

Braun said his office had received many complaints from residents near where dog grooming and beauty shops were being operated out of homes. The complaints mainly concerned parking and traffic, although he said many health and sanitary considerations also come into play with home occupations.

The zoning board disagreed with Braun on the proposed change, suggesting that a full study of all home occupations be reviewed rather than singling out only two specific occupations. The zoning board suggested all home occupations possibly be made a special use of the zoning ordinance.

TRUSTEE Terry Leighty was the only dissenter to the zoning change. He favored the zoning board's suggestion that a complete study be made of all home occupations before any decision is made.

The village board also voted against the recommendation of the zoning board in a request by Kinsch Florist at Rose and Johnson Streets for expansion of the business.

The board agreed to allow the expansion by granting a special use to Kinsch and changing the zoning to multiple-family. Kinsch was zoned for single-family dwellings and had existed as a legal non-conforming use in that area for 47 years.

The zoning board had recommended the village amend the special use provisions of the zoning ordinance for single-family residential areas rather than actually change the zoning.

"When you change the ordinance and allow a particular commercial operation to exist in a residential district, then you're opening yourself up to court action by anyone else that wants the same thing," Mayor Jack Moodie told the board.

Although Kinsch had originally requested a zoning change from residential to business, the plan commission and village board had found that undesirable.

Granting the special use for the Kinsch Florist, which covers about 6½ acres of land, will be contingent upon the hours of operation of the business.

Believing something could be done to help her daughter and other children like her, Mrs. Krause ran an advertisement in an effort to contact parents who were in the same situation. Ten people attended the first meeting.

The Sunday School in the Community Church of Rolling Meadows, a converted barn at the time, grew out of this meeting. Mrs. Krause was elected president of the group and all the parents worked as teachers.

The parents felt the children were making some headway so they decided to try a school in 1954. The school started with one teacher and many volunteers. The teacher's salary was paid from donations and fund-raising projects for four years.

The State

Elementary and secondary education will get the largest fund increase in Gov. Richard Ogilvie's fiscal 1973 budget. Ogilvie said he will recommend an allocation of $1.063 billion for elementary and secondary education, 15 per cent more than he recommended last year.

The three Chicago businessmen who were found shot to death last Friday in Indiana received a letter promising a profitable financial deal if they attended a meeting in Gary, police said. One of the victims received the letter asking all three men be present at a restaurant in Gary on the night of the slayings.

The World

China now ranks as "perhaps the third most important nuclear power in the world" and the United States must be prepared to fight simultaneous atomic wars with both China and the Soviet Union, said Adm. Thomas Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

A three-man junta put Ecuador under virtual military control after a bloodless coup in which the armed forces overthrew President Jose Velasco Ibarra for the fourth time since 1933 and sent him into exile in Panama.

The War

Hanoi radio charged several flights of American warplanes bombed and strafed a number of populated areas in Quang Binh province and that two jets were shot down. The U.S. command disclaimed any knowledge of the raids. In Paris, the Viet Cong charged the American refusal to attend the next session of the peace talks was "sabotage" and that the only way to solve the war was at the conference table.

Palatine Today

One-Upmanship
In YR Battle

by MARGE FERROLI

The resurrection of the Young Republicans (YR) in Palatine is the best case of political one-upmanship seen among Palatine Republicans since last year's village election and campaign.

This time, it appears as though it was the Regular Republican Organization that was upped.

The two factions among Republicans, which, for lack of better terms, could be called the "old guard" and the "new guard," came into a direct conflict over the question of who was going to get the charter for reestablishing the YR group in Palatine.

For purposes of definition, the "old guard" can be considered as those Republicans who have had influence over the regular Republican organization for a long time and who work closely with Republican township committeeman Bernard Pederson.

The "new guard" would be those who have not put in as much time with the organization as the others, and who look at politics more independently than the "old guard" may consider it safe to do.

There are persons who fall somewhere in between the two, but their political alignment locally tends toward one of the two factions.

EFFORTS TO LESSEN the political influence now in the hands of a few in the "old guard" have had degrees of success, but generally only have widened the gap between the two sides.

This last effort to lessen the old guard's political influence over the YR charter, was a definite success for the "new guard" which could lead to closer cooperation between the two factions, if personalities don't continue to get in the way.

Informal efforts to get Palatine rechartered with a YR group have probably been going on for several months by members of both sides. The "new guard" finally made an official move to get the charter, and the "old guard" shifted into gear.

A petition for a charter was presented about two weeks ago to the Cook County YR Executive Board by 12 Palatine residents who are not very closely aligned with Pederson. Another petition was also presented, this one by about 17 persons, who specifically provide in their constitution a position on the local executive board for the committeeman.

After lengthy discussion by the county executive board, it was decided the first group of 12 would get the charter, with one member of the board calling the second group a "Johnny come lately."

If the "old guard" was betting that the second group would get the charter, it lost. Now it will have to work with the chartered group rather than aside from it if it hopes to have any influence on Palatine's Young Republicans.

THE ISSUANCE of a charter has not stopped the second group from operating. Active solicitation of members has continued and it now boasts more Young Republicans than the "official" YRs have in their group.

The charter was a blow to the regular Republicans, who considered the move to get a charter by the "new guard" a threat to their influence within the township Republican structure.

Their influence has gradually been dwindling, as can be seen in the results of the last village election. Only one of the three GOP-slanted candidates was successful in getting a seat on the village board.

The Young Republicans should not be viewed as a means to completely cut out the "old guard" from politics in Palatine. It can and should be an organization to bring in new blood and fresh ideas to the Republican Party.

Control of the party can't remain in the hands of a few men forever. The "old guard's" fear of newcomers and their independent ideas only makes a bad situation of factionalism even worse.

Debate Ends In Standoff

Opposition to the voucher system was where agreement ended Tuesday night in a debate on financial aid to parochial schools.

State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and Dr. Virgil Kraft, regional director for Americans United for Separation of Church and State, in their first public appearance together, debated the pros and cons of parochial aid at a Willow Bend School PTA meeting in Rolling Meadows.

Schlickman told the approximately 35 people present that the state is getting a "real bargain" from nonpublic schools.

Drawing on historical and philosophical viewpoints, Schlickman emphasized the need for allowing parents to make a choice between sending their children to private or public schools.

The voucher system is a proposal whereby all parents of school-age children would receive a voucher that would guarantee admission when presented at any public or private school.

Schlickman, who headed the Elementary and Secondary Nonpublic Schools Study Commission, said the commission had found the quality of education in nonpublic schools "equal to, if not better than" that in the public schools. He said, the commission found a "tremendous variety" of nonpublic schools, although most are religious-oriented.

Furthermore, it was found the cost of providing a nonpublic education is substantially less than that of providing a public education, leaving salaries aside, Schlickman said.

During the last four years, enrollment in nonpublic schools has dropped 20 percent, resulting in a cost increase to Illinois taxpayers of $105 million, according to Schlickman's figures. He said that if this decline in enrollment continues, the cost would increase further and education would lose its diversity.

He said he hopes that the United States and Illinois Supreme Courts would find parochial aid, which he called state aid to parents with children in nonpublic schools, legal.

IN REBUTTAL, Kraft said he felt there was a "revolution afoot." He cited the general attitude toward law as a major problem. "That no citizen should be forced to support any religion is a basic belief in this country," he said.

Kraft called the parochial bills "gimmicks," and said that while they contended money will be used to support only "reading, writing and arithmetic," the main purpose of a parochial school is to give a religious education.

Another "gimmick" Kraft cited is a proposal to give money to parents and not the schools. He said that no matter who the money went to, it would end up supporting the schools.

Both agreed the voucher system was not the answer to the problem. Schlickman said he felt vouchers would undermine the public schools system, which would not be able to meet the competition.

Kraft cited the loss of community control over the school system as a reason he opposed the voucher system. He said it would be equivalent to taxation without representation.

'No Idea' Of New Voter Numbers: Township Clerk

The Palatine Township clerk's office has "no idea" how many residents have registered to vote in recent weeks.

All Margaret E. Chapman knows, she says, is that she's been "swamped" with registrations, from old and young alike, and expects to remain busy until Monday.

That's when registration officially closes for voting in the March 21 primary.

The town clerk's office at 37 N. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine, will remain open until 9 p.m. Monday to accommodate last-minute registrants, and Mrs. Chapman expects there will be quite a few.

"Everybody's going to gang up on us like they usually do," she predicted.

A NUMBER OF residents took advantage of special registration conducted Tuesday at various area schools by representatives of the Cook County Clerk's Office.

But that didn't lighten the load at the township office by much.

Mrs. Chapman displayed a stack of dozens of registration cards completed at her office during the one-day.

She confessed to being "maybe a day or so late" in processing the forms before sending them to the county clerk's office, but said, "no one could keep up."

She and two part-time assistants have been working nights to catch up with each day's registration, and Mrs. Chapman expects to be at it until midnight Monday.

About half of the registrants have been the newly franchised 18-to 21-year-olds, Mrs. Chapman said.

The remainder have been new residents or present township residents who have moved to another district.

Eligibility is based on six months' residency in Illinois and 30 days in the township, in addition to 18 years of age.

The town clerk's office will be closed Sunday, but will be open for registration from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday and Friday, in addition to Monday's 9 to 9 registration period.

'Y' Slates Winter
Swimming Program

The Countryside YMCA is accepting registration for a winter swim program to begin next week.

The coed classes will meet once a week for seven weeks at the St. Viator High School pool in Arlington Heights.

Family swims on Monday and Wednesday nights are free of charge to YMCA members.

Instruction is offered in three groups for youngsters aged 3 to 12 years.

In addition, junior and senior lifesaving instruction is available to persons over 12 years of age, and scuba diving lessons for persons aged 16 and over. The lifesaving and scuba classes are to begin the week of March 13.

Interested persons are asked to call the YMCA leadership center, 359-2400, for further information.

Planner Criticizes Area Transit Plan

A Northeastern Illinois Plan Commission official Tuesday night criticized the Chicago Metropolitan Area Transit System (CMATS) proposal, arguing that such legislation might aggravate rather than improve problems of the area.

Speaking at a forum in Elk Grove Village on the CMATS proposal, John G. Morris, NIPC director of transportation study, argued that the legislation might aggravate the problem by isolating transportation from other regional problems being studied on a long-range basis.

Morris' comments came after two Chicago & North Western Ry. officials warned that the legislation must be approved soon if the suburbs are not to lose their chance to improve mass transit systems. Representatives of Chicago Area Transportation Study (CATS) and the Chicago Area Rapid Transit System (CARTS) also spoke at the forum, held at Elk Grove Village Municipal Building for the benefit of village officials.

C&NW OFFICIALS have been campaigning in recent months for support for the legislation, known as House Bill 2136, which would create a regional agency to coordinate transit improvements in the suburban Cook County area.

Harold Lenseke, C&NW director of commuter and passenger service, noted that the federal and state governments have large amounts of funds available for improving transportation facilities. But, he warned, without an organized effort the suburbs may lose any chance for the funds.

"If CMATS is not approved now, the suburbs may lose any opportunity to improve their mass transit systems for the next decade," he said. Chicago officials now have plans that would use up all federal funds for the state for the next 10 years, he said.

Morris, however, said it "isn't quite that bad." Noting that there has been considerable study of the suburbs' transit problems, he said, "We don't believe anybody is abandoning the suburbs for the central city."

POINTING OUT that NIPC has taken no official position on the CMATS legislation, Morris praised the proposal's unifying concept, but criticized contentions that without it the suburbs would have no chance for improved transportation facilities.

A five-agency board, the Regional Transportation Planning Board, has been created to formulate an active mass transit plan for the area, he said. In addition, NIPC has been actively studying the problem, he said.

However, Jack Pahl, representing the CARTS proposal, argued that some agency is needed to represent the interests of suburbia.

"The suburban people have to get together to have their interests represented," the former Elk Grove Village president said. "There's no way they're being represented now."

Pahl, who also is a NIPC commissioner, noted that the CARTS proposal is an alternative plan to CMATS. Sponsored by the Cook County Council of Governments, the proposal would provide for political accountability in transit areas, he said.

Kennedy Heads
Hunting Ridge
Homeowners

John Kennedy, 1048 Yale Ct., was recently elected president of the Hunting Ridge Homeowners' Association.

Other officers of the subdivision are Duane Wolfman, 1024 Peregrine Dr., vice president; Mrs. John Casey, 1110 Skylark Ct., secretary; and Curt Ehrmann, 1058 W. Illinois Ave., treasurer.

Members of the board of directors are Mrs. John Anderson, Mrs. Edward Carr, Robert Dotts, Earle Pegouske, and Anthony Muscili.

The subdivision is in southwest Palatine. Still under construction, Hunting Ridge will have more than 450 families when completed.

Plan Presented For Willow Creek

Rohlfing to the park land;
—Minutef Drive (Williams Road) not to be opened to Palatine Road;

—the intersection of Rohlfing and Palatine roads be modernized.

Based on this master plan for the area, he recommended the plan commission approve the zoning change for apartments at Kenilworth and Leonard.

"The 60 units of apartments there would cause no big impact on traffic in the area," he said. However, it would "contribute proportionately" to the total estimated traffic volume of 25,000 trips a day in and out of the area under full development.

The plan commission, with two dissenting votes, recommended approval of the zoning change on the conditions that the builder present a planned unit development with improvement of Leonard south to meet Kenilworth, improve Kenilworth to a cul-de-sac at the end of the property, install walkways along Minutef and enclose drainage and storm sewer pipes for the area.

Although Commissioner Jim Bennett voted in favor of the change, he cautioned the commission it would "price the developer right out of the market" by demanding so many road improvements.

The land in that area is particularly costly to build on because of poor soil conditions and drainage.

Commissioners Irene Fremont and Conrad Hansen opposed the zoning change, claiming the density for the 60 units of apartments was higher than that allowed for Willow Creek and Baybrook. They both suggested the land remain as single-family zoning.

Rescue Unit Will Be Trained For Underwater Work

Rolling Meadows Civil Defense will expand its rescue work program with the addition of a unit trained in underwater rescue and recovery techniques.

Deputy CD director Carmen Vineziano said the Illinois Civil Defense office has selected Rolling Meadows to participate in a pilot program designed to train teams of volunteers in the methods of advanced underwater recovery and rescue work. The pilot program also is being tried in Harvey, Ill.

Vineziano said Rolling Meadows was asked to participate in the program "because we have a strong Civil Defense force," and added when the unit is formed it will be available for rescue work throughout the Northwest suburban area.

The rescue team will be made up of 10 volunteers, Vineziano said, who must prove they are qualified underwater sports divers before they will be trained in advanced rescue, navigation and underwater communication techniques.

VOLUNTEERS WHO are not qualified divers will be able to take instructions in basic swimming, lifesaving and diving with the cooperation of the Northwest Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines, which will offer free basic training.

A number of individuals, including four Rolling Meadows policemen, already have expressed an interest in the program, said Vineziano. James Darby, a Hanover Park resident but a member of the Rolling Meadows CD unit, has been chosen to head the new diving team. Darby is an underwater diving instructor and an underwater photographer.

All applicants for the program must join the city's CD program and must be at least 18 years old.

Certified scuba divers will not have to take the preliminary YMCA courses if they can pass written and underwater qualifying tests.

Diving equipment should be supplied by the volunteers, but Vineziano said it will not be necessary during the early part of the YMCA training. He said CD may later purchase some equipment.

EMERGENCY EQUIPMENT. Bob Woodward of Hugg of the Rolling Meadows Fire Department have endorsed a proposal to install two-way radios National Custom Coaches, Inc., Knightstown, Ind., looks on. Fire and village officials from various and heart care apparatus in their fire department's demonstrates equipment used in providing emergency treatment to heart attack victims as Roger Wednesday in Rolling Meadows. Four communities Northwest suburbs attended the demonstration ambulance and three others are considering it.

St. Collette Plans First, Second Grades First Time

First and second grade classes will be added at St. Collette School in Rolling Meadows this fall for the first time since the school opened in 1950.

Sister Donna, principal, said the decision to add the two grades was based on a belief that continuity of education is important for the student.

She explained when the school opened there was not enough room for all eight grades so the school was only third through eighth grades.

Enrollment at the school has dropped considerably in recent years, as it has at all parochial schools, and there are currently four classrooms not being used as classrooms, said Sister Donna. These classrooms will be used to accommodate the first and second grade students.

Sister Donna said she hoped the basic philosophy of the school of letting students develop as individuals would be carried through in the first and second grades.

The faculty is working on the curriculum to be used in the new primary grades and deciding what areas to individualize at the present time.

REGISTRATION FOR THE fall will start Sunday with an open house from 1 to 3 p.m. in the school. Movies will be shown and members of the faculty will be present to answer questions about educational policies of the school.

Another major change at the school next fall will be a new administrator. Sister Donna said she would not be returning as principal of St. Collette School.

Interviews with candidates for the position will start in March and Sister Donna said the board hopes to be able to announce who will be the new principal by April 6.

Also a new tuition policy will go into effect in September. The board has set tuition at $125 per year per family, payable monthly over a 10-month period. The tuition will be discounted to $100 if it is paid at the beginning of the school year.

This year tuition was on a sliding scale ranging from $130 for one child to $215 for three or more children attending the school.

Retarded Need Help — And A Chance

by JOANN VAN WYE

Retarded children can be helped and become worthwhile individuals — all they need is a chance.

With this conviction and a severely retarded child of her own, Mrs. Arthur Krause, 2407 Wing, Rolling Meadows, started her work with retarded children in the area more than 17 years ago.

She founded a Sunday School in 1954, with five retarded children meeting in a converted barn. As interest in the school grew along with enrollment, the school was expanded and eventually led to the construction of Clearbrook Center, 3201 W. Campbell St., Rolling Meadows.

A dinner-dance to honor Mrs. Krause for her work in founding Clearbrook Center will be held Feb. 26 at Lancer's Steak House.

While she is pleased with the progression from a cold, damp, old barn to a modern new facility, Mrs. Krause is more concerned with the progress the children have made over the years.

"IT'S BEEN HARD work but it's been worth it," said Mrs. Krause. Her daughter is now 21 and has graduated from

Mrs. Arthur Krause

Clearbrook center and is working in the Clearbrook Vocational Rehabilitation Center and Sheltered Workshop in Elk Grove Village. Mrs. Krause talks about the dances they have and the work the people do at the center.

"It's amazing to think this all started with five people," said Mrs. Krause. She explained she was new to Rolling Meadows in 1954 and could not afford to pay tuition to send her daughter to a special school and the public schools would not accept her. Believing something could be done to help her daughter and other children like her, Mrs. Krause ran an advertisement in an effort to contact parents who were in the same situation. Ten people attended the first meeting.

The Sunday School in the Community Church of Rolling Meadows, a converted barn at the time, grew out of this meeting. Mrs. Krause was elected president of the group and all the parents worked as teachers.

The parents felt the children were making some headway so they decided to try a school in 1954. The school started with one teacher and many volunteers. The teacher's salary was paid from donations and fund-raising projects for four years.

ENROLLMENT AT the school grew so rapidly that the school had to be moved from the barn to the educational room of the Community Church, from there to the Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights and finally to Clearbrook Center.

While the idea of the school had been conceived by the parents, it grew to the point where the parents had gone as far as they could and they gave way to a board of directors, said Mrs. Krause, adding that this was probably one of the best moves they had made. Mrs. Krause still does an assortment of volunteer work and attends board meetings.

Mrs. Krause is extremely happy with the progress being made in the education of the trainable and educable mentally handicapped in the area. She said some of the students had graduated into the public schools while others are just learning to be worthwhile individuals.

"It really does pay to get involved," she said.

Baseball Association Slates Benefit Dance

A dance to raise money for the Rolling Meadows Boys Baseball Association will be held Saturday from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at Sacred Heart of Mary High School.

The association will use proceeds from the dance to buy new equipment and make repairs to old equipment and uniforms.

Rolling Meadows Men Join Palatine Police

Two Rolling Meadows residents have been named patrolmen on the Palatine Police force.

Charles Daut and Richard Jamieson will assume their duties around March 1 at a salary of $10,000 a year.

John W. Bryant of Hoffman Estates also will be new to the force, as well as two other men yet to be selected.

The five new patrolmen, bringing the department to 35 men, were added because of increasing vandalism and security problems at various Palatine parks.

Planner Criticizes Area Transit Plan

A Northeastern Illinois Plan Commission official Tuesday night criticized the Chicago Metropolitan Area Transit System (CMATS) proposal, arguing that such legislation might aggravate rather than improve problems of the area.

Speaking at a forum in Elk Grove Village on the CMATS proposal, John G. Morris, NIPC director of transportation study, argued that the legislation might aggravate the problem by isolating transportation from other regional problems being studied on a long-range basis.

Morris' comments came after two Chicago & North Western Ry. officials warned that the legislation must be approved soon if the suburbs are not to lose their chance to improve mass transit systems. Representatives of Chicago Area Transportation Study (CATS) and the Chicago Area Rapid Transit System (CATS) also spoke at the forum, held at Elk Grove Village Municipal Building for the benefit of village officials.

C&NW OFFICIALS have been campaigning in recent months for support for the legislation, known as House Bill 2135, which would create a regional agency to coordinate transit improvements in the suburban Cook County area.

Harold Lense, C&NW director of commuter and passenger service, noted that the federal and state governments have large amounts of funds available for improving transportation facilities. But, he warned, without an organized effort the suburbs may lose any chance for the funds.

"If CMATS is not approved now, the suburbs may lose any opportunity to improve their mass transit systems for the next decade," he said. Chicago officials now have plans that would use up all federal funds for the state for the next 10 years, he said.

Morris, however, said it "isn't quite that bad." Noting that there has been considerable study of the suburbs' transit problems, he said, "We don't believe anybody is abandoning the suburbs for the central city."

POINTING OUT that NIPC has taken no official position on the CMATS legislation, Morris praised the proposal's unifying concept, but criticized contentions that without it the suburbs would have no chance for improved transportation facilities.

A five-agency board, the Regional Transportation Planning Board, has been created to formulate an active mass transit plan for the area, he said. In addition, NIPC has been actively studying the problem, he said.

However, Jack Pahl, representing the CATS proposal, argued that some agency is needed to represent the interests of suburbia.

"The suburban people have to get together to have their interests represented," the former Elk Grove Village president said. "There's no way they're being represented now."

Pahl, who also is a NIPC commissioner, noted that the CATS proposal is an alternative plan to CMATS. Sponsored by the Cook County Council of Governments, the proposal would provide for political accountability in transit areas, he said.

Aronson To Seek 4th Term On High School Dist. Board

Arthur Aronson of unincorporated Arlington Heights has announced he will seek a fourth term on the High School Dist. 214 Board.

Aronson, employed by the A. B. Dick Co., was indecisive about running for reelection but said he was persuaded by the campaign issues. He has been a member of the board since 1962, serving as president in 1965 and 1969.

"Prospective members have talked about cutting costs," said Aronson. "It is my interest to keep education as qualified as possible and this may mean not cutting costs. We have been trying over the years to keep costs as low as possible, but they are spiraling all over."

Aronson said he also is concerned about campaign discussion of unification of the school districts in this area into one unit district, composed of high schools and elementary schools.

"In the long haul formation of a unit district may be in order, but I don't know if we can achieve this immediately."

Aronson said he is interested in preserving the authority of a local 10-school district cooperative, called the Northwest Education Cooperative. Now president of the cooperative, Aronson said, "The role of NEC is being questioned. I want to help give it an opportunity to continue to produce."

'Y' Slates Winter Swimming Program

The Countryside YMCA is accepting registration for a winter swim program to begin next week.

The coed classes will meet once a week for seven weeks at the St. Vitor High School pool in Arlington Heights.

Family swims on Monday and Wednesday nights are free of charge to YMCA members.

Instruction is offered in three groups for youngsters aged 3 to 12 years.

In addition, junior and senior lifesaving instruction is available to persons over 12 years of age, and scuba diving lessons for persons aged 16 and over. The lifesaving and scuba classes are to begin the week of March 13.

Interested persons are asked to call the YMCA leadership center, 359-2400, for further information.

'Feet Fobia' Will Kick-Off Tonight

"Feet Fobia," a dance show sponsored by the Orchestrals club, will begin tonight at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights.

The show will begin tonight at 7:30 p.m. and at 8 p.m. Saturday in the school's theater, 2021 S. Goebbert Rd. Admission is $1. The show will also be performed for students at a Friday matinee.

'No Idea' Of New Voter Numbers: Township Clerk

The Palatine Township clerk's office has "no idea" how many residents have registered to vote in recent weeks.

All Margaret E. Chapman knows, she says, is that she's been "swamped" with registrations, from old and young alike, and expects to remain busy until Monday.

That's when registration officially closes for voting in the March 21 primary.

The town clerk's office at 37 N. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine, will remain open until 9 p.m. Monday to accommodate last-minute registrants, and Mrs. Chapman expects there will be quite a few.

"Everybody's going to gang up on us like they usually do," she predicted.

A NUMBER OF residents took advantage of special registration conducted Tuesday at various area schools by representatives of the Cook County Clerk's Office.

But that didn't lighten the load at the township office by much.

Mrs. Chapman displayed a stack of dozens of registration cards completed at her office during the one day.

She confessed to being "maybe a day or so late" in processing the forms before sending them to the county clerk's office, but said, "no one could keep up."

She and two part-time assistants have been working nights to catch up with each day's registration, and Mrs. Chapman expects to be at it until midnight Monday.

About half of the registrants have been the newly franchised 18- to 21-year-olds, Mrs. Chapman said.

The remainder have been new residents or present township residents who have moved to another district.

Eligibility is based on six months' residency in Illinois and 30 days in the township, in addition to 18 years of age.

The town clerk's office will be closed Sunday, but will be open for registration from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday and Friday, in addition to Monday's 9 to 9 registration period.

160 Students Tour St. Mary Seminary

The St. Colette Parish Religious Education Board recently conducted a field trip to St. Mary of the Lake Seminary in Mundelein.

Approximately 160 students of the fifth and sixth grade levels of the Religious Education Program were given a tour of the seminary by Seminarian Gary Miller.

The students, who have been studying the priesthood, were given a first hand look at the training a man receives while preparing for the priesthood. The tour included a look at the main chapel, the recreation facilities and the grounds of the seminary.

Gospel Singing Group To Perform At Church

The LeFevres, a gospel singing group, will present a concert at the Meadows Baptist Church Sunday at 7 p.m.

The LeFevres are one of the oldest gospel singing groups, having marked their golden anniversary last year. Two of the original members of the group are still singing and new members have been added.

The concert is open to the public and there is no charge.

Women's Club Sets International Dinner

St. Colette's Women's Club will have its annual International Dinner at 8 p.m. next Wednesday in the church hall.

The members will have foods, decorations and costumes from Italy, Greece, Early American, Scandinavian, Polynesian and Germany. The donation is $1.

Forest View Jazz Band 1st Runner-Up

The Forest View High School Jazz Band was named first runner-up Saturday in a jazz band contest at Eastern Illinois University.

The 20-member group, under the direction of Fred O. Elliot, received a trophy after competing with seven other high school jazz bands.

Two Forest View students also received outstanding soloist awards. They are Pam Drews for piano and Greg Ferguson for trombone.

Primarily Intended For Shoppers

Jefferson Park-Randhurst Bus Route Is Considered

A proposed bus run from the Jefferson Park Chicago Transit Authority Terminal to the Randhurst Shopping in Mount Prospect is being considered by the Randhurst Corp. and the Village of Mount Prospect. The bus will be primarily intended for shoppers.

The bus run, which would first be operated on a trial basis, would include two stops in Chicago, two in Park Ridge, and one in Des Plaines and Mount Prospect. The fares would be 35, 45 or 50 cents a ride.

According to a tentative schedule drawn up by the United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines, there would be seven daily trips to Randhurst and eight leaving Randhurst.

The plan was proposed by John Hanck, vice president and general manager of United Motor Coach.

HANCK, SAID yesterday the proposal "is worth a try." He said his firm came up with the idea and is "all for it."

"It is something we've been kicking around for some time," Hanck said. In a letter to Mount Prospect Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley, Hanck said the hourly cost of $9, less fares collected, would be shared equally by the village, Randhurst and United Motor Coach.

Mount Prospect Mayor Robert D. Teichert said yesterday that from the way the route of the bus is set up — Randhurst being an end point — it seems the purpose is to increase the village's sales tax base. Therefore it would seem logical, he said, to have the village share in the cost of the operation.

Hanck said he feels the program will work "because, we know the number of calls we have been getting from people asking if there is such a bus."

Harold J. Carlson, vice-president and general manager of the Randhurst Corp., yesterday said he has submitted the proposal "in detail" to his board of directors; however, he has yet to receive any feedback from them. He said part of his problem is that many of the directors are often out of town.

Looking ahead though, he said one big problem the plan would have would be publicity, letting people know about the bus.

"Right now we're playing guessing games as to the number of riders we will be getting," Carlson said. "I personally am very excited about the proposal."

THE VILLAGE HAS given the proposal to its fire and police committee for study. This committee is also studying the results of a Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce Transportation study and the recent experimental bus program in the village during the Christmas shopping season.

Hanck has suggested the plan be implemented for two or three months. However, should the first month indicate that ridership will be a lot less than anticipated or hoped for, Hanck wants it set-up so that the operation can be terminated then by mutual agreement.

ASH WEDNESDAY, the beginning of the Lenten season, was observed in churches throughout the Northwest suburbs yesterday. Traditionally, ashes from last Palm Sunday's palms are smudged on the forehead as a reminder of repentance.

Village Agrees To Annex

A written pre-annexation agreement is next for the owners of 13 lots near Lynn Court, just south of the Lake Briarwood subdivision.

The Mount Prospect Village Board unanimously voted Tuesday night to concur with a plan commission recommendation that the properties be annexed, subject to their entering the village zoned as single-family. The petitioners were the owners, E. L. Trendel and Willy Christensen. The property is currently in unincorporated Cook County.

As in previous hearings, members of the Lake Briarwood Homeowners Association appeared to voice their protests. The major objection given at Tuesday's meeting was that once the property was zoned in Mount Prospect, the owners could have smaller lot sizes. This, the Briarwood residents contended, would hurt their own property values.

The Lake Briarwood subdivision is located southwest of Mount Prospect near the tollway.

BOTH THE VILLAGE board and Mayor Robert D. Teichert rejected the homeowners association's reasoning. Trustee Richard H. Monroe told the protestors, "This is an opportunity to get single-family here, something that has never been offered before. I don't feel you can tell someone else they cannot build and come into the village."

Previous attempts had been made unsuccessfully by the owners to have the land annexed and zoned for high-rise apartments. Those attempts were also fought by the Lake Briarwood residents and, in that case, Mount Prospect supported them.

Teichert said that Mount Prospect considered single-family zoning the highest use possible and that no property values have gone down in the village because of the inclusion of more single-family homes.

"I don't feel what is being proposed here would be detrimental to any community in Illinois," he said.

Planner Hits Transit Plan

A Northeastern Illinois Plan Commission official Tuesday night criticized the Chicago Metropolitan Area Transit System (CMATS) proposal, arguing that such legislation might aggravate rather than improve problems of the area.

Speaking at a forum in Elk Grove Village on the CMATS proposal, John G. Morris, NIPCO director of transportation study, argued that the legislation might aggravate the problem by isolating transportation from other regional problems being studied on a long-range basis.

Morris' comments came after two Chicago & North Western Ry. officials warned that the legislation must be approved soon if the suburbs are not to lose their chance to improve mass transit systems. Representatives of Chicago Area Transportation Study (CATS) and the Chicago Area Rapid Transit System (CARTS) also spoke at the forum, held at Elk Grove Village Municipal Building for the benefit of village officials.

C&NW OFFICIALS have been campaigning in recent months for support for the legislation, known as House Bill 2136, which would create a regional agency to coordinate transit improvements in the suburban Cook County area.

Harold Lenske, C&NW director of commuter and passenger service, noted that the federal and state governments have large amounts of funds available for improving transportation facilities. But, he warned, without an organized effort the suburbs may lose any chance for the funds.

"If CMATS is not approved now, the suburbs may lose any opportunity to improve their mass transit systems for the next decade," he said. Chicago officials now have plans that would use up all federal funds for the state for the next 10 years, he said.

Morris, however, said it "isn't quite that bad." Noting that there has been considerable study of the suburbs' transit problems, he said, "We don't believe anybody is abandoning the suburbs for the central city."

Crazy Nick's Owner Tells Of Assault Attempt

Mount Prospect police are looking for two men who allegedly tried to assault the owner of Crazy Nick's Restaurant with their truck Sunday morning.

The two men ordered food, totaling $4.50, at about 3:30 a.m. They then left the restaurant, located at 720 E. Rand Rd., some 40 minutes later without paying, according to the police.

The owner, George Poulos, of 2014 Hopi Ln., Mount Prospect told police he chased the two men outside, where the pair got into a white and green International truck. At that time, Mrs. Poulos entered the parking lot and, on her husband's instructions, blocked the driveway exit with her car.

POULOUS TOLD police the truck driver then put the vehicle in reverse and charged him. When he jumped to one side, the truck continued until it crashed into the northwest wall of the building.

As Poulos lay on the ground, unhurt, the truck shifted gears and went around his wife's car.

The police are tracing the vehicle.

Teachers Say They Won't Back Cutbacks

Responding to recent criticism, representatives of the Mount Prospect Education Association (MPEA) yesterday said they could never back a 1972-73 staffing plan that includes staff cutbacks.

Last week Lois Brothers, who said she was speaking for a group of Mount Prospect residents known as Citizens for Quality Education, criticized the MPEA for presenting a staffing plan calling for an increase in current staff.

She said the group felt the plan was "a completely immature and unreasonable statement" in light of financial difficulties and parents' attempts to retain as many staff members as possible.

"The MPEA is in the business of building, not destroying the educational program," said Dale Heilman, MPEA president.

"If the MPEA had agreed to any alternative staffing plan that contained removal of staff and programs, that would have been misinterpreted to be an MPEA approval of cuts. Had we offered an alternative plan containing cuts we would have taken side against certain teachers and certain programs."

MRS. BROTHER'S criticism came after Heilman, at a recent school board meeting, presented a staffing plan that had been prepared by teachers last spring. The MPEA then wanted to negotiate the plan, but board members said staffing was non-negotiable. Heilman pointed out at the board meeting that the MPEA had not had time again to poll teachers about 1972-73 staffing.

An MPEA questionnaire to teachers is now being prepared and should be sent out next week. Questions will ask teachers what they feel should be negotiated in 1972-73 contract talks with the board.

MPEA representatives also feel the organization is being criticized unjustly because of its refusal to accept the recent offer of board member Leo Floros in which he would recommend the board not hire a professional negotiator, if teachers would agree to a maximum 5.5 per cent salary hike.

"The offer was not a board of education offer," Heilman said. "It would have been valueless if accepted by the teachers. Also, the 5.5 per cent represented an MPEA maximum but not a board minimum. Presenting this limit to the teachers when we are already that far behind neighboring districts at some salary levels would have been untimely, especially if the MPEA has begun negotiations with a 5.5 per cent demand and the board had countered with 0 per cent."

1972-73 negotiations have not yet begun. Teachers have indicated they will ask for the first session to begin soon, however.

Stolen Car Found Before Theft Known

Kenneth Kallas, 603 S. Edward St., Mount Prospect, had his newly purchased Volkswagen sedan stolen Friday about 7:45 p.m. It was found about 11 a.m. Saturday by Mount Prospect police halfway into Weller Creek.

The police recovered the gray 1968 car before the loss was reported. A resident in the area of Man-A-Wa Trail and Weller Creek called the police to report that an "auto was being pushed into Weller Creek by some youths."

When the police arrived, they found the car halfway over the south bank of the creek. It had been driven or pushed from Man-A-Wa Trail across some Mount Prospect Park District property and then left at the edge of the creek.

The car had been damaged in the rear and both the front fenders and the front windshield had been damaged.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Some 15,000 West Coast longshoremen began balloting in 24 ports in a vote that could end the longest dock strike in U.S. history by Sunday.

President Nixon leaves Washington for a 12-day trip to China to open "a new chapter" in relations with the world's most populous country.

Sen. George McGovern suggested the sensible way to handle the marijuana problem might be to legalize its use and impose regulations similar to those used to control the sale of alcoholic beverages.

Edith Irving surrendered in federal court to a Swiss fugitive warrant for her arrest on criminal charges in connection with her husband's "autobiography" of

Howard Hughes. She was released on $250,000 bond.

A U.S. District Court judge signed a temporary order putting into effect the agreement reached by Democrats and Republicans to protect government employees from doing forced political work. It stipulates that state, county and local government employees in 18 northern Illinois counties cannot be fired or harassed for failure to do political work or to make political contributions.

The State

The three Chicago businessmen who were found shot to death last Friday in Indiana received a letter promising a profitable financial deal if they attended a meeting in Gary, police said. One of the victims received the letter asking all three men be present at a restaurant in Gary on the night of the slayings.

Elementary and secondary education will get the largest fund increase in Gov. Richard Ogilvie's fiscal 1973 budget. Ogilvie said he will recommend an allocation of $1.083 billion for elementary and secondary education, 15 per cent more than he recommended last year.

The World

A three-man junta put Ecuador under virtual military control after a bloodless coup in which the armed forces overthrew President Jose Velasco Ibarra for the fourth time since 1933 and sent him into exile in Panama.

China now ranks as "perhaps the third most important nuclear power in the world" and the United States must be prepared to fight simultaneous atomic wars with both China and the Soviet Union, said Adm. Thomas Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The War

Hanoi radio charged several flights of American warplanes bombed and strafed a number of populated areas in Quang Binh province and that two jets were shot down. The U.S. command disclaimed any knowledge of the raids. In Paris, the Viet Cong charged the American refusal to attend the next session of the peace talks was "sabotage" and that the only way to solve the war was at the conference table.

Prospectus

Who Has Best Staffing Plan?

by KAREN RUGEN

Staffing plan. Staffing plan. Who's got the best staffing plan?

Ask a resident in Mount Prospect School Dist. 57 and she'll tell you. Ask another parent and he'll give you a different answer.

It all started on Jan. 17 when Supt. Eric Sahlberg for the first time presented staffing proposals for the 1972-73 school year. Then there was one plan. But before the ordeal was over, the school board had at least five plans to choose from.

Unsatisfied with Sahlberg's original proposal, a group of 40 residents got together, called themselves Citizens for Quality Education and drew up their own plan. Board member Leo Flores, present at that meeting, drew up a similar plan. PTA groups came up with their recommendations. The Mount Prospect Education Association (MPEA), explaining that as teachers they couldn't support any cutbacks, presented yet another plan. And six school board members, faced with financial difficulties, in a closed meeting drew up their two plans.

EXCEPT FOR the MPEA proposal, which most don't take seriously, the plans were similar. They all suggested cutbacks in the art and nursing staff and in the number of speech correctionists. All took into account that Dist. 57 is facing a financial crisis, with a projected 1972-73 deficit following two years of operating in the red.

Just how much the educational program should suffer because of that crisis depends on which plan you look at. Revision I, or the board's plan in case a proposed 39 cent tax hike referendum fails, takes the severest toll on the educational program by eliminating 7 classroom and 17 special teachers.

Revision II, or the board's plan if the referendum passes, provides for fewer cutbacks than any other plan and in the case of resource teachers, even adds to the current program.

Final action on the plans has been taken by the board. If the referendum fails, Dist. 57 gets Revision I. If it passes, Dist. 57 gets Revision II. While Sahlberg says the plans are still tentative, depending on actual enrollment figures, there's little likelihood the board will reconsider.

But the way Dist. 57 residents are talking, you'd never know it.

It's been more than a week since the vote was taken. Parents with children in hand are still saying they want a full band program next year no matter what. Those with children in learning disabilities are still hoping to retain the current level of learning disabilities teachers. Many are still complaining that class sizes will be too large.

STILL OTHERS are saying the board should have accepted Flores' plan, even though that plan, if put into effect without passage of a referendum, would more than double the deficit that would be created by Revision I. And even though Revision II, if a hike passes would give taxpayers a better educational program including the current learning disabilities staff and more resource teachers.

Barely holding his temper, board member Bob Novy last week laid it on the line by telling residents to put aside their "negative attitudes" and work for the referendum.

Novy should be commended for saying it straight. Like too many cooks in the pudding, too many staffing plans reflecting individual interests can spoil the referendum. And if the referendum fails, parents won't lose only band and learning disabilities teachers and get larger class sizes. They'll also get a staffing plan with cutbacks in nearly every area. And that plan will hurt every child, not just the one who plays the trumpet.

fiscal year begins May 1.

AT TUESDAY'S village board meeting, there was a first reading of an ordinance that will change the village's budget system. Instead of passing both an appropriations ordinance and a budget, a budget itself would be all that would be required.

Trustee Donald B. Furst, chairman of the finance committee, feels the new law "gives the board more control, places more responsibility on the specific department heads to live within their budget and gives the board more flexibility."

Other changes that would be allowed under the law include the ability to set aside 10 per cent of the total budget as a contingency fund and to establish a capital improvements fund equal to one-half of one per cent of the village's assessed valuation.

Furst said that the capital improvements funds, something the village does not now have, can be carried from year to year as long as they are specifically earmarked for a project or projects.

To pass the new law a two-thirds majority of the village board will be required.

Course Is Scheduled

Area men who want to improve their public speaking skills can enroll in the upcoming "Leadership Through Speaking" Seminar which begins next week.

The eight-week course will deal with the fundamentals of oral communication. Each of the eight sessions will emphasize a different aspect of speech preparation, presentation or meeting management. The seminars will be headed by men having training and experience in public speaking. Course materials will be provided for each participant.

The course is being conducted by members of the Mount Prospect Toastmasters, a branch of Toastmasters International.

During the seminars participants will have opportunities to make both prepared and impromptu speeches. Seminars also include regular Toastmasters' meetings in which seminar participants can observe the principles being taught in the course.

The eight sessions will be held from 7:45 to 9:45 p.m. each Monday, from Feb. 21 to April 10, at the Mount Prospect Country Club, 600 S. See-Gwan Ave., Mount Prospect.

Cost of the eight-week course is $10. This includes all course materials. Enrollment is limited to 30 men.

For more information, call Larry Selbach, president of the Mount Prospect Toastmaster, at 243-1257, or write him at 213 Can-Dota, Mount Prospect. Prospective participants are also invited to attend the first meeting Monday.

JoJo's Restaurant Is Closer To Liquor License

JoJo's Restaurants Inc. moved one step closer to getting a beer and wine liquor license from the Village of Mount Prospect Tuesday night; at the same time Mayor Robert D. Teichert moved one step further away from a head-on collision with the village board over the issuance of the license.

Officials of the California-based restaurant chain have applied for a Class W, beer and wine, liquor license for the restaurant they plan to build at 821 E. Rand Rd., the site of the Village Inn Pancake House. At Tuesday's village board meeting an ordinance creating one such license was given a first reading, putting JoJo's closer to its goal.

Meanwhile Teichert, who is also the local liquor commissioner, has pledged to inform the board ahead of time should he choose not to issue the Class W license, if created, to JoJo's.

TEICHERT HAS indicated in the past that he might prefer issuing the license to another applicant, presumably — from

Set Summer School For No Charge

Summer school will be offered this summer by Prospect Heights School Dist. 23 for kindergarten through eighth grade students.

The school board voted Wednesday to reinstate summer school on the condition that student fees and state aid pay for the program with no cost to the district.

"The program has been designed so that classes without enough enrollment to justify the expense would be dropped," according to Robert Marshall, MacArthur Junior High School assistant principal and summer school director.

Registration for summer classes will be accepted until April 24. School will run from June 25 to July 21 with classes beginning at 8:30 a.m. and ending at noon. Classes will not meet Monday, July 3, and Tuesday, July 4, to give the students a four-day holiday weekend.

Marshall said classes will meet at MacArthur Junior High and Eisenhower Elementary schools. Children living in the school district will be charged a $5 book rental fee, and students outside district boundaries will be required to pay a $25 tuition fee that includes book rental fees.

Eppley Prepares Budget For Presentation To Village Bd.

Mount Prospect Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley this week is preparing the budget he will present to the village board.

All department heads have completed their work sheets and submitted their departmental budget requests to Eppley. Now, the manager is meeting with each department head and going over each request. Finance Director Richard Jesse also is attending these meetings.

Last Wednesday, Eppley met with representatives from the police and firemen to discuss their salary and fringe benefits for the coming fiscal year. Police Chief Bert Giddens and Fire Chief Lawrence Paritz were present.

Eppley said he could not reveal at this time what was asked for by the firemen and policemen but that the federal wage guidelines will restrict what they get. Currently, Mount Prospect policemen are the highest paid in the Northwest suburbs.

Eppley's budget will be presented to the village board and Mayor Robert D. Teichert by March 7. Then the village board, with recommendations from the village's finance committee, will set up public hearing dates on the budget. The

Couriers To Sing At Church Tomorrow

The Couriers, a singing group from Harrisburg, Pa., will present a sacred concert at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Northwest Assembly of God Church, 900 N. Wolf Rd., Mount Prospect, the Rev. Norman L. Surratt announced.

The Couriers have averaged 90,000 miles per year in travel that has taken them into all the states on the mainland and every major city in Canada.

Dave Kyllonen, manager and MC of the group has been with the Couriers since the group's foundation. Another original member, Duane Nicholson, sings first tenor. Neil Enloe is the lead singer, pianist, and arranger.

The public is cordially invited to attend this sacred concert. There is no admission charge.

Village Green Golf Kickoff Is Friday

The Village Green Golf Club of the Mount Prospect Country Club Park District will hold its annual kick-off meeting at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Club House, 600 S. See-Gwan Ave.

Membership is open to area golfers and applications will be distributed during the meeting for both renewal and new members. The Village Green meeting will include announcements of the 1972 tournament schedule. A coffee and social hour will be highlighted by presentation of door prizes and the showing of the color-sound films of the 1971 Masters Golf Tournament from the Augusta National Golf Course.

'Feet Fobia' Will Kick-Off Tonight

"Feet Fobia," a dance show sponsored by the Orchestris club, will begin tonight at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights.

The show will begin tonight at 7:30 p.m. and at 8 p.m. Saturday in the school's theater, 2021 S. Goebbert Rd. Admission is $1. The show will also be performed for students at a Friday matinee.

Planner Hits Transit Plan

A five-agency board, the Regional Transportation Planning Board, has been created to formulate an active mass transit plan for the area, he said. In addition, NIPC has been actively studying the problem, he said.

However, Jack Pahl, representing the CARTS proposal, argued that some agency is needed to represent the interests of suburbia.

"The suburban people have to get together to have their interests represented," the former Elk Grove Village president said. "There's no way they're being represented now."

Pahl, who also is a NIPC commissioner, noted that the CARTS proposal is an alternative plan to CMATS. Sponsored by the Cook County Council of Governments, the proposal would provide for political accountability in transit areas, he said.

Study Proves No Evidence Of Environmental Damage

ECC Says K-Mart Incinerator Is OK

If the Arlington Heights Environmental Control (ECC) recommendation made last night is approved by the village board, the new K-Mart incinerator on Algonquin Road in Arlington Heights will begin operations.

The incinerator needs special approval of the village board because plans for it were not submitted to the village with the original plans for the store. The ECC has studied the data related to the incinerator as well as the K-Mart incinerator in Wheeling during the past month to come up with their recommendation.

"At this point there is no environmental reason why the installation should not be permitted," according to the ECC report. "There is no evidence that environmental damage will occur with proper operation of the incinerator."

ECC members were concerned particularly about the operation of the incinerator since the K-Mart incinerator in Wheeling was not running properly because of alleged misuse.

L. B. LARSEN, maintenance supervisor of the S. S. Kresge Company in this area, told ECC members, however, that the store manager, assistant manager and operations manager are thoroughly instructed in the use, operation and maintenance of incineration equipment.

The recommendation will be submitted to the plan commission which will make a recommendation to the village board.

The ECC is also planning to draft a list of recommendations for the legal treatment of incinerators which are under 1,000 pound-per-day units. At the present time there are about 40 such units in Arlington Heights, about 15 of which are not in operation.

In other action, the ECC adopted a list of suggestions for Earth Week to be held in mid-April. One suggestion is to use the same format as was used during Earth Week last year.

Suggested ideas for the ECC's part in the week include becoming involved in the steering committee, providing speakers on environmental problems and involving more adults of the community in the week.

GEORGE F. CHARLTON, former Army colonel, has taken up a new career as Arlington Heights director of health services. Charlton, who will also serve as an administrative assistant to the village manager, replaces Derryl Kenning who recently succeeded John Coste as career which earned him some very delicate assignments.

Though he has been stationed as far away as Korea, Charlton is no stranger to Arlington Heights.

In 1968-69 he was commander of the 45th brigade at the Arlington Heights Nike base. The experience must have served him well for his next assignment was with a much more up-to-date missile system.

AFTER LEAVING Arlington Heights in 1969, Charlton went to Fort Monroe, Va., where he was involved in training personnel for the controversial anti-ballistic missile (ABM) program.

In Virginia, Charlton was able to pick

Former Officers Are Good Leaders

by DOUG RAY

Some high-ranking Arlington Heights officials know what it is like to make command decisions. They've dictated military policy most of their adult lives as armed service officers.

Former servicemen, many of them retired, are now administrative officials in Arlington Heights village government and were hired under a military opportunity program initiated by Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson.

When a job opening occurs, whether it be for an assistant manager or a fireman, Hanson sends the notice to local military installations where it is posted for servicemen. "We send the list to Great Lakes and Glenview Naval Air Station," Hanson said. "They put the list on the bulletin board" to let the men see there are openings.

Hanson has been using the method "for about four or five years," when he first began hearing stories about the lack of employment opportunities for veterans. "It has worked out very well for us," he added.

AND APPARENTLY the practice of hiring former military officers has worked out satisfactorily in Arlington Heights because the newest addition to Hanson's staff is a retired commander of the Nike Missile Site.

Former 45th Bde. Commander Col. George Charlton is now heading the health department and is an assistant to the village manager. The former assistant village manager, John Coste, also is a military retiree.

Coste, who has assumed the post of assistant to Schaumburg Mayor Robert Atcher, is a former Navy captain. At one time he commanded four vessels during 28 years in the Navy.

Coste said a municipal job is "much like" his former military duties. "The organization and administrative skills are

Solicitor Issue

Raised By School

Administrators at Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic School, 432 S. Mitchell Ave., Arlington Heights, reported yesterday unauthorized solicitors were attempting to sell advertisements on school book covers to local merchants.

Two New Jersey-based companies — Quigley Co. and J. S. Stephens — were reportedly offering advertising space on Our Lady of the Wayside book covers which school officials say they never agreed to buy.

The Arlington Heights police have been notified of the solicitor problem.

Aronson To Seek 4th Term On High School Dist. Board

Arthur Aronson of unincorporated Arlington Heights has announced he will seek a fourth term on the High School Dist. 214 Board.

Aronson, employed by the A. B. Dick Co., was indecisive about running for re-election but said he was persuaded by the campaign issues. He has been a member of the board since 1962, serving as president in 1965 and 1969.

"Prospective members have talked about cutting costs," said Aronson. "It is my interest to keep education as qualified as possible and this may mean not cutting costs. We have been trying over the years to keep costs as low as possible, but they are spiraling all over."

Aronson said he also is concerned about campaign discussion of unification of the school districts in this area into one unit district, composed of high schools and elementary schools.

"In the long haul formation of a unit district may be in order, but I don't know if we can achieve this immediately."

Aronson said he is interested in preserving the authority of a local 10-school district cooperative, called the Northwest Education Cooperative. Now president of the cooperative, Aronson said, "The role of NEC is being questioned. I want to help give it an opportunity to continue to produce."

Ex-Officers Make Good Leaders

(Continued from page 1) the same," Coste said. "It's just working with people and the problems are about the same." Coste added that Buffalo Grove's first village manager also was a retired military officer.

In 1968, Buffalo Grove's first village manager was former Lt. Col. William Bannister, who had been in the military for 26 years. Bannister's last military station was at Fort Sheridan.

SEVERAL PERSONNEL agencies specifically advertise for ex-servicemen and place many of the officers in positions similar to those in Arlington Heights village government.

"The officers have the edge over the college graduates," said a spokesman for the Zenith Employment Agency, a Chicago-based agency. "With the economy the way it is," he said, "employers can be choosy... and the officers are sought for the supervisory positions."

Another Chicago-based employment agency official said "most companies are looking for people who have been officers... to show leadership."

Chris Kuris, of Castle employment agency, said military experience shows a prospective employer "a lot more maturity and stability" than the non-military jobhunter.

He said follow up studies have shown that 95 per cent of all servicemen placed through Castle have "done exceptional jobs and are still on the job. The majors and above," he said, "get many of the good administrative jobs."

Planner Criticizes Area Transit Plan

A Northeastern Illinois Plan Commission official Tuesday night criticized the Chicago Metropolitan Area Transit System (CMATS) proposal, arguing that such legislation might aggravate rather than improve problems of the area.

Speaking at a forum in Elk Grove Village on the CMATS proposal, John G. Morris, NIPCC director of transportation study, argued that the legislation might aggravate the problem by isolating transportation from other regional problems being studied on a long-range basis.

Morris' comments came after two Chicago & North Western Ry. officials warned that the legislation must be approved soon if the suburbs are not to lose their chance to improve mass transit systems. Representatives of Chicago Area Transportation Study (CATS) and the Chicago Area Rapid Transit System (CATS) also spoke at the forum, held at Elk Grove Village Municipal Building for the benefit of village officials.

C&NW OFFICIALS have been campaigning in recent months for support for the legislation, known as House Bill 2136, which would create a regional agency to coordinate transit improvements in the suburban Cook County area.

Harold Lenske, C&NW director of commuter and passenger service, noted that the federal and state governments have large amounts of funds available for improving transportation facilities. But, he warned, without an organized effort the suburbs may lose any chance for the funds.

"If CMATS is not approved now, the suburbs may lose any opportunity to improve their mass transit systems for the next decade," he said. Chicago officials now have plans that would use up all federal funds for the state for the next 10 years, he said.

Morris, however, said it "isn't quite that bad." Noting that there has been considerable study of the suburbs' transit problems, he said, "We don't believe anybody is abandoning the suburbs for the central city."

POINTING OUT that NIPCC has taken no official position on the CMATS legislation, Morris praised the proposal's unifying concept, but criticized contention that without it the suburbs would have no chance for improved transportation facilities.

A five-agency board, the Regional Transportation Planning Board, has been created to formulate an active mass transit plan for the area, he said. In addition, NIPCC has been actively studying the problem, he said.

However, Jack Pahl, representing the CATS proposal, argued that some agency is needed to represent the interests of suburbia.

"The suburban people have to get together to have their interests represented," the former Elk Grove Village president said. "There's no way they're being represented now."

Pahl, who also is a NIPCC commissioner, noted that the CATS proposal is an alternative plan to CMATS. Sponsored by the Cook County Council of Governments, the proposal would provide for political accountability in transit areas, he said.

Series On Marriage Planned

A series of six discussions, titled "Learning to Be Loving in Marriage," will be presented at the Congregational United Church of Christ, 1001 W. Kirchhoff Rd., Arlington Heights, beginning Sunday at 7:15 p.m.

The theme of Sunday's discussion will be "Personal Crises and Threatening Life Changes." The group leader will be the Rev. William Hunt, an ordained minister and clinical psychologist in private practice in Northbrook.

Included in crises to be discussed are job changes, birth, illness and death.

All six meetings are free and open to the public.

Discussions for the next five weeks will be "The Decision Making Process," on Feb. 27, "Male and Female Role Confusion" on March 5, "Communication Breakdowns" on March 12, "Personality Differences" on March 19, and "Those Other Conflicts" on March 26.

Other group leaders will include Grace Jessup, a family therapist and staff member at North Park Clinic, Park Ridge, and the Rev. Earl Laman, an ordained minister and family counselor at the La Salle Street Church, Chicago.

New Health Director An Army Vet

He enrolled in a correspondence course with the International City Managers Association and became directly involved with the planning of what grew to be mini villages around ABM bases in North Dakota and Montana.

"There is a similarity between what I was doing in the military, particularly from the standpoint of recommending and then implementing policy, and what I'm doing now in village administration," the 52-year-old Charlton said.

Charlton replaces Darryl Kenning as director of health services and administrative assistant to the village manager. Kenning was recently promoted to the post of assistant village manager, succeeding John Coste who left Arlington Heights this month to work with Schaumburg Mayor Robert Atcher.

CHARLTON SAID that while working at Fort Monroe he began making applications to municipalities throughout the country and, though he did not actually apply to Arlington Heights, he did write Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson for advice, and that led to his hiring.

Born in Eunice, La., which he calls "Cajun country," Charlton was graduated from Louisiana State University in 1940. Six months after graduation he enlisted in the Army.

"My most interesting assignment in the Army was the two years I spent in Korea as secretary of the Korean military armistice committee," Charlton said.

Stationed at Panmunjom, Korea, on the 38th parallel, with his family Charlton worked two years, from 1965-67, in the divided country.

"I went through 80, four-hour sessions of negotiating before I left," Charlton said.

Now, back in Arlington Heights, the former Army colonel faces a whole new set of challenges. But Charlton couldn't be more enthusiastic.

"I'm delighted to be here and feel very fortunate to be starting a new career in a community like Arlington Heights," he said.

The job may be new but the concept of efficient public administration is not. As Charlton likes to put it, "I've been in public service for 31 years."

Voters Can Register At Train Station

The Wheeling Township Independent Democratic Coalition will conduct a voter registration drive from 6:30 to 8:30 this morning at the train station in downtown Arlington Heights.

Coalition workers will pass out leaflets and have a registration trailer at the depot.

The independent Democrats report a growing membership, particularly in north Arlington Heights, and say the drive is being sponsored by recruit voters for the March 21 primary.

Optimists Sponsor Speaking Contest

A speaking contest to which all area high schools have been invited will be held tonight at the Arlington Heights Optimist Club meeting at 7 p.m. at the Arlington Inn, 948 E. Northwest Hwy.

The winner of the local contest will go on to the Optimist Club's zone speaking contest, which includes most of Chicago and its suburbs.

High schools which will be involved include Rolling Meadows, Arlington, Hersey, Wheeling, Forest View and St. Victor.

Caucus Backs 3 For School Board

After 14 ballots, the School Dist. 21 General Caucus decided to support two incumbents and one newcomer for the April 8 school board election.

Incumbents Lillian Stiller, of Wheeling, and Mary Joann Reid, of Buffalo Grove, were elected on the first two ballots; the selection of Ben Herman of Mount Prospect took 12 ballots to decide.

Herman, a program manager with Motorola, was involved in a battle with Raymond Niro, Niro, also a newcomer, is an Arlington resident and a patent attorney.

Incumbent Jack Lane, of Arlington Heights, and a third newcomer, Frank Sacco, of Wheeling, were never really in the race. However, it was finally a staunch Lane supporter who cast the deciding vote to Herman.

THERE WERE 27 delegates at the meeting and a majority of 14 votes were needed to be nominated.

Mrs. Stiller received 15 votes on the first ballot and Mrs. Reid received 20 votes on the second ballot. Then the battle began.

The third ballot gave both Herman and Niro nine votes, Lane, six and Sacco three. The fourth showed 10 each for Herman and Niro, five for Lane and two for Sacco.

Starting with the fifth ballot it became a two-man race. Herman and Niro were tied four times and the lead changed hands five other times. Herman finally won the battle with a vote of 14 to 13.

Lane said he will now seek the school board position without caucus support. Niro said "some of the people who supported me at the caucus meeting called me and urged me to run independently. I will make a decision in a few days."

Sacco said he will "have to consider all factors" before making a decision.

ALL SIX CANDIDATES were interviewed by the general caucus in 15-minute sessions. Mrs. Stiller, Mrs. Reid and Niro made opening statements, while the other candidates immediately opened themselves to questions from the caucus.

The candidates appeared before the caucus in the following order: Sacco, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Stiller, Herman, Lane and Niro. The order was determined by pulling names out of a hat.

The candidates were questioned about current national problems: busing, drug and sex education, taxes, curriculum, labor unions and whether state or local government should have control of the school district.

The caucus members also took into consideration the candidates background in civic affairs.

THEY WERE CONCERNED with the experience of each nominee in a decision-making role. They also asked the candidates what they thought the major role of education is in today's schools.

Following the question-and-answer period the caucus explained the voting procedure. Each caucus delegate was given a ballot and to vote for "one person and one person only."

The nominating committee said the candidates will have the choice to decide who would like to run for a three-year term and who would like to run for the two-year opening.

They said, "If the candidates are unable to decide who will fill the slots we automatically place the first two candidates for three years and the third for two years."

The candidates could not decide and the caucus informed Herman he was to seek the two-year opening.

The caucus will start circulating the candidates petitions for signatures immediately and will file the petitions Feb. 23.

John Stull To Run For Reelection

"A school referendum may not be needed this year if we budget our money carefully," John Stull, 209 Viola Ln., Prospect Heights, said in announcing his candidacy for reelection to the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 School Board.

Stull, 28, who has served one three-year term, is the youngest board member. He is vice president of Barton Stull Realty Inc.

"Working in the community which encompasses the school district has given me an idea of what the community wants from a school board," he said. "I want to serve on the board to see that the residents wishes are followed."

Stull said he lives in Prospect Heights south of Palatine Road and would like to see the area continue to be represented on the board.

Stull said he also would like to see the relationship between the school board and other municipalities in the area improved.

"We sometimes have a lack of communication between the school board and other groups which brings problems," he said. "We need to serve the interest of the entire district in harmony with the community."

Currently, incumbents Stull, Robert LeForge, and Alan Krinsky, are the only announced candidates for the three positions on the school board.

Travel Films To Mexico To Be Shown

Travel films of Mexico City and Acapulco will be presented Sunday at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library as one of the continuing Sunday programs sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

The films will be narrated by Louis Scharif, an Arlington Heights resident, and will begin at 3 p.m.

Future Sunday programs include a songfest by the Harmonettes, a chorus group from Arlington High School.

Friends of the Library has also been active in providing funds for miscellaneous items needed by the library including records and a painting to be completed by Fran Boek this spring. Funds are collected on a subscription basis.

For the past three years friends has sponsored a coffee hour for mothers of young children at the library on Wednesday mornings.

Open House For New School

Dedication and open house ceremonies for Rolling Meadows High School will be held Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m.

Robert Hoes, principal, said only a short program was planned with no special speakers from outside the district because the dedication has been so long in coming. The school choir and band will perform.

Instead of a long program, the administrators have set aside time for parents and visitors to tour the school.

Except for minor electrical work remaining to be done the school is completed.

Although no guided tour is planned, students and faculty members will assist parents as they roam through the building.

Presbyterian Speaker To Be At Church

The representative for women's programs for the United Presbyterian Church in this area will be the guest speaker Sunday at Southminster Presbyterian Church, Central Road at Dryden Street, Arlington Heights.

Barbara Roche will speak at both the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services. The services are in observance of Ecumenical Mission and Relations Sunday.

Church To Note 25th Year

A thanksgiving service Sunday will be the first activity of a three-week, 25th anniversary celebration by members of Faith Lutheran Church, 431 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Speaker will be the Rev. Edgar H. Behrens, pastor emeritus, who served the congregation from its inception until his retirement in 1969.

The service will begin at 3 p.m. and will be followed by a dinner at 5:30 p.m. in the Prospect High School gym. Rev. George A. Schrader of Freeport will be toastmaster.

The second week of anniversary activities will include the Concordia Lutheran College Choir of Ann Arbor as the featured guests Feb. 27. The Ann Arbor choir will sing at 9:15 and 10:45 a.m. services.

At 7:30 p.m. on Feb. 27, Dr. Martin E. Marty will be the guest speaker at an Ecumenical forum.

March 5 will mark the 25th anniversary observance by the Sunday school classes.

Faith Church was organized in 1947 and now has 2,300 members. An Educational building was built on to the church in 1960 and the sanctuary was enlarged in 1966.

Retroactive Raises For Teachers

Teachers in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 will receive paychecks March 3 containing pay raises on their current contract retroactive to the beginning of the school year.

Portions of the raises negotiated in this year's agreement have been held up because of the President's wage-price freeze and a delay in issuing guidelines for Phase II.

Albeon Waltman, assistant superintendent for personnel in the district, said he received confirmation recently that the district's 530 teachers are entitled to full pay under the contract from the beginning of the school year.

He said the Internal Revenue Service sent written guidelines confirming that the district could pay teachers retroactively because the contract was settled in June, two months before the freeze.

"We're just happy that somebody put something in writing so we can pay our teachers what we knew we owed them all along," Waltman said.

THE RETROACTIVE pay will appear in one lump sum on the March 3 paycheck, Waltman said, and will mean between $50 and $100 extra on the paycheck. "That will catch us up on what we owe them," he said, "and the rest of the raises will be spread out over the rest of the year."

The current contract raised the teachers' pay scale by 3 per cent, meaning an average total raise of 7 per cent for most teachers. A number of teachers received 4 per cent raises for additional education as early as October and other teachers, who worked in summer school, had already received the full 7 per cent raise.

The district had applied for guidance on retroactive pay in November and had been waiting for written guidelines since then. "All of a sudden we got the information from IRS," Waltman said "We immediately started to get ready to go ahead."

High School Dist. 21, the only other district in the Northwest suburbs to approve a contract before the freeze, approved retroactive pay several weeks ago.

Other districts, which settled after the freeze, have taken action to pay parts of the raises called for, particularly those for additional experience and education.

Student-Faculty Basketball Set

Rolling Meadows High School will have its first student-faculty basketball game on March 3.

A preliminary game between the Hersey Boosters and Rolling Meadows Boosters will start at 7 p.m. This game will be followed by members of the Lettermen's Club at Rolling Meadows playing faculty members.

Admission to the game, which is being sponsored by the Lettermen's Club is 50 cents for children under 12, 75 cents for students and $1 for adults.

Oakton Will Fight State For Cemetery Site

by VICKI HAMENDE

Oakton Community College trustees will challenge the legality of a state decision withdrawing approval of the college's choice for a permanent campus site.

At their meeting Tuesday night, the trustees postponed a scheduled March 4 referendum to raise campus funds and moved to notify the Illinois Junior College Board that Oakton will contest the board's decision turning down a campus site in Niles.

Also, in an apparent dispute over the college's course of action, Oakton Board Pres. Milton Falkoff and Trustee Griffith MacDonald, resigned after a three-hour closed session Tuesday night.

The state board voted unanimously last Friday to withdraw its earlier approval of a 100-acre site adjacent to Maryhill Cemetery in Niles for Oakton's campus, citing growing community opposition to its use by the college.

FALKOFF SAID the action of the state board at its meeting Friday "is illegal and constitutes an attempt to deprive the local community of control of its school system."

The board president said the state board's action "raises a new issue before the community" of "whether a duly elected board of this district will set policy or whether such policies will be set by a state board appointed by the governor."

State officials were unavailable for comment yesterday about Oakton's decision to question the legality of their action last week.

However, Rey Brune, chairman of the state board, Wednesday told the Herald he is "very sorry" that the Oakton board postponed the referendum.

Brune, who voted against giving approval to the Maryhill site in November, added, "The site shouldn't be the cause of a postponement. I think they need their college."

According to the Illinois Junior College Act, Falkoff said, the state board is authorized to set standards for the operation of junior colleges in Illinois.

"At the November meeting of the Illinois Junior College Board, that board approved our chosen site and highly commended this board for its thorough preparation of data... which indicated that this board had met all of the standards set," Falkoff said.

The state board's next meeting in December, "was the only occasion in which a motion to reconsider" the Maryhill site was in order, he said. "No such motion was made at that meeting of the board," he added.

BEFORE FRIDAY'S meeting of the state board in Southern Illinois, Falkoff said, "no notice was given to this board that the site was going to be reconsidered."

The Oakton board president said he talked to Brune by telephone Feb. 9, two days before the state board meeting.

"He gave me no indication that the site was going to be reconsidered," Falkoff said.

"As of tonight, I have not yet received official word from the state board of its action," Falkoff said, adding that "the whole issue is a deprivation of our rights to due process."

Falkoff said the trustees still feel that the Maryhill site "is the best and most useful site for the community," based upon "our competent and detailed review of 23 possible sites."

The trustees voted unanimously to postpone a $9,075,000 bond issue referendum to raise about one third of the funds needed for a permanent campus. They said it will be rescheduled in the near future.

Oakton Atty. Joseph Murphy, who said he does not yet know the effect Oakton's legal challenge will have on condemnation proceedings currently being conducted against the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese to purchase the Maryhill site, said the challenge "could end up in

After State Battle Decision:

Oakton Board Members Quit

Oakton Community College Board Pres. Milton Falkoff and Trustee Griffith MacDonald resigned from the board of trustees Tuesday, both refusing to give specific reasons.

Their resignations, effective April 8, came after a three-hour closed meeting in which the Oakton trustees decided to fight the state junior college board to obtain the site it wants for a permanent campus and to postpone a scheduled referendum to obtain campus funds.

Falkoff, who has been president of the board since last April and whose term as trustee is not due to expire until April, 1973, said at Tuesday's meeting he "has no other alternative" but to vacate his seat.

The board president, a resident of Lincolnwood, said he will issue a statement "within a week" explaining why he has resigned and announcing whether he will file a petition to become a candidate for his own seat.

MacDonald, one year into his second three-year term as trustee, said he "feels compelled to resign at this time." The Park Ridge resident did not say whether he will seek reelection.

A former vice president of the board, MacDonald was chairman of the board's site committee for the bulk of a two-year period in which 23 sites in the district were considered for Oakton's permanent campus. His term as trustee is not due to expire until April, 1974.

Oakton Pres. William Koehnline said after the meeting that Falkoff and MacDonald, who have been criticized along with other board members for attempting to condemn vacant cemetery land for a campus, are looking for "a vote of confidence."

CRITICISM HAS come from the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese, which owns the Maryhill site, and from area Catholic residents of Polish heritage who favor Maryhill as a burial ground.

Koehnline said the trustees have proceeded on the premise that the majority of the district's residents would be in favor of the Maryhill site because of its central location and easy accessibility.

"Perhaps they just want to find out if a majority of the residents do support them," Koehnline added.

With the addition of the two resignations, a total of four of the seven seats on the Oakton board will be vacated for the April 8 election. The terms of trustees Meyer Kamin and LeRoy Wauk are due to expire.

Kamin, current vice president of the board, said he intends to seek reelection "based on the record of this board." The trustee added, "We have all had one common purpose, to build this college as

Council To Eye New Zoning Powers

The Des Plaines City Council Monday will consider a zoning board of appeals recommendation to give the council new powers in granting exceptions to zoning ordinance regulations.

The board had voted unanimously last week to support a recent council proposal for the powers. The council's municipal development committee is expected to study the board report and recommend council action in March on the proposed zoning amendment.

In statements to the Herald, Albert Gundelach, board secretary, said the amendment would reinstate powers to the city which were given to the county courts in 1960 when the city zoning ordinance was reformed to prevent "favoritism" and abuse of zoning powers.

The reformers went "too far" and created an unfair, unduly restrictive ordinance, Gundelach said. The proposed amendment would remedy this fault, he said.

He also said that although the 1960 ordinance forbids the board and council from going beyond certain limits and prescribed areas in granting zoning variations—limits that would be removed by the proposed amendment—the board has been granting variances in the forbidden areas anyway.

ACCORDING TO the present ordinance wording, the board can only hold hearings and grant variations in nine zoning areas; size of yards, lot sizes, off-street parking, construction of municipal parking lots in residential districts, permits for industrial or commercial uses in non-industrial or noncommercial areas, and permits to allow nonconforming uses and residential uses of property in shopping districts or commercial districts.

Within these nine areas, the ordinance sets limits on how great a variance from the zoning regulations may be allowed. For instance, the regulations require a 55 by 100 foot lot for a single-family home, but the board may allow a 10 per cent leeway, or a 49½ foot lot.

The applicant for a variation must also show evidence of a financial hardship, unusual or unique circumstances, and proof the variation will not harm surrounding property, or change the "essential" personality of the community, according to the ordinance.

If the applicant wanted a variation on a 49 foot lot, instead of a 49½ foot lot, or if he wanted a variation to construct a larger building than the regulations allowed, he could not get a hearing, as the ordinance is written, and he would have to seek action from the courts.

Under the amendment, proposed by Ald. Arthur Erblich (5th), the board would be authorized to hear all variation requests. After presenting the council with its recommendation, if the zoning variation request were beyond the

The Nation

Some 15,000 West Coast longshoremen began balloting in 24 ports in a vote that could end the longest dock strike in U.S. history by Sunday.

President Nixon leaves Washington for a 12-day trip to China to open "a new chapter" in relations with the world's most populous country.

Sen. George McGovern suggested the sensible way to handle the marijuana problem might be to legalize its use and impose regulations similar to those used to control the sale of alcoholic beverages.

Edith Irving surrendered in federal court to a Swiss fugitive warrant for her arrest on criminal charges in connection with her husband's "autobiography" of

Howard Hughes. She was released on $250,000 bond.

A U.S. District Court judge signed a temporary order putting into effect the agreement reached by Democrats and Republicans to protect government employees from doing forced political work. It stipulates that state, county and local government employees in 18 northern Illinois counties cannot be fired or harassed for failure to do political work or to make political contributions.

The State

The three Chicago businessmen who were found shot to death last Friday in Indiana received a letter promising a profitable financial deal if they attended a meeting in Gary, police said. One of the victims received the letter asking all three men be present at a restaurant in Gary on the night of the slayings.

Elementary and secondary education will get the largest fund increase in Gov. Richard Ogilvie's fiscal 1973 budget. Ogilvie said he will recommend an allocation of $1.083 billion for elementary and secondary education, 15 per cent more than he recommended last year.

The World

A three-man junta put Ecuador under virtual military control after a bloodless coup in which the armed forces overthrew President Jose Velasco Ibarra for the fourth time since 1963 and sent him into exile in Panama.

China now ranks as "perhaps the third most important nuclear power in the world" and the United States must be prepared to fight simultaneous atomic wars with both China and the Soviet Union, said Adm. Thomas Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Golden Agers

by JUNE LANDMEIR

At 7 p.m. Fridays there will be something happening at a local park for Golden Agers of the Des Plaines Park District. There will be happenings on Tuesdays, too, plus the many day-trips that have been scheduled.

Membership in the Golden Agers consists of men and women over 60 years of age who are residents of the park district. New members can sign up at any of the meetings or at the park district office, 748 Pearson St.

The last activity for the month of February will be open to those who have celebrated their 50th wedding anniversaries. On Feb. 29, these couples will meet at Heuer's Restaurant, 5591 River Rd., Rosemont, at 11:30 a.m. Anyone wishing to join the caravan should meet at the main office, 748 Pearson, at 11:10 a.m.

Also at 1 p.m. on the 29th, all Golden Agers are invited to come to South Park, 1650 Howard St., where Mrs. and Mrs. Charles Weiler will teach ball-room and square dancing. They have taught dancing to older adults for many years in Arizona and Illinois. Come and enjoy the afternoon with your peers.

March will be filled with a great variety of activities, so post this notice and you won't miss any dates.

Sex Is Topic For Lecture

"Modern Sex Research and Therapy" will be the topic of a special presentation at Forest Hospital Friday night by two California counselors.

William Hartman, director of the Center for Marital and Sexual Studies in Long Beach and Mrs. Marilyn Fithian, the center's associate director, will present a lecture for professionals on the sex research conducted at their Center.

Hartman is a licensed psychologist, marriage, family and child counselor. He is on the faculty of California State College at Long Beach. Mrs. Fithian is also on the faculty of California State College and she is a licensed marriage, family and child counselor.

The lecture will be held in the Forest Hospital Professional Center, 555 Wilson Lane, from 7:30 to 10 p.m. There will be a charge of $10. Further information may be obtained by calling 827-9811.

Top Jazz Combo

Maine East High School students Randy Waldman of Niles, Bill Edwards of Park Ridge, and Jim Fujimoto of Niles were voted the number one jazz combo in the state for the second year in a row.

They competed at the 12th annual Oak Lawn Jazz Festival Feb. 5.

New Zoning Powers Eyed

board's authority to act, the zoning board would give its recommendation to the council, and the aldermen would have the final decision.

A.L.D. ERBACH has said the amendment would aid residents who must now go through lengthy and expensive lawsuits, when they cannot get a hearing. Both Erbach and Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrer told the Herald they do not know how often residents have been forced to seek court action.

Building Commissioner Alfred Prickett has said the courts "very seldom" grant variations. Prickett does not feel the city council will be any more lenient than the courts, or that the ordinance would be undermined.

Gundelach, who has served on the zoning board since 1963, said reform-minded aldermen in 1960 copied zoning ordinances from Skokie and Chicago to limit the zoning board's variation powers.

The city zoning board had the power, under the ordinance of 1923, to grant variations on whatever it desired, he said.

The aldermen in 1960 were reacting to reports that in "some isolated communities" zoning board members had gone "hog wild with cynicism and favors to big shot property owners and friends."

Prickett, who was an alderman in 1960, said "around 1956 the building rate in the city began to accelerate so fast everyone became cognizant of it, and aware that one person can't be treated one way and another another way, according to whims" of the zoning board.

The 1960 ordinance was found to be unfair and too restrictive, Gundelach said. "Instead of amending the ordinance, it was simpler to let (the variation requests beyond board authority) slip by," he said.

Sixth Avenue Home Is Hit By Burglars

Burglars reportedly broke into a Des Plaines home Tuesday and stole goods valued at $666 and $21 in cash.

Clarence Deckwerty, 1105 sixth Ave., told police he went shopping for about an hour in the morning. When he returned, a window on the back door had been broken and entry had been made by opening the lock from the inside.

A color television, a stereo record player, and a clock radio for a total value of $666 were stolen, according to police reports.

Deckwerty told police that $21, mostly in change, had been taken from the home.

"NO ONE WAS hurt" in occasionally granting variations under special circumstances in which real human problems could be solved without court action, he indicated.

Predecessors to Prickett, who began work last year, allowed applications for variations beyond the legal authority of the board, hearings were advertised in newspapers, and neighbors were given adequate time at public hearings to voice their objections, Gundelach said.

In a few minutes the world wakes up

Your world begins each day at a certain time. If you're like most Northwest Suburban people, your day begins in a comfortable bedroom, in a warm home. Most of what you cherish is in that home. People you love, the intangibles that bind you to them, the security you've provided for them.

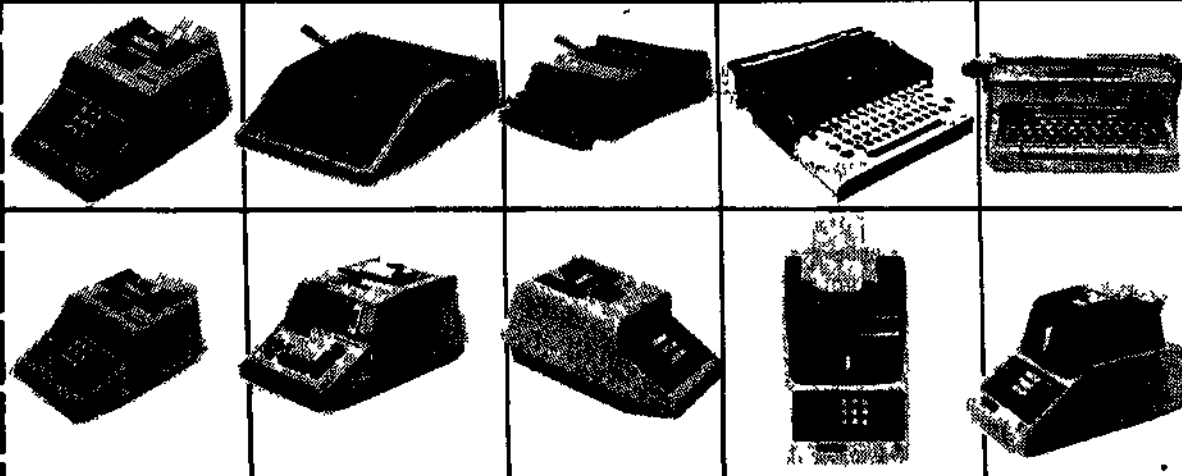

These are the things that make home ownership so important to most people. They're the same things that make our job so rewarding. For at First Federal Savings of Des Plaines, we've always considered home loans as more than mere financing of four walls and a roof. We've always tried to make home loans with the knowledge of the very personal and private satisfaction they can bring to people. And that is why our Home Loan with a Heart is more than a slogan. It's an important part of the lives of thousands of people in this area. And, we aim to keep it important for thousands more.

Dorothy Oliver

I've always been surprised when I've been able to speak to someone "important" without having to go through assistant secretaries to assistant secretaries first. I've been equally impressed when I write to some "bigwig" and get a personal answer. The last few years have brought some surprising and impressive moments.

I've always been a letter writer. When I'm displeased or have a question I let someone know about it through the mails. In the last week I sent off four letters — two to our state senators, one to a television commentator and another to a staff member of the "National Observer." From past experience I won't be surprised if I hear from all of them.

Elected officials, especially during election years when they are the guys fighting for their jobs, are most considerate about answering letters. The only one I never got an answer from was the late Senator Dirksen who I wrote to frequently.

SENATORS PERCY and Stevenson have always answered my letters — and never with a standard form that begins, "Dear Citizen. . . ." I wrote to Congressman Collier several months ago about a day care bill he would be voting on and received not only a very nice reply but a copy of the bill and up to date information on what has happened to it.

We've had a stream of politicians walking through our door in the last few weeks. The primary elections are coming up and they are here for political interviews. The bigger the office they are running for the friendlier the politicians seem to get. They do a lot of smiling and handshaking and with some it comes to the point that I think if you gave them a kick in the shins they'd excuse themselves for being in the way.

During my letter-writing career I've also sent my opinions and questions to the United States Postmaster General, the Secretary of Defense, and the head of the Woman's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor. The first two sent back "nice of you to write but don't bother to do it again" form letters. The Woman's Bureau head sent back a handwritten note, the most current newsletter the bureau published and immediately put me on their mailing list (Note that these are appointed rather than elected officials.)

ONCE I WROTE a letter to a celebrity known as Kreskin. I saw him at a performance, did a story on him and sent him a note and a couple of tear sheets. The result was a handwritten thank-you note, a phone call about six months later and a second interview — this time just him and me. He just couldn't have been nicer.

My phone-calling has been more limited than my letterwriting. Three years ago I called Len O'Connor and I thought he was rude if he doesn't like people calling him — which he obviously didn't — he should get a secretary to screen his calls.

On the other hand last week I called Mike Royko, who I feel is just as important as Len O'Connor. When you read Royko you picture him as a rough, gruff, cynic. Actually he's pretty nice on the telephone. His voice is a bit low and gravelly but he listened me out, thanked me for calling and said he'd look into what I'd called about.

I've come to the conclusion that the vast majority of "important" people are as near as your phone or mailbox. As long as I enjoy receiving mail (regardless of whether it's happy or angry) I suppose they do too. Anyway, it's a good outlet for frustration.

Local Youths In Festival

Several Des Plaines youths from Algonquin, Chippewa and Iroquois junior high schools will represent the city in Saturday's Northwest Grade School Orchestra Festival in Libertyville.

Playing violins in the combined junior-high orchestra from Des Plaines will be Robin Downing, Sylvia Gowan, Neil Wywialowski, Jeanne Zemaitis, Michael Boeh, Tom Schwingbeck, Irene Polacek, Cynthia Henkle, Nancy Schiller, Susan Melchert, Elizabeth Forkins, Susan Phillips, Janet Henrikson and Edward Hajo.

Playing violas will be Jeff Johnson, Diana Jacuski and Mike Hensen. Karen Yockey and Jan Pascolini will play cellos. Linda Wein and Eric Hegeland will be playing string bass and Barbara Loris will play the flute.

Playing the clarinet will be Janet Teevans and Christa Doerner. Mark Davis will play the trumpet.

Playing French horns will be Cynthia Stencieu and Barbara Brieder. Playing trombones will be Bill Kopp and Louise Siebeu. Arvid Cussler and Jim Chrissos will play percussion instruments.

The Des Plaines orchestra will play Brahms' "Theme and Finale," Holst's "Mars, the Bringer of War" and Matesky's "Weish March." Conducting the group will be Algonquin teacher Grace Peacock, Chippewa teacher Harold Ray and Iroquois teacher John O'Donnell.

Also participating in the festival will be orchestras from Dundee, Deerfield, Lakewood, Glenview and Libertyville.

A team of judges will select musicians from each city's orchestra to perform together as a festival orchestra at a later date.

Marvin Rabin, a music education teacher at the University of Wisconsin, will be a guest conductor Saturday.

His $500 Investment In Human Nature

by JACK PENCHOFF

When you mail out $500 in cash to people you don't even know, someone's bound to start wondering what you're up to. That's exactly what Raymond Slivka wants people to do.

In recent weeks, Slivka has mailed letters with crisp $1 bills attached to 500 Des Plaines businessmen, asking them to send the dollar, and whatever they'd like to contribute, to the Des Plaines Military Commemorative Committee.

Slivka is heading up the latest in a series of fund raising efforts by the committee, which has tried for several years to get enough money to construct a memorial at Lake Park to local men who have died while in military service.

"We've got about 200 responses but most of them were not interested in contributing money. It's a bad time to ask for money to build a war memorial," Slivka says.

"We did get three $500 contributions, however, and another one for $100," Slivka adds.

Slivka, president of Oakton International, Inc., 1694 Oakton St. donated the $500 for the letters himself.

WITH THE DOLLAR attached, a person is more likely to read what is in the letter before putting it aside. That's all I want them to do. Whether they contribute or not is up to them," Slivka says.

"We're not building a memorial to war but something to remember the service people who have given their lives in all wars. Let's at least remember them for that," he says.

In the letter Slivka describes the dollar bills as "an investment in human nature" in the belief that businessmen in Des Plaines who are "interested in the City of Des Plaines and in patriotism, will support the Military Commemorative Committee of Des Plaines with cold, hard cash."

Slivka said he got the idea of attaching money to the letter from a fellow member of the National Automobile Dealer's Association, who used the same technique to raise money for a library at Northwood Institute.

He says the letter won't raise the $35,000 the Military Commemorative Committee is seeking but adds that various civic groups are helping by holding bingo games and raffles.

The memorial would be constructed in the park near Lake Opeka, at Howard and Lee streets and would consist of a 42-foot deep stage, with steel and wooden beams supporting the handshaking ceiling. Plaques on the masonry walls would list the Des Plaines war dead.

"ACOUSTICS WILL be good for hand concerts which could be held there during the summer," Slivka says. Construction plans for the memorial should be ready early this spring with construction to begin once the money is raised.

Plans to build a war memorial have been the center of controversy since the committee was created in December, 1967, at the suggestion of Mayor Herbert Behrel.

The group, backed by local veterans organizations, originally planned a $60,000 memorial but lack of community support netted the group only $6,717 in contributions. About half of that was used for architectural fees.

Charge Youth With Burglary

A 19-year-old Chicagoan was charged with burglary and possession of drugs early Tuesday morning after he was allegedly discovered burglarizing an office at Forest Hospital, 555 Wilson Ln., Des Plaines.

Ronald Repta, 5300 N. Normandy, was reportedly discovered about 5:30 a.m. in a hospital office by a Forest employee. Repta then reportedly ran from the office and was discovered a few minutes later in an elevator by another employee.

According to police, two prescription booklets, two carbon copies of a doctor's prescription for methadone, 14 drug capsules and other items belonging to members of the hospital staff were found in Repta's pockets.

Repta, who allegedly was intoxicated with drugs at the time of his arrest, was taken to Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge for examination and kept there for treatment, police said.

Repta's bond will be set and a court date determined when he is released from Lutheran General, police said.

Orchestra To Play

The Maine East High School concert orchestra strings, under the direction of Carl Schultz, will provide dinner music for the Illinois Association of School Boards dinner, Feb. 23, at 6 p.m. in the Maine East cafeteria.

More than 300 persons are expected to attend this meeting with Richard Short, District 207 superintendent of schools, presiding.

2 Oakton Board Members Resign After Meeting

fast as possible."

Wauk, who last month said "no comment" when asked if he would seek reelection, Tuesday said "probably."

In announcing his resignation, Falkoff said he wanted his seat to be available to interested candidates "in accord with the April 3 election." Candidates may begin filing petitions at the college in Morton Grove Feb. 23.

TRUSTEE RAYMOND Harstein, who was board president for two years before being defeated for the job by Falkoff last April, criticized Falkoff and MacDonald for resigning at a time when the voters "may connect the issue of the resignations with the issue of a permanent campus site."

A 106-acre portion of Maryhill Cemetery in Niles, which the trustees selected as a permanent campus site, was vetoed for use Friday by the Illinois Junior College Board, which had earlier approved the site.

Before announcing his resignation, Falkoff announced the Oakton board's decision to challenge the legality of the state board's action and to postpone a March 4 referendum to raise the local share of campus costs.

Scholastic Art Award Winners Are Announced

Student winners of 1972 scholastic art awards from the Evanston regional competition were recently announced by Maine East High School art department chairman Stanley Whitley.

The competition, conducted by "Scholastic Magazine," was in two categories — group one, freshmen, and group two, sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Each category has 16 divisions, some of which include pencil drawing, oil painting, ceramics, sculpture, and printmaking.

Out of a total of 750 awards, Maine East students won 267. There was one hallmark, 13 blue ribbons, 81 gold keys, and 172 place awards.

In last year's competition Maine East won 10 blue ribbons, 54 gold keys, and 151 place awards.

RECEIVING THE hallmark award at Maine East is Robert Roth of Des Plaines. His entry will now go on to national competition in New York.

Blue ribbon award winners are Tony Garippo of Morton Grove, Gary Gray of Park Ridge, Kathy Harker of Park Ridge, Cindy Marrazzo of Morton Grove, Brian Olson of Des Plaines with two entries, Robert Roth of Des Plaines with two entries, Sue Selan of Park Ridge, Jean Sherbula of Park Ridge, Bonnie Welter of Niles, and Diane Westberg of Niles with two entries. These winning entries will also go on to national competition.

Winners of gold key awards from Des Plaines include Wanaphorn Benjawan with five entries, Steven Bishop, Peter Boe, Jodi Burton, Sumalee Chaiyadej, Glenda Check, Mary Foster with two entries, Iris Rothstein with two entries, Bill Shaver, Vicki Vanderbeck, Janet Guzman, Roddy Larson, Brian Olson with three entries, Robert Roth with two entries, and Cathy Zapel.

the courts."

According to parliamentary procedure, Murphy said, a board can reconsider a decision made at a meeting only at the meeting immediately following. The state board's reconsideration of the Maryhill site approval, he added, came three meetings later.

The Oakton attorney said this issue, plus the fact that Oakton had followed the standards set by the state board throughout its site proceedings, will be the basis of Oakton's legal challenge.

OAKTON COLLEGE Pres. William Koehnline, said he will notify Fred Wellman, executive secretary of the state board, that the Oakton trustees are going to fight for the Maryhill site. He said he hopes there will be a meeting of the two boards before the state board's next monthly meeting March 10.

The Oakton president said committees organized to promote the referendum will continue to meet with the public relations consultant hired by the college to assist in referendum planning.

"My crystal ball wasn't working tonight," Koehnline said, referring to his prediction earlier this week that the board would vote to go ahead with the referendum.

Al Serota, Skokie Elementary School Dist. 68's PTA representative to the Oakton board, told board members Tuesday that "many key citizen supporters" of the college living in Niles Township were in favor of a referendum postponement "until such time as a new site can be presented to the public."

The many Catholic residents of Polish heritage present at the meeting, who have opposed Oakton's plans to condemn the Maryhill site for religious reasons, made no statement to the board Tuesday. However, Catherine Zaremski, a resident of Park Ridge, said groups are still being organized to oppose the referendum if the campus is to be built on the Maryhill site.

530 Teachers To Get Back Pay Hikes

Teachers in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 will receive paychecks March 3 containing pay raises on their current contract retroactive to the beginning of the school year.

Portions of the raises negotiated in this year's agreement have been held up because of the President's wage-price freeze and a delay in issuing guidelines for Phase II.

Albeon Waltman, assistant superintendent for personnel in the district, said he received confirmation recently that the district's 530 teachers are entitled to full pay under the contract from the beginning of the school year.

He said the Internal Revenue Service sent written guidelines confirming that the district could pay teachers retroactively because the contract was settled in June, two months before the freeze.

"We're just happy that somebody put something in writing so we can pay our teachers what we knew we owed them all along," Waltman said.

THE RETROACTIVE pay will appear in one lump sum on the March 3 paycheck, Waltman said, and will mean between $50 and $100 extra on the paycheck "That will catch us up on what we owe them," he said, "and the rest of the raises will be spread out over the rest of the year."

The current contract raised the teachers' pay scale by 3 per cent, meaning an average total raise of 7 per cent for most teachers. A number of teachers received 4 per cent raises for additional education as early as October and other teachers, who worked in summer school, had already received the full 7 per cent raise.

The district had applied for guidance on retroactive pay in November and had been waiting for written guidelines since then. "All of a sudden we got the information from IRS," Waltman said. "We immediately started to get ready to go ahead."

High School Dist. 21, the only other district in the Northwest suburbs to approve a contract before the freeze, approved retroactive pay several weeks ago.

Other districts, which settled after the freeze, have taken action to pay parts of the raises called for, particularly those for additional experience and education.

That's what makes Sam run.

One man can't stop the spending and waste that is frustrating taxpayers. But the right man will try.

One man can't stop the squeeze between soaring taxation and the emaciated dollar. But the right man will try.

The right man is Sam Young. Because Sam has always been a man of political action, and has stood for fiscal responsibility in government.

The Chicago Tribune and the Chicago Daily News have noted Sam's "brilliant record" as securities commissioner of Illinois and assistant secretary of state.

When he resigned the latter post to resume his law practice, Secretary of State, Charles F. Carpenter, praised him as having been outstanding among men he has known in state and local government. He credited Sam Young with drafting the new securities, motor vehicle and state records laws. And with an administrative reorganization of the secretary of state's office.

Sam Young has worked hard for you in the past. And he'll work hard for you again.

What makes Sam Young run? You.

Suburban Living

Especially for the Family

THE ANTIQUE CORNER of Mrs. Bragg's living room sports many of her fun treasures. A slipper rocker that belonged to the great-grandmother, a drop-leaf walnut table and an authentic grandfather clock are reminders of yesteryears. Mrs. Bragg collects brass candlesticks which she displays attractively.

AN OLD FASHIONED secretary serves as a desk and display unit in Stacy Bragg's bedroom. The unit has been antiqued yellow to match the room's decor.

was badly tarnished, Betsy restored the natural finish with many hours of polishing.

How Suburbia Lives

Antiquer Has Fun Mixing Old And New

by FRAN HECKART

Some cherish the old and others relish the new. But Mrs. James Bragg fancies furniture from all ages.

Evann Bragg is one of those talented homemakers who can tastefully mingle her rustic relics of the past with new furnishings for a modern life style.

She has two stereo speakers cleverly concealed behind the top curtains of an antique secretary.

Wainscoting and floral wallpaper give the dining room and master bedroom a Colonial atmosphere even though the furniture is classic Early American.

A brass bed and an old wash stand complete with water pitcher and basin can be found in one daughter's bedroom. The next one sports red wicker furniture, hard rock music and an antique sock stretcher as a wall decoration.

"My antiques are fun pieces," said Evann as she picked up a little tin box from a walnut drop-leaf table. "During World War I the soldiers were issued their razors in these little boxes." Not exactly Chippendale secretary, but one of Evann's "fun pieces."

ANOTHER ONE of her finds is an old fashioned scale. With a few artificial posies on one side and brass weights on the other, it's almost a conversation piece.

Evann's eyes sparkle when she mentions her prized antique, an authentic grandfather clock.

Evann had been looking for a grandfather clock on all of her antique hunts, and when she found this one there was no time to waste dropping hints for her Christmas present.

The clock dates back to around the late 1700s or early 1800s. The dial has a moon face in the upper part and arrangements worked by the inner mechanism for telling the days of the week and month.

Regardless of how valuable the clock is, Evann feels that family antiques are more sentimental. Near the clock is a slipper rocker estimated to be about 150 years old and once owned by her great-grandmother. Completely refurbished, the chair blends comfortably with the other living room furnishings.

THE BRAGG HOME is a baby compared to some of the relics it houses. The home was built about two years ago as Evann supervised from her kitchen window since she was living next door at the time.

The home is located in one of the older sections of Arlington Heights, and once again, it's the new with the old.

All the trees were left on the lot and the "New England salt box" (as Evann terms it) nestles comfortably among the older homes on the tree-lined street.

"In a new development our home would just be another new house," Evann remarked, "but I really like the way it looks here."

With three daughters, Jane, 15, Betsy, 13, and Stacy, 10, Evann felt that four bedrooms were a must in selecting their new home. And since there will soon be three teenage girls in the home, she chose a plan that included a separate bathroom off the master bedroom.

EVANN'S HUSBAND, Jim, is in business for himself so space for his office was also a consideration as the family prepared to build.

"I also wanted a home that was as easy as possible to maintain," said Evann. "Therefore, we used carpeting everywhere we possibly could and I chose the darker wood trimmings."

Evann's request is not at all unreasonable considering she's active in Quarters, Arlington Heights Nurses Club, Friends of Clearbrook and a volunteer at Northwest Community hospital.

Family activities include winter sports and summer outings. Evann loves being outdoors so an easy maintenance home becomes a necessity.

Continuity abounds throughout the Bragg home and color schemes blend from room to room.

Evann spent hours choosing wallpapers and drapery fabrics to achieve a special inviting atmosphere. Warm colors are dominant with shades of golds, rust, oranges and patches of blue and green for accents. The warm, sometimes neutral, colors successfully create a total affect throughout the home.

THE KITCHEN and the family room are the center of the family activities according to Evann.

The dining area of the thoroughly modern kitchen resembles a friendly country one. The chairs surrounding the table are replicas of the ladder-back type found in early American homes. Warm-toned wallpaper and rich wood hues add a cozy inviting feeling to the large kitchen.

The wood-paneled family room off the kitchen emits a "please sit and relax" feeling. An authentic Tiffany lamp hangs above a refinished tavern table. The table has wooden pockets at each of the four corners which held many glasses of beer through the years.

Evann found the table on an antiquing expedition in Long Grove but has found many other pieces on expeditions to Wisconsin.

EVANN ALSO found an antique brass bed for her daughter. The bed went through a vigorous polishing session in the garage and now awaits a quilt which Evann is knotting for it.

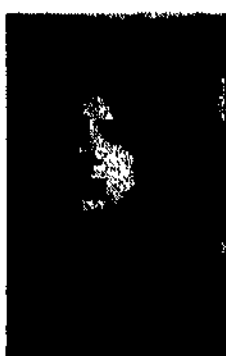

In another daughter's bedroom is an old-fashioned chest of drawers painted yellow. Fanatic antiquers would probably cringe, but Evann adds the necessary personal touch for contemporary living.

It is Evann's feeling that decorating is more of a challenge when different styles of furniture must be tastefully combined. From touring her home, there's no doubt that she has skillfully accepted and met the challenge.

Warm Weather Weddings

Julia Johnson

Rosita Martinez

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Armand Johnson of Cedar Rapids, Iowa have announced the engagement of their daughter, Julia Hansina, to Donald Arthur Sturgeon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Victor Sturgeon, 8919 Robin Drive, Des Moines.

Miss Johnson is a senior at the University of Iowa. Her fiancé graduated from the University of Iowa where he is now completing study for his master's degree.

The couple plans an August wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Martinez, Winslow, Ariz., announce the engagement of their daughter, Rosita, to Manuel Montemeyor Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Montemeyor, 135 Webford, Des Moines. The wedding will take place June 17 in Winslow.

Miss Martinez is a graduate of Winslow High School and her fiancé of Maine West High School, Des Moines. He is employed at Charles Brumby, Arlington Heights.

Present Citizenship Award To Winner Nancy Krett

Nancy L. Krett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Krett, 52 S. Meyer Court, Des Moines, and a Maine West senior, is the winner of the Soroptimist Club's citizenship award. The check and certificate will be presented to her at the club's meeting next Tuesday.

In winning this award, Nancy is qualified to compete further for the regional and final awards offered by the Soroptimist Federation of the Americas.

Judging the entries were Mrs. Thomas Evans, Con-Con delegate; Robert Dileo-nardi, city attorney; and Sgt. Ken Fred-ericks of the Des Moines Police Department, youth division.

Among those who recommended Nancy were Dolores Doehler of the YMCA; Mrs. Archie Beck, professional Girl Scout leader; and Frances Vaupal, director of orchestra at Maine West.

The award is given to a student who exemplifies the best qualities for service in home, community and world. Nancy, who has also won awards prior to this one, hopes to become a biology teacher upon her graduation from the University of Illinois at Urbana.

Homemakers Hear Astronaut

Lt. Col. Gerald B. Carr, who will command one of the three three-man teams on the upcoming Skylab and space shuttle program, was guest speaker at the recent meeting of Illinois Homemakers Extension Federation.

"The space program can stand on its own feet through the knowledge it provides about the satellite earth," said Carr in answering criticism of the space program. Current popular feelings against science and technology is a mistake that will not be forgiven by future generations, he told his audience. He called the space program "an investment in the future" that has already brought practical returns.

If all goes as scheduled in spring, 1973, Carr will remain on Skylab 56 days to study medical effects of prolonged space flight on man, to study the sun and the possibility of use of solar energy and for a more exact study of the earth's atmosphere.

ALSO SPEAKING at the meeting were Dr. Martha Dunlap, assistant director of the Cooperative Extension, and Mrs. Helen Turner, acting department head, Home Economics, University of Illinois. Their topic was the Extension and the role of the homemaker in today's world.

Workshops were also included in the two-day meeting, and Homemakers were briefed on bills before Congress dealing with consumerism. During the business meeting, Mrs. Peter Sneezy, Lake County, was elected as a director from District II which includes Cook County.

Local Homemakers at the meeting, held on the campus of the University of Illinois, included Council Member Mrs. William Ryan of Mount Prospect. Mrs. Dorothy Landgraf, Cook County Extension Advisor from the Des Moines office, was also present as were council members, Mrs. Marvin Dunteman, Barrington, and Mrs. Frank Kronn and Mrs. Marie Davids, Northbrook.

The Potting Shed by Mary B. Good

This week's mail brings interesting news for gardeners.

The University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service, for example, is planning an unusual course next month for those who want to do something about their landscaping and yards.

It's a three-session course to be taught via TeleNet, which is a conference phone system that allows class members to gather at various sites around the state. Anyone interested in enrolling needn't worry about having to travel very far;

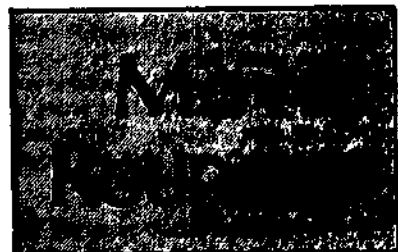

he or she can attend the TeleNet site nearest home.

In this area the sessions will be held at 201 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights, on March 6, 13 and 20. Classes start at 7 p.m.

Floyd Giles and William R. Nelson, University of Illinois extension horticulturists, will be teaching the course from the Urbana TeleNet site. Instruction will center around sets of colored slides showing landscaping examples, according to Giles. Each location will have duplicate sets and will view them simultaneously.

There's a registration fee of $6. That includes copies of Extension Service circulars on "Landscaping Your Home" and "Pruning and Care of Evergreen and Deciduous Trees and Shrubs" to be used for assignments.

You can obtain more information about this unusual course by calling the Extension Service Office, CL 3-6460.

Another workshop program is scheduled at the Botanic Garden of the Chicago Horticultural Society at Edens Expressway between Dundee and Lake Cook roads this next Tuesday.

This one is on the use of dried plant materials. The two programs, one from 10 a.m. till noon and the other from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., will be presented by staff botanist Betty Storch.

Mrs. Storch will explain where and when to collect materials for drying, how to prepare and store them and also demonstrate unusual ways to make these plant materials look as if they are still alive. Included will be the collection and preservation of ferns and pressed materials and techniques for making wall hangings and plaques.

Mrs. Storch will explain the drying and use of fruits and vegetables as well as flowers.

You must register in advance. There is a $4 fee for non-members and cost to Horticultural Society members is $3. Register by calling Fran Whittin 322-2068.

Dear Dorothy: Is there anything we can do about a slick surface on a blackboard so that we can write on it legibly with chalk? Our board is so slick the chalk just squeaks across it and does not write clearly.

It depends on the type of board. If it's slate, it comes clean when rubbed with the very finest sandpaper or steel wool. Sometimes the marks can be taken off with a regular pencil eraser, then completely washed. One reader tried everything she had heard of with no luck and then resorted to that old faithful, baking soda. She reported the blackboard came out as good as new. If it's a composition board with a finish over it, it can be painted with regular blackboard paint.

Dear Dorothy: How does one broil steak so that it isn't dry after it is cooked? My family likes steak well done and the steak comes out very dry.—Mrs. J. H.

You can't have it both ways. Well done steak is always going to be dryer than steak cooked rare or medium rare. Very choice or prime steaks may come out a bit juicier than other kinds when cooked well done. Try the trick a friend uses on her family to make them think it is more well done than she likes it. She barely smears a little butter or margarine over the surface of the meat so it browns a little faster than otherwise. You might try it once.

Good tip for all hospitals: A hospital in Wisconsin beams closed circuit television to patients' rooms, covering 10 subjects important for patients to understand, such as surgery procedures, physical therapy, nutrition and so forth. It sounds like a real help at a difficult time.

"Club 23 — Skidoo," the all-amateur show written, produced, directed and performed by members of the Des Moines Ladies of Elks, will be the entertainment for the organizations Roaring '20s Party Saturday evening. The show will feature an all "would-be star cast" of 25, according to Ernie Steuart, master of ceremonies.

The evening will begin with dinner at 7:30 p.m. and the show will go on at 9. Dancing to Jimmy Gross and his Barjo Band will begin at 10 o'clock.

The Ladies of Elks, a charitable organization active in Des Moines for over 30 years, will use the profits from the party to give a nursing scholarship to a local girl. The scholarship program was instituted more than 28 years ago.

Next On The Agenda

TERRACE TOPS

Barbara Mitchell, administrative secretary of the Division of Consumer Fraud and Protection north area office, will speak at the Feb. 21 meeting of the Terrace TOPS. Miss Mitchell will alert her audience to the tactics employed by the "gyp artist." Her talk will be followed by a question and answer session.

The meeting will be held at the Des Moines Federal Home, 1717 Rand Rd., Des Moines, at 8:45 p.m.

Terrace TOPS invites present and prospective members to attend.

POINT NORTH ORT
Barbara Mitchell of the Division of Consumer Fraud and Protection will be guest speaker for the Point North Chapter of Women's American ORT Tuesday.

The chapter will meet at 8:30 p.m. at Indian Boundary Park Field House, Lunt and Rockwell, Chicago. Miss Mitchell will inform members how to avoid the pitfalls of fraudulent consumer operations.

ORT (Organization for Rehabilitation Training), a charitable group, assists poverty-stricken Jewish people by helping them to obtain training in a marketable skill so they may become employed and thereby help themselves.

Briefly On Business

DeSoto, Inc., of Des Plaines, has reported sales for the year ended December 31, of $214,027,137, down 0.7 per cent from sales of $215,621,168 in 1970. Income after taxes amounted to $4,401,704, a decrease of 13.5 per cent from 1970.

Earnings per share were $0.63 on the 5,408,802 average shares outstanding during the year, compared to $0.66 earned in 1970, the company said in a statement.

Sales declines of 4.2 per cent and 2.3 per cent were recorded in the chemical and home furnishings groups. The decline in the company's chemical group is attributed to the sale of the Sonneborn unit in May, 1971, and a small reduction in the sales of chemical coatings. The furniture group introduced several new products with the result being a 6.8 per cent increase over 1970, the company said.

The chemical group experienced slightly lower earnings; the home furnishings group sustained a substantially greater loss, and the furniture group showed a marked improvement in profit as compared to the previous year, according to DeSoto.

B. A. Malin, chairman of the board of DeSoto, said that in 1972, the company is building a 230,000 square foot warehouse in Jackson, Miss., to facilitate increased sales in the Furniture Group. He also said a new lighting fixture and lamp plant is planned for the Los Angeles area to handle the west coast requirements of these product lines.

DeSoto is a diversified manufacturer of consumer paints and industrial chemical coatings, laundry detergents, dining room, bedroom and ready-to-finish furniture, wood cabinets, residential lighting fixtures and lamps, fireplace furnishings and wallcoverings.

George E. Keck, former president of United Air Lines, has been elected to the board of directors of The Richardson Company.

The Des Plaines-based company has interests in specialty chemicals, graphic arts materials, consulting and environmental engineering services, plastics, and engineered industrial materials and parts. Keck was elected to fill a vacancy on Richardson's 11-man board of directors.

Keck is a director of Sears, Roebuck & Co., Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Company, International Harvester Co. and Conill Corporation.

Active in civic and business organizations, Keck is a member of the Board of Directors of the Mid America Chapter of the American National Red Cross and a Trustee of Northwestern University. He is a member of the Mid America Club, Commercial Club, Chicago Club, International Club and Wings Club.

Keck resides in Inverness. His wife Harriet (Clayton) died in 1971. He has two children: Leslie Ann (Mrs. John Harzog) and Georgia (Mrs. E. S. Witherpoon).

The appointment of Richard L. Hoover, as Chicago district sales manager of the Toilettes Division of the Gillette Company, has been announced. His office is located at 2720 River Rd., Des Plaines.

Hoover is a native of Louisville, Ky., and attended the University of Louisville. Before being named to his present post he was district sales manager in Minneapolis. He previously was a Gillette Toilettes sales representative in Louisville, special accounts representative in Chicago and assistant to the New York regional manager.

He is married to the former Norma Lee Kays of Louisville. The Hoovers, who live at 708 Deer Lane, Dundee, have two children, Terri, 12, and Kelly, 9.

The appointment of William E. Schwabe as credit manager of Apex Smelting Co., Inc. has been announced by Daniel M. Moenich, president of Apex. Apex is a subsidiary of AMAX Aluminum Co., Inc.

A graduate of the University of Illinois, Schwabe most recently served as regional credit manager of Symons Corporation. He lives in Buffalo Grove with his wife, Jeanne, and two children.

Apex, with headquarters in Des Plaines and plants in Chicago, Cleveland and Long Beach, California, is a producer of secondary aluminum ingot and primary zinc alloys, and a distributor of primary aluminum ingot for the die casting and foundry industries. AMAX Aluminum is a subsidiary of AMAX (American Metal Climax, Inc.).

Jerome Blaesing of Colonial Carbon Co. of Des Plaines has been elected vice chairman of the transportation and distribution group of the Skokie Valley Industrial Association for 1972.

A native Chicagoan, Blaesing received his college education while in the United States Air Force from 1952 to 1958. He then began work at Colonial Carbon in a production capacity, and subsequently was promoted to production scheduling/inventory control supervisor. Recently, he has been given the additional responsibility of traffic manager.

Blaesing and his family live in Rolling Meadows.

The Skokie Valley Industrial Association is engaged in activities relating to education, safety, plant security, general and public transportation, recreation, and problems relating to transportation and distribution, purchasing, production, industrial safety, personnel and finance.

Scouting News

Troop 63 of South School held charter night with a court of honor at South Park Fieldhouse Sunday evening Feb. 13, with parents in attendance.

The meeting opened with the presentation of colors by the Flaming Arrows Patrol. Scoutmaster Pat Conway presented the following awards: Herb Altermatt, senior patrol leader; Gary Rice, troop librarian; Lennie Carlson, troop scribe; and Ron Voyda, troop quartermaster. Tenderfoot badges were received by James Bond, Dick Gearhart, Lennie Carlson and Tim Voyda.

Second class badges were received by Gary Rice and Ron Voyda. First class badges were received by Herb and Steve Altermatt. The mothers of the tenderfoot, first and second class scouts were presented duplicate pins.

Merit badges were awarded to Dave Self, cooking-camping; Herb Altermatt, swimming; Jeff Rice, swimming. New patrol leaders and their assistants were named: Rattlesnakes - Dave Self and Tim Voyda; Flaming Arrows - Ron Voyda and Ted Johnson; T-Birds - Steve Altermatt and Gary Rice. Steve Altermatt and Ron Voyda received recruiter badges. Ron Voyda received his tote and chip.

IR Representative Don Brooks and Neighborhood Commissioner Steve Tuhy presented the charter to the South School PTA. The O. A. Indians from the Order of the Arrows, Lakota Lodge 175, put on a magnificent Indian dance show.

Scoutmaster Pat Conway introduced the boys from the newly formed Explorer Post 63 and their Post Advisor Steve Tuhy. The new Explorers are Criss Cokrowski, Pat Conway, Mike Conway, Bob Martino and Jeff Rice. Organizers pins were presented to Mr. Batey and Mr. Rasmussen for forming Troop 63. Mr. J. Self was presented a Boy Scout tie bar for the hours he has donated to the troop. Skits were presented by the Flaming Arrows, T-Birds, and the Explorers. After the colors were retired the mother's auxiliary served refreshments.

Jefferson Park-Randhurst Bus?

A proposed bus run from the Jefferson Park Chicago Transit Authority Terminal to the Randhurst Shopping in Mount Prospect is being considered by the Randhurst Corp. and the Village of Mount Prospect. The bus will be primarily intended for shoppers.

The bus run, which would first be operated on a trial basis, would include two stops in Chicago, two in Park Ridge, and one in Des Plaines and Mount Prospect. The fares would be 35, 45 or 50 cents a ride.

According to a tentative schedule drawn up by the United Motor Coach Co. of Des Plaines, there would be seven daily trips to Randhurst and eight leaving Randhurst.

The plan was proposed by John Hanck, vice president and general manager of United Motor Coach.

HANCK, SAID yesterday the proposal "is worth a try." He said his firm came up with the idea and is "all for it."

"It is something we've been kicking

Students Can Cut Class - Legally

by WANDALYN RICE

A student comes into class, goes up to his teacher and asks, "Can I S-I-S today?"

The question is part of a code at Elk Grove High School and if the teacher says yes, the questioning student is free to leave the class and go to the library, resource center, the foyer by the cafeteria or, if it's a sunny spring day, outside to sit on the lawn.

A student must find out what happened in the class he missed, and he is not supposed to go back and bother the teacher to do it. But once he has taken S-I-S, he is free to do what he wants during that period.

SIS means Self-Imposed Scheduling. It has been operating at the high school since it opened six years ago under the direction of Lowell Simmer, a counselor.

"ONE THING we find out with SIS," Simmer said, "is that kids need us a lot less than we'd like them to need us."

STUDIES DONE by the high school ever since the program started show that students using SIS do not get lower grades than those who do not, he said.

around for some time," Hanck said. In a letter to Mount Prospect Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley, Hanck said the hourly cost of $8, less fares collected, would be shared equally by the village, Randhurst and United Motor Coach.

Mount Prospect Mayor Robert D. Teichert said yesterday that from the way the route of the bus is set up — Randhurst being an end point — it seems the purpose is to increase the village's sales tax base. Therefore it would seem logical, he said, to have the village share in the cost of the operation.

Hanck said he feels the program will work "because we know the number of calls we have been getting from people asking if there is such a bus."

Harold J. Carlson, vice-president and general manager of the Randhurst Corp., yesterday said he has submitted the proposal "in detail" to his board of directors; however, he has yet to receive any feedback from them. He said part of his problem is that many of the directors are often out of town.

Looking ahead though, he said one big problem the plan would have would be publicity, letting people know about the bus.

"Right now we're playing guessing games as to the number of riders we will be getting," Carlson said. "I personally am very excited about the proposal."

THE VILLAGE HAS given the proposal to its fire and police committee for study. This committee is also studying the results of a Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce Transportation study and the recent experimental bus program in the village during the Christmas shopping season.

Hanck has suggested the plan be implemented for two or three months. However, should the first month indicate that ridership will be a lot less than anticipated or hoped for, Hanck wants it set-up so that the operation can be terminated then by mutual agreement.

Falcons' Overall Strength Turns Meet Into Runaway

by PAUL LOGAN
Swimming Editor

You're always hearing about the one-two punch in sport. Such a demonstration took place many times Friday night.

Forest View, as awesome a team as there ever was in the Mid-Suburban League, showed such strength in the conference swim meet at Olympic Pool.

Falcon swimmers and divers finished first and third in four events, first and fourth in two others and second and fourth in another. They also took second and third in two other events.

When you add the pair of overpowering relay victories in the opening and closing events, you come up with a collective knockout punch to the jaw of the rest of the league.

This dazzling display of league dominance by Coach Gordon Aukerman's senior-laden team led to numerous conference records and an all-time total point mark of 109. The nearest team, Arlington, was 41 points behind.

To insure a second outright title in three years, Aukerman knew his team had to do more than just take firsts in eight of the 11 events. His Falcons didn't let him down.

"I thought we got some good performances out of our second swimmers which was a necessity in order for us to score," said Aukerman. "In my mind this was the big question — how well our second swimmers would do. I thought they came through almost without exception."

Names like Pete Lenkeit, Norb Polacek, Kent Higgins, Fred Westdale and Craig Hippensteel haven't captured the headlines this year, but those were the young men Aukerman was very pleased with. Those were some of the more prominent men in the trenches.

Because of their extra efforts, the rest of the MSL teams finished in this order — Arlington 68, Elk Grove 45, Prospect 37, Hersey 17, Wheeling 10 and Rolling Meadows 0.

"In terms of highlights, I would say the overall performance of the team would be it instead of singling out anyone in particular," said Aukerman. Then he had second thoughts.

"Although (John) Mate's swimming of the butterfly . . . I don't think you can overlook it in terms of overall accomplishment," he said. "He wasn't top-seeded; in fact, he was nearly a second behind the best seed time. He just swam a helluva race, you can't deny the kid that."

Mate's upset finish of :57.0, six-tenths of a second ahead of favored Mike Kinn of Elk Grove, was the only surprise finish by Forest View. The rest of the Falcon firsts were expected.

Cliff Schlak and Mark Bailey each had a pair of firsts. Schlak won the 200 freestyle (1:50.5) and the 400 freestyle (4:02.0); Bailey captured the 50 free (:23.3) and the 100 free (:51.5).

Bailey just missed setting conference records in both events, but Schlak succeeded in besting both marks set last year by Arlington's Steve Jurco. Mate's effort was also good enough to top the mark of Arlington's Tom Rowe.

Forest View's other two new marks were accomplished by the relay teams. The 200 medley (Jeff Geisler, Westdale, Mate and Bailey) won in 1:45.5; the 400 freestyle (Lenkeit, Mate, Polacek and Schlak) romped home in 3:31.0.

Forest View also won diving behind the runaway performance of Jim Johnson. He missed the league high by just seven points while rolling up a total of 438.00 points, 83 more than his nearest challenger.

Schlak and Bailey weren't alone, however, when it came to being a double winner. Elk Grove's Dave Toler was the only other athlete to turn the trick. Toler bettered his own mark in the individual medley (2:09.0) and topped the record of Arlington's Jeff Burling in the breaststroke (1:07.0).

Charlie Dunn, a very talented sophomore for Arlington, bettered the record he set last year in the breaststroke (:58.4).

The top finishers from the other four schools were as follows:

Prospect — Rick Fox with second in the 50 freestyle (:24.0), Hersey — a pair of fifths by Mike Richartz in the 50 freestyle (:24.2) and Allen Zasadny in diving (281.05), Wheeling — a fifth by Ken Bergman in the breaststroke (1:11.8) and Rolling Meadows — a seventh in diving by Mike Touhey (202.90).

The MSL conference meet should be much more competitive next year for the bulk of the Falcon team is graduating. Most of this group captured the first league championship as sophomores two years ago. Last year they were undefeated in duals but finished second in the conference meet and had to share the title with Arlington.

"They seem to have gotten the idea that all we had to do was show up and they'd hand us the trophy," said Aukerman of last year's co-championship. "We got dumped."

"To see them come back after last year's tie and do the job so completely, I don't think they left anything to be desired in terms of what they accomplished. I'm just real proud of them," added Aukerman.

Marmion Wins Final Event, Title

Race To Wire . . . But Lions Falter

by PAUL LOGAN
Swimming Editor

When a swim team breaks a relay record by over seven seconds, the losing coaches should investigate the foursome to see if any carried concealed miniature motors.

St. Viator coach John Fleck didn't frisk the Marmion Military Academy relay team Saturday, but he probably shook his head a little when the Cadets registered a dazzling 3:25.73 in the 400-yard freestyle event.

Along with motoring to one of the better marks in the state, the hosting Cadets also slipped away with a two-point victory over the Lions and the Suburban Catholic Conference championship at Aurora.

"We were out in front until event No. 4 — the 50 free — and then they out-timed us in diving," recalled the Lions' young coach. "Going into the second half of the meet, we were 11 points down."

Then St. Viator, a perennial conference champion, showed it had the stuff which great teams are made of by coming back. Jim Wolf's third (1:01.0) and Monte McCollum's fourth (1:01.8) in the butterfly got the team started. The same places were recorded by Jeff Iversen (:53.6) and Dick Fitzsimmons (:53.8) in the 100 freestyle.

A 2-3 finish by Mike Schroeder (4:16.0) and Ed Fitzsimmons (4:22.2) in the 400 freestyle then set the stage for St. Viator's two aces — Mike Salerno and Randy Robertson.

Salerno captured first in the backstroke (:57.3) and Mark Savage was right behind (1:01.8) for a 1-2 slam. That put their team just one point behind.

Robertson matched Salerno's performance with another first in the breaststroke (1:06.8). Kevin Szarabak was fourth (1:08.1).

"After the breast we were two points up," said Fleck. "Then it went down to the last relay."

St. Viator, owner of a 3:32.9 conference record in this relay, needed a win to insure victory. The Lions — Iversen, Ed and Dick Fitzsimmons and Savage — bettered the former mark with a 3:30.8, but it wasn't enough.

The relay event was close heading into the third swimmer. Then Dan Kinney gave the Cadets' anchor man a lengthy lead with a brilliant (:49.0) split for 100 yards, over three seconds faster than the winning time in the 100-yard freestyle event.

"It turned into a dual meet, really, between us and Marmion," said Fleck, although the meet had five teams competing. "The other teams didn't help us in any way."

St. Viator dove in front at the start when the 200 medley relay team of Salerno, Robertson, Wolf and Bob Rathmann clocked a 1:46.83. This was one of two SCC meet marks that the Lions set. The other was by Salerno in the backstroke.

Then Marmion won the next four events — 200 freestyle (Gary Brock, 1:53.99), 200 individual medley (Ned McCrink, 2:12.27), 50 freestyle (Kinney, :23.48) and diving (Chris Petit, 448.65).

After a Notre Dame swimmer won the butterfly, Marmion followed with the 100 freestyle (Rick Lyons, :52.02) and the 400 freestyle (Gary Brock, 4:07.02). The Cadets won seven titles in all.

"Their kids went their personal bests all the way down the line," pointed out Fleck. "Our kids just haven't come up with their personal bests yet."

"All I can say is that Marmion was sky-high. They were after us. They were the underdogs. They were sky-high . . . maybe we weren't."

Rounding out the rest of the finishers for St. Viator were these athletes:

200 freestyle — Iversen in third (1:58.2) and Ed Fitzsimmons in fifth (2:01.4), 200 individual medley — Savage in second (2:14.6) and Salerno in fourth (2:18.4), 50 freestyle — Robertson in fifth (:24.0) and Dick Fitzsimmons in sixth (:24.4) and diving — Jeff Hansen in third and Tom Ponsot in fourth.

The final team totals went like this — Marmion 90, St. Viator 88, Notre Dame 42, Marist 23 and St. Patrick 21.

Velasco Wins Coaches Net At River Trails Center

Fernando Velasco of Niles West High School (Skokie) won the first annual Chicago-Area Coaches' tennis tournament Friday night on the River Trails Tennis Center indoor courts by defeating Chuck Morrison of Deerfield, 6-4.

The event attracted 25 coaches from all sections of Chicagoland to the new six-court layout south of Mount Prospect. All matches were one-set.

Velasco, a native of Venezuela who played at Eastern Illinois University, reached the final with a 6-4 squeaker the Northwest's top threat, Ken Schaller of Arlington. Morrison upended No. 1 seed Keith Anderson of Evanston, 6-2, to qualify for the finale.

Two other Northwest contenders, Roger King of Maine West and Doug Tolman of Forest View, won their way to the quarterfinals before bowing to Velasco and Schaller, respectively.

"Coaches' Night" participants included Rudy Witsman, coach of Oak Park's state champions; Rev. Ed Moosbrugger of St. Ignatius (Chicago), dean of area tennis mentors; Joanne Pepe of Morton College, believed to be the area's only woman coaching a men's tennis team; Tom Pitchford of Arlington, Neal Peterson and Don Biere of Rolling Meadows, Roy Kearns of Harper College and Hughes Davis of perennially strong New Trier East.

Early-round results:

First round — Paul Tulacka (Morton College) over Paul Nemecek (La Grange), 6-4; Jim Rees (Downers Grove South) over Kearns, 6-1; Morrison over Dan Hildebrandt (Lake Park), 6-1; Schaller over Harold Anderson (Thornridge), 6-1; Tolman over John Macarek (Lake Park), 6-1; King over Dennis Wade (Hillcrest), 6-1.

Quarterfinals — Anderson over Tulacka, 6-4; Morrison over Rees, 7-5; Schaller over Tolman, 6-4; Velasco over King, 6-2.

Maine East Rules Track Triangular

Chris Bednarowicz won two events to pace Maine East to an indoor track meet victory over Elk Grove and Maine North Tuesday in the winner's fieldhouse.

Maine East scored 70 points, edging Elk Grove's 62. Maine North had 15.

Bednarowicz nabbed first place in the two-mile run with a 9:48.5 and won the 1,000-yard run with a 2:24.5.

John Lovasz of East took second place in the two-mile with a 9:57.8, Gary Marshak of East was second in 5:58.5 and Kerry Arko of Maine North was fourth in 10:00.5.

Elk Grove's Frank Taucher took first place in the 50-yard high hurdles by a wide margin, four-tenths of a second. Taucher's time was 6.6 and teammate Dave Jensen was second in 7.0, Joe Cosentino was third for Maine East with a 7.1 and Bob Schueller was third for the Demons in 7.6.

Jim Szabo of North won the 50-yard dash in 6.6 and Elk Grove's Steve Busse was second in 6.05. Third place went to Dave Lampert in 6.1 for East and teammate Dean Granat was fourth in 6.15.

Mike Bell captured first place in the 880-yard run with a 2:05.6 and Pat Moyer was second in 2:05.7 for East. Tom Boggs was third for Elk Grove in 2:10.1 and Ken Kirby of North was fourth in 2:18.1.

Elk Grove took first place in the four-lap relay in 1:18.3 with Jensen, Taucher, Warren Jacobsen and Busse. Maine East was second in 1:19.3.

First place in the 440-yard dash went to Jim Hickey of Elk Grove in 55.3. Szabo was second in 56.1. Frank Bavaro was third in 56.3 and Bob Malcolm was fourth in 56.6 for Elk Grove.

Marshak was second to Bednarowicz in the 1,000-yard run with a 2:33.3 and Arko was third in 2:42.7. Busse won the 50-yard low hurdles in 6.3, Taucher was second in 6.4, Jensen was third in 6.45 and Cosentino was fourth in 7.0.

Damian Archbold won the mile run in 4:31.0 for Elk Grove as Maine East swept the next three places. Mike Seifert was second in 4:33.0, Rick Phalen was third in 4:39.5 and Lovasz was fourth in 4:41.7.

The mile relay was won by Elk Grove in 3:41.0 with Boggs, Bravero, Malcolm and Hickey. Maine East was second in 3:41.4.

Lampert won the long jump with a 19-8, Taucher was second with an 18-3/4, Castles was third for East with an 18-2/4 and Jensen was fourth with a 17-3/4.

Mike Smith took first place in the high jump with a 6-1 for East, Jacobsen was second with a 5-10 and East's Jeff Schroeder was third with 5-6. Ken Wolf won the shot put for East with a 45-10/4 as Elk Grove took the remaining three places. Jeff Dziubla was second with a 45-5/4, Jim Leopardo was third with a 45-3 and Rom Campopiano was fourth with a 42-9/4.

Rick Gurolnick won the pole vault with a 12-0 for East. Bruce Peepers of Elk Grove was second with a 10-0, Dan Rachke was third for North with a 9-6 and Gary Gatzke was fourth for North with a 9-6.

In the sophomore meet, Maine East scored 88 points, Maine North 23 and Elk Grove 13. On the freshman level, Maine East had 85, Elk Grove 16 and Maine North 13.

Golden Retriever owners busy —

This Sunday, Feb. 20, the Golden Retriever Club of Illinois will hold its Spring Sanctioned Field Trial at Illinois Beach State Park in Zion. The stakes begin at 8 a.m., and run throughout the day. For more information about the event, contact Warren Friberg at 299-3163.

Friday evening, Feb. 25, the club will hold a monthly business meeting at Camelot Park, Brighton Road, Arlington Heights, starting at 8 p.m. The program will include a discussion of the present and proposed revisions in the breed standard.

The club invites all those interested in showing, obedience, field trials, hunting and in just plain owning a Golden Retriever to attend.

Dog book for the thinking man —

From the cave to the condominium apartment, dogs have been sharing man's home for 10,000 years. But for as much attention love and money as man devotes to his dog, he knows astonishingly little about what goes on in his head.

A new book published by Coward, McCann & Geoghegan, titled "Understanding Your Dog" by Dr. Michael W. Fox, a gifted young veterinarian and psychologist, tells everything you ever wanted to know about your dog — but obviously couldn't ask him.

Dr. Fox gets inside the dog's mind and explains how his brain develops and how he communicates. By explaining the evolutionary, psychological and physiological roots of a dog's behavior, Dr. Fox makes it very apparent that the dog, an extremely social animal like his cousin and probable progenitor, the wolf, is indeed very "human" sometimes uncannily so.

Having a definite personality and temperament, a distinct and highly developed intelligence and a subtle and intricate system of silent communication, dogs also have hangups usually thought to be exclusive to man.

Advanced tracking test —

Rand Park Dog Training Club of Des Plaines will hold its third sanctioned advanced tracking test this coming Sunday, Feb. 20, at the Twin Ponds Hunt Club, Algonquin, starting at 9 a.m.

Open to dogs that have an A.K.C. Tracking Dog title, it will give handlers and spectators a chance to observe tracking work at its best.

One of the most important parts of advanced tracking is the dog's ability to stay on the scent of the original tracklayer, even though he may have to cross or run alongside a track put down by a conflicting tracklayer.

Barks & Bays —

Skiers take note — you don't have all the fun. A longhaired Dachshund named "Schmaltzie," owned by Dr. H. C. Harding, Portland, Ore., has 42-inch skis and regularly takes off down the slopes with the doctor.

Helen Lutsch Sweeps Senior Women's Class

The Mount Prospect Skating Club participated in the two-day Land of Lincoln Meet sponsored by the Champaign-Urbana Skating Club at the University of Illinois Rink in Champaign.

This meet is the largest indoor meet sponsored by an Illinois club and heralds the move from the outdoor season to the indoor season. Since it is an open meet, competitors come from many other states to tune up for the National Indoor Championships that will be held in St. Louis on March 11-12.

Senior lady Helen Lutsch swept her class with wins in the one-mile, 3/4-mile, and 1/2-mile events and a third place finish in the 440-yard sprint.

The intermediate boys class was well represented with Steve Pedersen, Todd Jonland, Bob Haensch, and Dick Robertson competing for medals. Dick Robertson had several falls which kept him out of his final events. Teammates Pedersen and Jonland skated well, but not quite good enough to make the finals in this very competitive class. Bob Haensch placed third in his one-mile race and second in the 3/4-mile event. A fall in the 800 and a disqualification in the 440-yard sprint kept him from contending for the class championship.

Greg Robertson, competing in Class A for the first time, missed making all of his finals by one position. The club expects him to be scoring points in the near future.

The juvenile boys class was represented by Eric Jonland, Tommy Grunah, National Outdoor Champion, and Rich Vehc. Grunah scored fourth place positions in the 880 and 1/6th-mile races and a second in the 1/3-mile event. While coming up fast on the leader in the 440-yard race, he went up on his toes and fell in the final turn. Vehc skated easily through his heats, but had his problems in the semi-finals. In his 1/6th-mile final he placed fifth to miss scoring points.

Juvenile girl Joan Wagner, competing for the first year in her class, scored her first points with a thrilling third-place finish in the 1/6th-mile race.

The club will travel next weekend to Park Ridge for the State Indoor Championships on Saturday and to the Northwestern University Rink on Sunday for a meet sponsored by the Evanston Speed Skating Club.

FORMER TEAMMATES, now rivals. Forest View's Cliff Schlak, left, discusses the 400-yard freestyle race with Scott Bolin, last week in the Mid-Suburban League conference meet. Schlak, an ex-teammate of Bolin at Elk Grove, won the event in record time (4:02.0) with Bolin finishing second (4:05.5). Schlak, who transferred last fall, led his team to the title.

STEVE ALLEN, a Mount Prospect resident, was one of more than 125 students who yesterday registered to vote during a one-day special registration at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights. The registration, aimed at signing up 18 to 21-year-old voters in time to vote in the March 21 primaries, was sponsored by the Cook County clerk's office. Deadline for registration is Feb. 21.

Students Can Cut Class—Legally

Generally, Simmer said, "D students continue to get D's, C students continue to get C's." Last semester more than 1,000 students had SIS privileges for at least some of their classes.

The students must have permission from their teachers to leave class on any given day, Simmer said, and the administration will allow any student with teacher permission to be in SIS, whether he is an "A" student or an average student.

Simmer said even though many students are eligible for SIS, they don't seem to use it as much as they might. A recent survey of teachers showed that only about 50 per cent of their SIS students used the privilege regularly.

"WHEN WE pointed that out to the kids, they said they don't want to be structured into using free time," Simmer said. "They want to make the choice of whether to use it or not. They don't want to be forced to be free."

The students do have guidelines when they use SIS, Simmer said. They are not supposed to leave a class the last 10 minutes of a period and they are not allowed to leave campus while on SIS.

Some teachers, Simmer said, including "some of our best teachers," will not allow students to use SIS in their classes.

"Some classes don't lend themselves to SIS," Simmer said. "It's hard to learn typing or the first two years of a foreign language if you aren't in class."

ON THE OTHER HAND, Simmer said, some teachers put their whole class on SIS and have only small groups come in each day. "It provides a lot of flexibility for creative teachers," he said.

Despite the fact that theoretically about 1,000 students could be "running around loose" at any given time during the day, Elk Grove High is not any noisier than any other school.

"We've had no discipline problems with SIS," Simmer said.

Elk Grove is the only high school in Dist. 214 that has SIS, he said, although it originally started at Prospect High School when Elk Grove Assistant Principal Donald Fyle was there.

IN THE SIX YEARS Elk Grove has had the program, Simmer said, "none of the other high schools have even sent people here to look at it."

Nevertheless, Elk Grove plans to continue the program, which, Simmer said, "gives the students the opportunity to take more responsibility for their own education. So often in education, we put a kid on a bus from kindergarten through high school and plan their days for them, tell them when to eat and when to stop eating and then tell them they don't take responsibility."

Amy Huebert Case Set In Colorado

The battle for custody of 24-year-old Amy Huebert was taken to the Colorado courts Monday when an El Paso County District Court held a five-hour closed-door hearing on motions filed by Amy's adoptive parents and natural mother.

Paula Marshall, 2234 Goebeert Rd., Arlington Heights, appeared before Colorado District Court Judge John P. Gallagher seeking the return of the child to her from Mr. and Mrs. Barry Huebert, the adoptive parents who have had custody of Amy since she was 13 days old.

Alice Bright and Sylvia Decker, attorneys for Mrs. Marshall, filed a writ of habeas corpus Monday asking the court to determine the legality of why Amy is being held by the Hueberts after Illinois courts demanded the child be returned to her natural mother.

However, attorneys for the Hueberts Monday asked the court to throw out Mrs. Marshall's writ on the grounds it was deficient in wording. They also asked that a summary judgment be made in favor of the Hueberts prior to a full hearing date before the Colorado juvenile court scheduled for April 24.

All motions filed Monday were taken under advisement by Judge Gallagher for a determination later.

Both the Hueberts were present at the hearing, although Mrs. Huebert became ill and was forced to leave the room. She gave birth to her first natural child, a son named Marc Adam last week.

THE HUEBERTS were found in contempt of court Dec. 27 by Cook County Circuit Court Judge Helen McGillicuddy for refusing to return Amy to Mrs. Marshall as they had been ordered to do by her Dec. 14.

At that time, Judge McGillicuddy upheld a decision of the Illinois Appellate Court which annulled the adoption of Amy by the Hueberts and found that Mrs. Marshall had been defrauded and under duress when she gave up the child.

Mrs. Marshall's attorneys are now asking that Colorado courts uphold the decisions of the Illinois courts, claiming Colorado Courts have no jurisdiction over Mrs. Marshall.

The Hueberts had initiated action with the Colorado juvenile court to have Amy declared a dependent and neglected child and have final custody granted to them.

The Hueberts first gained custody of Amy when they resided in Evanston, then moved to Colorado Springs when Barry Huebert accepted a college teaching position there.

Real Estate Transfers Are Listed

Des Plaines Free Will Baptist Church Inc. purchased the property at 1772 S. Cora, Des Plaines, from Vincent J. Bolger for $28,000, it was announced in the latest monthly Maine Township real estate transfer report from County Recorder Sidney R. Olsen. There were 42 sales in Des Plaines.

Olsen recorded the following property transfers for the township. The list shows the purchase price of equity and does not include the amount of a mortgage which the purchaser may have assumed. The price is indicated by the amount of state revenue stamps on the document ($1 in stamps for each $1,000 of market value).
